Escapers Believed Armed and 'Extremely Dangerous'

Murder Suspect Still At Large

"BIENVENU A L'UNIVERSITE DE VICTORIA, Monsieur le Premier" was the greeting of Dr. Malcolm Taylor when he welcomed Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec this morning. Following a press conference Dr. Taylor introduced the Quebec leader to 2,000 students in what Mr. Lesage later said was "most excellent French, which made me happy." Two other speeches were scheduled for the premier following his Uvic appearance. At noon he addressed the Canadian Club.

Courts Can't Decide Offshore Oil: Lesage

By JIM HUME

Genial Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec has a sore spot.

Offshore rights. He told 2,000 high school and university students this morning that the federal government's decision to call on the Supreme Court of Canada for a decision on the problem was urged on him some years ago when he was federal minister of northern affairs.

"My advisers urged me then to send the matter to the Supreme Court," he said in answer to a question from the floor of the University of Victoria gymnasium. "But I refused. My stand at that time is the same as the stand I take today. The Supreme Court of Canada has no jurisdiction in this area. We have a constitution and the constitution is quite clear.

"When I was minister of northern affairs for the same party now in power I refused to submit the matter to the court as a federalist."

Mr. Lesage noted that he was by training a "constitution lawyer."

Of Canada's 10 provinces only two—Alberta and Saskatchewan—have declined to take a stand on the offshore rights issue.

Earlier, during a pre-speech

press conference, Mr. Lesage declined detailed comment on Prime Minister Pearson's pledge to introduce a new proposal for education grants to the provinces.

"I have said before that until I see the proposals in detail I cannot comment," Mr. Lesage said. "But it is likely that we would opt out of such a program and ask for a fiscal rebate in place of the grant system."

Mr. Lesage took the same stand when asked for his opinion on the Pearson plan to spend $500 million over a 15-year period on health resources.

ANGER GREET'S FUND

OTTAWA (CP)—Health ministers of the provinces expressed astonishment, disappointment, and some anger at the opening of a two-day federal-provincial conference today at a federal government announcement that it plans to earmark $500,000,000 for improvement of medical training and other resources during the next 15 years.

The announcement was made in a press release issued by Prime Minister Pearson at the time the scheduled conference began with Health Minister Judy LaMarsh presiding.

Ministers representing Liberal, Conservative and Social Credit provincial governments said they were surprised that the $500,000,000 figure was set by the federal government before hearing provincial views at the meeting. One of the purposes of this week's meeting was to receive reports from the provinces on their needs for improved medical resources on introduction of universal medical care insurance.

The government's $500,000,000 proposal would amount to about $33,000,000 a year. Federal hospital construction grants to the provinces in the current fiscal year are placed at $20,000,000 in the government's main estimates.

One of the stated purposes of the proposed fund is to provide federal capital grants for hospital construction.

Attorney-General R. A. Donahoe, who is also health minister of Nova Scotia, said he was surprised that the decision was taken "before we even arrived here."

Health Minister Matthew Dymally of Ontario said that at the federal-provincial conference of premiers two months ago, Prime Minister Pearson said no decision could be taken on the amount of the grants until provincial views were heard.

Health Minister G. L. DuMont of New Brunswick said he was "a bit surprised—I'm astonished" that the figure was set at $500,000,000, adding "there may have been consultation but I hadn't heard of it."

BASED ON ESTIMATES

Miss LaMarsh, referring to the $500,000,000 as a "pool" of money, said the figure had been arrived at by the federal government "after consultation with the provinces over several months" and on the basis of estimates submitted to her department by medical colleges and medical associations.

David Stewart, health minister of Saskatchewan, said the fund was inadequate if it is to be distributed on the basis of provincial populations. Saskatchewan would get one-twentieth of the $33,000,000 which would be available each year, and Saskatchewan's needs are far greater.

Mr. Donahoe said Nova Scotia's immediate needs are for $30,000,000 and like amounts were required by New Brunswick and possibly Newfoundland.

This, he said, would total almost three times the amount

GOLDBERG 'seeks domination'

China Accused By U.S.

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg accused Communist China today of trying to dominate the world and said U.S. action in South Viet Nam is aimed at keeping that country from being a first victim.

He made the statement in a major policy speech to the 117-country United Nations General Assembly in which he accused Peking of seeking to change world order "by force and violence."

He also disclosed a new proposal under which the Soviet Union and the United States would agree to destroy some of their nuclear weapons.

He invited other countries to visit the U.S. experimental site for detecting nuclear explosions. It is located at Montana. The invitation was for Oct. 12 and 13. He issued the invitation to underscore U.S. willingness to negotiate a comprehensive nuclear test-ban treaty.

CELESTIAL TREATY

He proposed also that the UN begin work on a comprehensive treaty for the international exploitation of celestial bodies.

He called attention to President Johnson's program to create a "great society" in the U.S. and declared this could be applied to the UN as well. His attack on Communist China came in a defence of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

He said that Peking's present philosophy "can only lead to the most disastrous consequences for the entire world."

As to U.S. actions in South Viet Nam, he said:

"We are helping to meet this challenge because we feel it must be met. And our goals in South Viet Nam are plain and simple. We seek only to ensure the independence of South Viet Nam, its freedom from attack and opportunity for its people to determine their own future."

He said that the United States stands ready "to withdraw our forces when Communist aggression is ended and South Viet Nam is left alone to determine its own destiny in its own way by the principles of self-determination."

REAFFIRM STAND

"Above all, we seek a peaceful solution. We have repeatedly stated our willingness to enter into peaceful discussions, and I reaffirm that willingness here today."

He said that the U.S. has asked UN members "individually and collectively to use their influence to bring about such discussions. We have asked the members of the Security Council and the Secretary-General to help get such negotiations started."

Pair Flees Colquitz Jail

By DESMOND BILL

Accused murderer David Robinson was still at large early this afternoon despite a massive Island-wide manhunt.

The 24-year-old janitor, accused of the brutal sex-slaying of a 14-year-old girl, got away from Colquitz Jail with another inmate shortly after 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Authorities are still not sure exactly how they broke out.

But a spokesman for the attorney-general's department said today "it is assumed" they found "some means" to open a fire escape door that was chained and fastened with two large padlocks.

The padlocks were found intact after the breakout but authorities said the fire escape is the only way the two could have got out.

A week ago authorities foiled a plot to smuggle a gun into the prison. Police believe the gun was intended for Robinson.

Police today are acting on the assumption that Robinson and the other escapee, Stanley Heron, 19, are armed. Both men are considered extremely dangerous.

Robinson was being held in the maximum security section of the jail awaiting trial on the charge of capital murder of Susan Fresh in View Royal May 11.

Heron, who was serving a sentence for car theft, has twice before escaped from institutions. Police said he has a previous conviction for rape.

Unguarded for 2 Minutes

The escape occurred when Robinson and Heron, along with 46 other prisoners, were being returned to their cells in the west wing of the prison after supper in the dining room.

The guard counted all 48 present when they entered the west wing. He then went upstairs to the second floor to open a door that leads to their cells.

That took him about two minutes. When he returned, he found Robinson and Heron missing. He raised the alarm and all doors were immediately locked.

A spokesman said today the "only possible means" for the two prisoners to escape was through a fire escape door on the second floor landing. The fire escape door is protected by two master padlocks that require different keys to open them.

These padlocks were found to be intact after the escape. Authorities said "it is assumed" that in the time it took the guard to go up and unlock the door to the second floor, Robinson and Heron found "some means" to open the padlocked door.

A spokesman said the only evidence Robinson and Heron did get out in this way is that dust on the fire escape outside was disturbed.

He said no keys are missing.

S. Roxborough Smith, director of B.C. prisons, was at Colquitz jail this morning to "personally examine administrative and security arrangements" at the prison. He is carrying out the examination personally on the orders of Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

A week ago jail authorities found a gun hidden on the prison grounds. They believe this was part of a plot to smuggle a gun inside the prison and pass it to Robinson.

Robinson, as a maximum security prisoner, was not allowed out on the grounds with working parties. But other prisoners, who are allowed out with working parties, came in contact with Robinson inside the prison.

It would be easy for one of them to pick up a gun left at a pre-arranged spot on the prison farm by an outsider and carry it back into jail for Robinson.

Jail authorities transferred one inmate out of the prison after the discovery of the gun. He is completing his sentence at another institution.

Attempt to Smuggle Gun

The attempt to smuggle a gun into the jail makes police think that Robinson could readily obtain help from friends and may already have been supplied with a weapon.

The probability that he and his companion are armed prevented police from beating the bush surrounding the jail in the darkness shortly after the escape.

But all available Saanich policemen were called into the search overnight assisted by RCMP, Central Saanich police and city police dogmaster George Barr.

A check of all beaches was made and the U.S. Coast Guard was alerted to look out for small boats leaving the Island. Police think Robinson and Heron may try to get away from this area by stealing a boat.

Police set up patrols at all harbors, ferries and the International Airport within an hour of the escape. Scores of roadblocks were thrown up all over Vancouver Island with seven on the highway to Nanaimo alone.

Police said Robinson, who has lived in Colwood most of his life, knows the area around the jail "like the back of his hand."

Robinson is considered dangerous by police and they are giving special protection to W. R. McIntyre, the lawyer who was Crown Prosecutor in the case against Robinson. Other persons involved in the Crown's case are also taking special precautions while Robinson is on the loose.

Lemay, Wife in Bahamas, Stewardesses Tell Police

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A lead to elusive George Lemay of Montreal, whose jail break here Tuesday night was alleged to have been engineered with a $35,000 promise, evaporated today in Nassau, The Bahamas.

Bahamas police commissioner Nigel Morris said his men thoroughly searched all hotels and late Wednesday tracked down a man said to resemble the bank burglary suspect.

"The man we found was not the subject," Morris said. "It was a case of mistaken identity."

The Nassau hunt for Lemay began after a report that a couple resembling him and his wife, Lise, travelled by airliner from Miami to The Bahamas capital and resort city.

Two airline stewardesses said a couple that travelled on Mackey Airlines' flight to Nassau

INDIA:

Continue Fighting Guerrillas

(United Press International)

India said today its troops would continue to fight Pakistani guerrillas in Kashmir despite the Wednesday ceasefire order.

It accused Pakistan of sending in infiltrators elsewhere along the front after the ceasefire.

Indian Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament "operations to liquidate armed Pakistani infiltrators into Kashmir" would continue. He also said action is being taken to deal with the other infiltrators he said were "bad characters" out to loot Indian property.

Both countries battled right up to the last minute to gain as much ground as possible before the ceasefire silenced the guns, ending the 22-day-old war. Pakistan reported sinking an Indian frigate in a last-minute naval battle; India denied the report.

Indian officers at Amritsar, which was bombed just before the ceasefire went into effect, accused Pakistani planes of using flaming napalm during the night to try to silence the Indian guns.

Cong Arms Seized

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. paratroopers and Australian soldiers reported killing 20 Viet Cong about 30 miles northwest of Saigon where the Americans also seized a big weapons cache. The action Wednesday brought to 44 the total of Viet Cong killed in the 10-day operation near Ben Cat. U.S. losses were reported light.

FIRST RACE: Nothing drives a handicapper up the wall quicker than trying to get a line on maiden three-year-olds. This lot has a notably undistinguished record. Of her last race Acetella should have it pretty well her own way, but you never can tell. Barnaby has been lightly campaigned and has two fair works. Acidental Affair looked pounds the best in her last and ran like she had three legs. Trejos may awaken her. If Kelly Joy gets in, the others should swallow all kinds of dust. . . . KELLY JOY (Acetella, Acidental Affair).

SECOND RACE: Whipaway is one of the few horses that lives up to its name. She should lead them the first part and could go all the way. Much depends on whether Trejos or Phanta's Girl elects to contest the lead or lay back. Magie Eve gets the post for her style and seems at her peak. Whether she will miss Broomfield remains to be seen. Assayador made one of his better rallies in his last but he's a factor only if the pace gets the supreme staggers. . . . MAGIE EVE (Phanta's Girl).

THIRD RACE: If he hadn't drawn the outside, Little Rooster might have been doing some crowing in the winner's circle. He's sharp and may be good enough to overcome the post but it's asking a lot. Otherwise the race is packed with fast ones. Colinda, Spree's, Fancy and Turk's Girl all like to mizzle but they could kill each other off. Smart Dancer obviously can't handle mud but if he runs back to his Aug. 9 effort, he could get on the board. There's speed on the eligibles too but from the outside it's no picnic. . . . SPREE'S FANCY (Colinda).

FOURTH RACE: Amazing Message has been trying them all and come up with practically nothing. He drops again today and will probably draw most of the action. His three-eighths drill in 36 flat Thursday morning suggests he's ready but at the weight and considering his style Combs could have his hands full. If Amazing Message can't carry the mail, Fighting Hawk should. He has the benefit of a race over the track and it was a dandy. AMAZING MESSAGE (Fighting Hawk).

FIFTH RACE: At nine Alice Kaput should be tapering off but the evidence is to the contrary. Unless Mil Easy who has brief speed-grabs the lead Shields should be right there with Alice who has as much courage as any of these and more than most. Latcher has been flitting around the edge but he seems to do better over a distance. Akardian was believed to be a nice youngster but he's been flat out to handle modest fields and they're switching riders. Vic Valley is sharp but from out there it's rough. One final note—Will Roll has the best time of all and if he gets clear sailing, he could make it interesting. . . . ALICE KAPUT (Will Roll).

SIXTH RACE: It will be interesting to see who sets the pace in this marathon. Justice John handled the distance and more on the front end in the stop (Aug. 20) but he stopped like somebody threw a wet towel in his face in his last race. Constone likes to stay close up. They've been reserving Harlon lately but if they change tactics he could be a factor. Joe Pap and Chekal Chekal act like they are near their best and why Him ran a surprisingly brilliant race behind Dan Bandage. If Brown Sheat gets in, she'll lead them a merry chase and with rating could make it. Fraser Canyon and Gay Bond are not out of it by any means. Few, though, are as consistent as Young Barney. If he can handle the trip and his style indicates he seldom gets weary, he could be the one to beat. . . . YOUNG BARNEY (Why Him).

Weather clear. Track fast.
Post parade on Friday 2 p.m.

SEVENTH RACE: Ordinarily a horse with Access' speed, taking such a steep dive in class, would be odds-on to handle these. But it's not as cut and dried as that. We have a suspicion that Access doesn't like to be bothered early—he either wins or is out of the dough. Della View and Some Standard present the major contention on the front but whether they'll keep up to Access, the part is debatable. If Assyrian Prince draws in, hold onto your hat. He can fly when in the mood. Foxy Rover's try behind Copper Prince wasn't as bad as it looks and with a race over the track he'll improve. Fiteen Freckles has to be considered from the inside. Copper Prince only needs room in the lane to get on the board. Still, Shields should draw clear and have enough to hold them off. . . . ACCESS (Copper Prince).

EIGHTH RACE: She's no mortal cinch but Miss Orb should lead them home in the finale. Sunrise Gal shows some good races just off the pace and Razmi is holding on better. Late Wait is an interesting possibility if he can handle the trip. Royal Fair seems the main danger from behind. . . . MISS ORB (Sunrise Gal).

"There must be some mistake, I'm a customer."

LEMAY

sau Wednesday morning looked like Lemay and his wife. U.S. immigration officials interviewed the stewardesses, whose names were not revealed.

Lemay, 39, one of the most searched-for men in the Western Hemisphere, is accused of taking part in a spectacular bank burglary in Montreal.

Sources in The Bahamas said two U.S. officials—one of them from the immigration department—arrived in Nassau to help in the search.

Earl Mixon, 31, a deputy sheriff until about a year ago, and Harold D. Algar, 27, were charged with helping Lemay escape. Algar was freed on $2,500 bond, Mixon was jailed.

"PLANNED THE ESCAPE"

Dade County Sheriff T. A. Buchanan claimed that Mixon and Lemay's attractive wife, Lisa, 29, planned the escape "from the outside." The sheriff accused Algar, a security officer at the Dade County jail, as being "the inside man."

Buchanan said $35,000 was offered as the price for liberating Lemay, who scrambled 90 feet down a cable Tuesday night from the seventh floor of the 10-storey jail.

The sheriff said Algar took Lemay from his fifth-floor cell to a "hold cell" on the ground floor about 11 a.m. Tuesday and left the door unlocked. Lemay then went to the 10th floor, picked up the 1½-inch cable, went down to the seventh floor, lashed the cable to a plumbing fixture and lowered himself out the window, said the sheriff.

A warrant has been issued for Lemay on charges of breaking and entering and theft of $300,000 in connection with the robbery of the Montreal branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in 1961.

Lemay was arrested last May aboard a fancy yacht he kept at Fort Lauderdale. He was identified from wanted poster seen on the Early Bird satellite television program.

Hedges Help Reduce Noise of Highways

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hedges fulfill other purposes than forming dividing lines between properties. They serve as windbreaks, and as noise-breakers.

Today, with increased noise from fast-moving traffic, even in residential areas, hedges are more important than ever before, yet few of us wish to have them so high and impenetrable that we feel shut off completely from the world.

Single lots are still the most difficult to plant with suitable hedge material, but where the object is to lessen noise and mask fast-moving traffic particularly in summer months, use can be made of various flowering deciduous shrubs.

The abundance of leafy growth each spring accompanied by flowers either then or later in summer, seem the ideal solution for a front property planting.

FRONT LAWNS

The time may well come when the front lawns in cities will give way to shrub plantings circled with a driveway, thus providing off-street parking for callers and visitors.

Larger properties, and those where the dwelling is situated either on higher ground or at some distance from the street, can make good use of some of the bulky evergreens as silencers.

Austrian pines are excellent and the spaces can often be filled with azaleas to flower in spring and provide bright leaf color in fall.

SOMBRE GREEN

A lighter note to the sombre green may be introduced by a clump or row of white birches, according to the size of the property.

A side effect of such plantings will be the creation of micro climates within the garden, and the possibility of being able to grow other plants previously thought impossible for the particular area.

government should introduce a plan to train more doctors and nurses," he said. "We were joined by the other provinces who also suffer from the lack of trained personnel. But until I see Mr. Pearson's proposal in black and white I have no other comment."

In his speech to the student-jammed gymnasium, the Quebec premier called for greater tolerance and understanding between French speaking and English-speaking Canadians.

"We have no intention of asking English Canada to change its ways of life or culture," he said. "We are not trying to impose on you. Does English Canada feel the same way towards us? We (also) want to be accepted as we are with all our flaws."

PROVINCIAL AUTONOMY

Speaking strongly for greater provincial autonomy, Mr. Lesage said he was not defending such a move just on a matter of principle.

And he stressed that Quebec's attitude was not a threat to confederation. "But it is a threat to federalism as it was being lived a couple of years ago," he added. "I think our political system is flexible enough to allow one of the groups that founded this country to live with its own culture and traditions."

Mr. Lesage said Quebec's greatest fear was the slow infiltration of the central government which would whittle away the guarantees given French-speaking Canadians in 1867.

GREAT DANGER

"There is a great danger that we might lose some of those guarantees," he said. "We fear central government interference in provincial matters . . . for the threat in some cases may be minor but would establish a precedent."

Premier Lesage, whose ancestors came to Canada 300 years ago from Normandy, said that in the early days the French colonial living in a British colony was forced "to turn inwards to survive."

But he said that now Quebec had entered a new era and wants to take its rightful place in Canadian affairs.

He appealed to the students "who have not lived in prejudice" to retain open minds when approaching the existing problem.

And he repeated a theme mentioned at his earlier press conference: "(Canada) is a mosaic, but you can have a beautiful mosaic and a strong Canada."

Secret Deals Charged

By DENNIS ORCHARD
KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—The Canadian public has been "bamboozled" about the U.S.-Canada auto agreement, a pact that may involve "secret deals," the national leader of the New Democratic Party said Wednesday night.

T. C. Douglas charged that the agreement, purporting to be a free trade arrangement between the two countries, is in fact a $50,000,000-a-year handout to manufacturers.

He told an election rally crowd of 800 the "bamboozler" is Jack Davis, parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Pearson.

Mr. Davis has predicted that the price of a car will go down $500 although Industry Minister Drury has told Parliament Canadians will realize no price cut at all, Mr. Douglas said.

He called for a full-scale investigation into "behind-the-scenes arrangements" between the federal government and auto manufacturers, deals intimated by a report of the U.S. Tariff Commission.

"Mr. Pearson has a public duty to reveal the nature of these secret deals and to release all the letters and documents which have been kept from the Canadian people and the members of the House of Commons."

He was to address a convention of the Canadian Union of Public Employees in Vancouver today, and is to be re-nominated Friday night in his home riding of Burnaby-Coquitlam.

'HALF SLAVE, HALF FREE'
Mr. Douglas said Canada is a society half-slave and half-free, sure of political freedom but not of economic freedom.

He said a corporate elite, fewer than 1,000 specially privileged individuals, decides how much Canadians will pay for their products and get for their products, and whether industry will expand or stagnate.

He said this elite controls the most important newspapers, television and radio stations, and shapes public opinion. It didn't matter whether Liberals or Conservatives were in power, because the corporate elite was always in power.

'No Regrets' On Car Pact
KIMBERLEY (CP)—Labor Minister MacEachen said Wednesday night the Liberals have "no reason at all" to regret the Canada-United States automobile agreement.

He told a Liberal meeting here the agreement would be beneficial to both car buyers and persons employed in making the cars.

The minister described as "absolutely false and without foundation" charges by NDP leader T. C. Douglas that the agreement is a $50,000,000 giveaway and "the greatest steal since Jesse James lost his horse."

The agreement will "in the not too distant future" provide more jobs for Canadians and result in price reductions for car buyers, said Mr. MacEachen.

Top Leadership Candidates Go on View During Campaign
OTTAWA (CP)—While Liberal and Conservative leaders woo the Canadian voter, the federal election campaign provides a chance for the voter to measure two potential successors in unfamiliar roles.

Premier Lesage's 16-day western tour is giving the Conservative Prairies an opportunity to see at close hand the man who might succeed Prime Minister Pearson as Liberal leader.

On the Conservative side, more national attention has been focused on Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba than at any time in the past. He, too, may go on tour in parts of the country where he is less well known than in the West.

Mr. Lesage's tour is billed as non-political and he apparently has carefully avoided commenting on political issues. But the fact remains the relations between Canada's two founding races, English and French, have been a continuing and vital part of the political scene.

At 69, Prime Minister Pearson is generally considered to be fighting his last election campaign. Mr. Lesage, 53, is just as widely considered a possible successor as Liberal leader.

HARD TO BEAT
If he successfully sells himself and his view of French Canada's place in the national mosaic to the westerners, some observers here figure he will be hard to beat in a national leadership fight.

The Liberals have maintained a tradition since Laurier of alternating between English and French-speaking leaders.

The Conservatives, on the other hand, have never had a French-speaking national leader, although some have had some knowledge of the French language.

But probably no Conservative national leader could match Duff Roblin's bilingualism. He is said to be as much at home in French as English.

Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker, now 70, says he thinks Mr. Roblin with

FIRST SIGNS OF HOSTILITY

Two Pickets Protest Lesage's West Tour

CALGARY (CP)—The first sign of hostility to the western visit of Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec appeared here Wednesday.

Two pickets paraded outside the hotel where he was addressing some 600 men and women at a Canadian Club luncheon.

They carried signs bearing the slogans: "End Quebec Treason" and "Canada for Canadians—Lesage Go Home."

The premier did not see the pickets when he arrived at the hotel or later when he left to go to another hotel for a press conference.

Asked later to comment on the incident, he said: "I wouldn't call them extremists. Perhaps in Quebec they would be extremists. I'm used to pickets in my province. They picket for anything."

The picketers, school teachers Ed Schey, 21, and Joan Groff, 26, said they opposed "Quebec's concept of itself as a nation within a nation," and claimed the premier's tour was political.

Mr. Lesage has said his tour of western Canada is non-political and is aimed at bridging the gap between the two cultures, a gap arising from "a lack of understanding and knowledge."

'Too Many Elections'
VANCOUVER (CP)—Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, said Wednesday elections should be held at regular intervals to prevent federal and provincial governments from calling elections after a couple of years in office.

"We've had too many elections in recent years," he told a press conference.

Mr. Jodoin said he favored a statutory election period, although not like the U.S. system of unchangeable terms.

"I think we should maintain our parliamentary system of government, which would mean some qualifications—they might be modified for non-confidence votes and for minority governments," he said.

NO CANDIDATES By NEW PARTY

MONTREAL (CP)—Le Bloc du Quebec, established this month as a new federal political party, will not field candidates in the Nov. 8 election, its president said Wednesday.

The group had originally planned to enter candidates in every Quebec constituency.

TYCOON OR MP?
Tory Rival Taunts Winters

TORONTO (CP)—George Hogan accepted the Progressive Conservative nomination for York West Wednesday night by calling on Robert Winters, certain to be his opponent in the riding for the Nov. 8 federal election, to divest himself of all business connections.

Mr. Hogan, 37, an automobile dealer, told 500 persons at a noisy nominating convention that Mr. Winters must make up his mind about whether he wants to be a business tycoon or a member of Parliament.

Mr. Hogan, secretary of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association, didn't mention Mr. Winters by name. He referred to him as a mogul of the Liberal establishment, the former MP from Nova Scotia and the "man they are bringing in from Nova Scotia."

Mr. Winters represented the Nova Scotia riding of Queens-Lunenburg during his years in Parliament.

He is expected to receive the Liberal nomination for York West tonight, succeeding Leonard (Red) Kelly, who retired from politics last week.

Mr. Winters is chairman and president of Rio Algom Mines Ltd., chairman of British Newfoundland Corp. Ltd., president of Rio Tinto Dow Ltd. and president of Preston Mines Ltd. He also holds directorships in 10 other companies.

He said earlier this week he is under no obligation to sever his connections with these firms unless he becomes a cabinet minister.

HARD-CAMPAIGNING is planned by Creditiste leader Reg Casquette for the Nov. 8 federal election. He plans to address about 30 rallies across Quebec in five weeks.

LABOR URGES TAKEOVER
VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver and District Labor Council has called on the provincial government to nationalize breweries in B.C. Delegates said that, since the government controls the distribution of liquor and beer, it should also control the source of beer.

NDP Seeks To Save Atlin Riding
PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—The B.C. royal commission on electoral boundaries has been asked by the New Democratic Party to recommend that the Atlin riding be exempt from population requirements in any proposed redistribution.

"I realize that your terms of reference do not permit constituencies of fewer than 7,500 voters," William Todaras, president of the NDP's Prince Rupert Constituency Association, told a commission hearing here.

"However, I would urge you to recommend a special case for this constituency Atlin because of the huge area involved."

Mr. Todaras said that because of the mineral and timber potential of the area, development was imminent and the constituency would soon have more than the required minimum number of electors.

Leadership To Lesage, Claims Tory

SHELburne, Ont. (CP)—Michael Starr, Progressive Conservative member of the last Parliament for Ontario riding, told a nomination meeting Tuesday night Prime Minister Pearson will give up the leadership of the Liberal party after the Nov. 8 federal election even if his party wins.

Mr. Starr, former labor minister in the Diefenbaker government, predicted Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec, now touring western Canada, will take over leadership of the Liberals after the election.

The meeting unanimously nominated Elwood Madill of Orangeville as Progressive Conservative candidate for Dufferin-Simcoe. Mr. Madill represented the riding in the last Parliament.

Car Licence Lost By Ship Tycoon
ASCOT, England (AP)—Greek shipowner George Stavros Livanos had his driver's licence suspended for three months and was fined $75 by a court here Wednesday.

Livanos, 30, whose shipping fortune is estimated at £100,000,000 ($300,000,000), pleaded guilty to driving his Ferrari sports car without due care and attention June 17 on the way to an Ascot week party. His car struck three parked cars.

SOCRED RAPS MEDICARE, PENSION

'Our Rights Being Eroded'

LETHBRIDGE (CP)—The rights of the individual in Canada are slowly being eroded, Robert Thompson, national Social Credit leader, said Wednesday.

Mr. Thompson said examples are the Canada Pension Plan and the proposed national medical care insurance scheme which would deprive persons of the right to choose whether to participate.

The Social Credit leader spoke at a meeting which nominated Wallace A. Strom, brother of Alberta Agriculture Minister Harry Strom, Social Credit candidate for Lethbridge in the Nov. 8 federal election.

Referring to Alberta Premier Manning's campaign against the proposed national health care scheme, Mr. Thompson told about 550 persons at the meeting:

"Mr. Manning is not against medicare. He is against the kind of medicare which would deprive the individual of the right to choose."

'RIGHTS AN ISSUE'

Protection of the rights of minorities—and the "individual is the most important minority"—is an issue the country now faces just as it did in 1865, Mr. Thompson said.

Government policy of past years is steadily destroying the aims of the Fathers of Confederation, he said, both in protection of minorities and the search for Canadian nationalism.

The Social Credit leader attacked Prime Minister Pearson for calling the election before planned redistribution of federal constituencies. He said the election could have been held a year from now.

The cry for a strong government did not hold water. More legislation had been handled during the past 2½ years than at any time when there was a majority Liberal government.

THE GIN THAT WON THE WEST

When Englishmen first came to their Western Canadian ranches their taste for LONDON DRY GIN came with them.

What more natural thing to do here—where fine grain and glacial water produce splendid spirits—than to import botanicals, such as juniper, coriander and other exotic flora, and begin distilling gin in the LONDON DRY tradition?

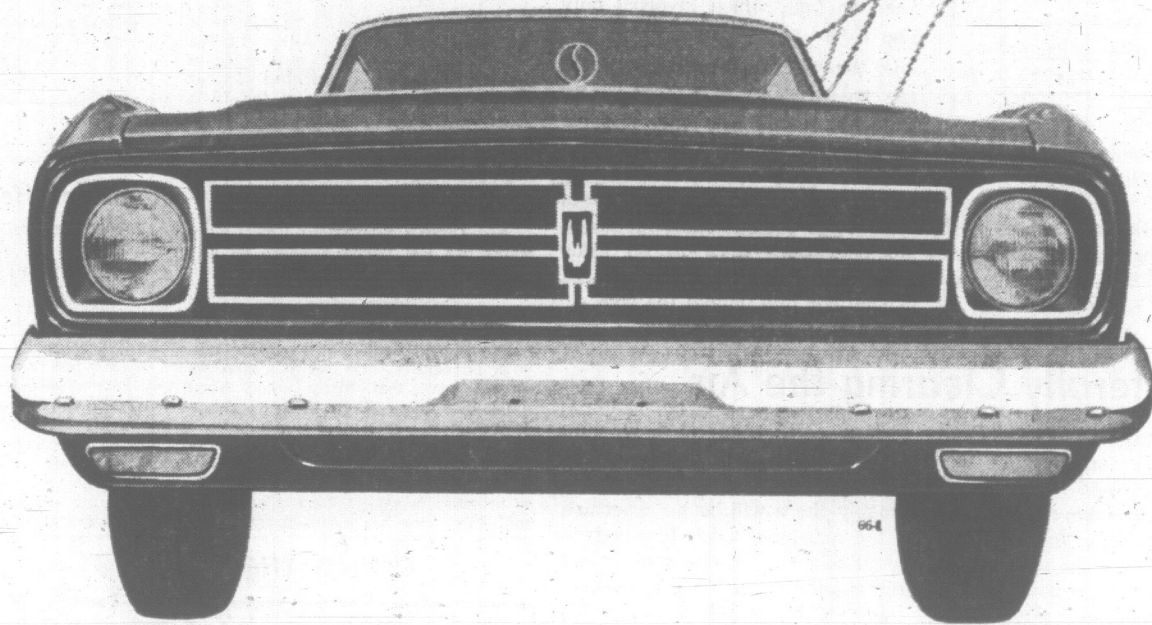

From this heritage comes RANCHMAN'S—the western gin with the English accent.

The 1966 Studebaker: a breath of fresh air in the automotive industry

The '66 Studebaker has a completely new and different ventilation system called "Refreshaire". It circulates fresh air so effectively that your Studebaker stays cooler in summer, warmer in winter. Even de-fogs windows and extracts smoke through exhaust ports in the tail-lights. "Refreshaire" supplements Studebaker's reliable Climatizer, thus providing the next best thing to air conditioning... and at no extra cost.

For a breath of fresh air up front, see Studebaker's functional new 5-piece grille, which permits a greater air flow for much improved engine cooling.

And wait until you get a breath of those interiors.

Roomy, comfortable and beautifully appointed. New colors, fabrics and patterns fashioned by a leading designer. Luxurious? You bet!

Want more refreshment? The new Studebaker comes delivered with more standard equipment and safety features at no extra cost, than any other Studebaker in its over 100 year history. Examples: rugged armor-guard frame, aluminumized rustproofing, 19-gauge body steel, big 15-inch wheels, full-width padded dash, padded sun visors, dual system safety brakes, two-speed electric windshield wipers and windshield washers.

And say good-bye to battle-scarred doors after a session in the parking lot. Studebaker's smart new side moldings also serve as rub rails.

So, for a refreshing experience, drive the breath-of-fresh-air '66 Studebaker.

SERVICE VOTE WILL BE DOWN

OTTAWA (CP)—About 122,600 persons will be eligible to vote in the armed forces vote, from Nov. 1 to 6, for the Nov. 8 federal election.

This figure, which includes wives of servicemen abroad and veterans in hospitals, represents a drop from the 1963 campaign when there were 141,210 eligible.

A spokesman for the chief electoral officer said the figure is only an estimate because enrolments, transfers or retirements before Nov. 1 might alter the numbers.

A Major Achievement

ESTABLISHMENT OF A CEASE-fire under United Nations auspices in the Kashmir dispute represents a major victory by the world body and an impressive boost to its prestige. This was, in fact, the only agency which proved effective in halting the tragic fighting between India and Pakistan, and it achieved success just as Red Chinese intervention in the north gave ominous signs of precipitating an even more serious conflict.

While the cease-fire is a necessary preliminary, the main task of the United Nations—a task which has baffled it for eighteen years—still remains. A permanent settlement of the Kashmir dispute is a far more complicated matter than calling a halt in the fighting under threat of stern-enforcing measures.

Pakistan still insists on a plebiscite, which would obviously result in the Moslem majority voting to join Pakistan. India gives no ground in its contention that Kashmir is Indian and must remain so. Indian spokesmen have raised the point—and it appears to have merit—that the Kashmir population's Moslem complexion should have no bearing on the disposition of the territory, since India's existence as a sovereign country is based on its heterogeneity of race and religion. In other words, to opt out on the sole basis of religion would destroy the whole concept of India's nationhood.

Such considerations, overlaid with nearly two decades of dispute, violence and heated emotions, make the United Nations' task a particularly formidable one. It is pretty obvious that whatever solution is agreed on must be a compromise. The question is whether the decline of India-Pakistan relations has reached a point at which compromise will prove impossible.

A Wider View Needed

THE DISPUTE AS TO WHETHER Saanich should maintain a magistrate's court distinct from the new central one at Centennial Square obviously should be resolved on the basis of facts rather than sentiment. And the dominant fact surely is whether or not Saanich produces enough court cases to warrant the expense of maintaining a court room and to demand the presence of a magistrate in the area. This must be a matter of statistics and magisterial convenience, not of argument.

Reeve Curtis is quoted as suggesting that failure to comply with Saanich's wishes in regard to use of the court facilities could have results detrimental to the whole concept of regional co-operation. This is parochial and unworthy of a man who has been outstanding in his grasp of the regional principle and in his leadership towards implementing it. The demonstrable benefits of the regional approach to such common problems as sewerage, parks and so on should not be placed in jeopardy by making Saanich's co-operation conditional on the use of a court room. There has been no public outcry for a special Saanich court.

The suspicion is that Saanich has got stuck with a $50,000 court room that is not necessary to the area and probably should never have been built, and is now faced with the necessity of using it or having to explain to the ratepayers. But this was not Reeve Curtis' project—it was built in the regime of his predecessor, Reeve Murphy.

The whole situation again illustrates the illogicality of a multiplicity of municipal authorities and boundaries. These petty disputes will continue as long as we postpone the obvious solution: amalgamation, or a co-operative regional arrangement which will recognize the essential unity of the whole area.

Holding the Line

THE DECISION OF THE Greater Victoria School Board not to grant an eight-day leave of absence to a local secondary school teacher to accompany a Russian volleyball team was a wrenching one. But the board was right in sticking by its established policy.

There are many arguments why it would be an excellent thing for the teacher in question to carry out his duties as president of the Canadian Volley Ball Association and accompany the visitors on their Canadian tour. But the school board cannot judge the matter on the individual case alone, attractive as the latter may be. It must keep in mind that a precedent would be set, and that each year there could be scores of equally arguable cases presented for teachers' absences.

There was a publicized case last year, in fact, which involved only two days of the school term. But once the rule was broken, how could the board re-establish it for any particular case? The only possible policy is to set the rule and hold it against any infringement. This may be very difficult in some cases—as in the present one—but board members were right to set aside what may have been their personal inclinations and uphold the rule.

Literally Clearing the Air

GOOD NEWS A LONG TIME coming is contained in the Metro Health Board's announcement that the smoke nuisance attributed to Plumper Bay sawmill operations will end this year.

A satisfactory arrangement seems to have been reached by which the sawdust and shavings that created the major problem will be sold to pulp interests at Port Angeles.

The health board is to be commended on the pressure it was able to bring upon the operators. Presumably there will be no repetition of the nuisance which bloomed on the outskirts of the city after it had been eliminated in Victoria itself.

A step forward has been made locally in the crusade against air pollution. For that there should be general public appreciation of the company's agreement to co-operate.

Unscenic Car Boneyards

VERMONT, WHICH COUNTS heavily on its scenic attractions for tourist appeal, faces a problem.

It has, says The Christian Science Monitor, 400,000 people, 350,000 cows and 200,000 junk cars. The cows are declining in number, the human population is creeping up and the number of cars on the road and coming off the road is growing at a rate of 20,000 a year. The "boneyards" are spoiling the looks of the countryside.

Because it would cost about half a million dollars to haul the wrecks away and convert them into scrap iron, some other method of disposal is being sought.

The problem is exaggerated in Vermont, but the New England state has no monopoly in this particular field. Throughout various parts of this continent the unsightly piles of abandoned cars are growing.

Before the touring public finds that it can't see the country for the old fenders, it might be wise to devise some system of ridding communities of this pressed steel junk—or establish some regulation that will assure old Betsy decent interment when her rolling days are done.

"Watch how his mouth puckers up when a beer commercial comes on . . . !"

FROM NEW YORK

'Sleepers' in the UN Session

THE 117-nation UN General Assembly, which opened its 20th anniversary session September 21, promises to be a diplomatic "sleeper."

Except for a major battle over the seating of Red China, it looks—at first glance—like a relatively peaceful gathering. But several issues are boiling just below the surface, and any one of them may erupt with Vesuvian fury.

Here is a roundup of prospects:

Viet Nam: No one has asked the Assembly to put Viet Nam on its formal agenda. The issue, however, is expected to dominate much public and private discussion.

Somewhat obscured by the Kashmir crisis, the search for a Viet Nam peace goes on. Extensive private consultations among at least 59 foreign ministers, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, are expected to focus on the subject.

Pope Paul's visit: The Pope and at least five heads of state—those of the United States, Ireland, Laos, Luxembourg and Gambia—will give the session added stature and glitter.

Could Be Important

Exactly what the Pope's impact will be in terms of realpolitik remains unclear. It could, however, be a profoundly important occasion, especially if, as the Vatican hopes, additional government leaders come.

Kashmir: At present being handled by the 11-nation Security Council, the Kashmir problem could be referred to the veto-free Assembly if Council machinery bogged down in deadlock.

Thus far, however, the United States and the Soviet Union have disagreed only on the pace and vigor of Kashmir peace efforts, not on their direction, and have been able to compromise their differences.

Russia's dues arrears: The American defeat on this earlier issue was made formal and official when initial votes were taken on the Assembly's president and committee chairmen. Russia, France, and some 12 other debtor states were allowed to vote despite non-payment of peace-keeping dues.

'Voluntary Contributions'

Thereafter, the general expectation is that some or all of the debtors will make "voluntary contributions," amounting to perhaps one-quarter or one-fifth of what they owe. The remainder of the UN's $100 billion debt is expected to be made up by contributions from other countries that would rather see the UN solvent than hold out—perhaps indefinitely—for Russia, France and the other debtors to pay in full.

Red China's admission: The United States has lost voting strength on this issue since last year, and may not even have a simple majority to bar Peking, some observers believe.

The prospect, however, is that the Assembly will decide a two-thirds majority is required, and Peking's sponsors do not have that many votes. Thus Nationalist China seems likely to retain its seat.

Disarmament: The arms-control debate is expected to be a matter of beating a dead—or dying—horse. Little or no progress is expected on this subject until Viet Nam is cleared away, since, under these circumstances, the Soviet Union shies from any move which could increase its vulnerability to Chinese criticism.

An agreement with the West on control of the spread of nuclear weapons would necessarily involve restraints on Red China, and hence could be expected to be especially infuriating to Peking.

East-West relations: As with disarmament, and for essentially the same reason, no significant progress is expected toward an over-all Soviet-American detente.

However, Moscow and Washington have worked together fairly well on the Kashmir crisis and some optimists hope the habit will grow. Viet Nam or no Viet Nam.

FROM CAI BE, VIET NAM

'I Like Helping People'

ONE of the few consolations of prolonged bachelorhood is the ease with which bachelors are adopted as members of their friends' families. If you like children and remain a bachelor until fairly late in life, you thus become Everybody's Universal Uncle. This highly personal opening is necessary to explain the origins of this report on Frank and his friends, Jay and Ray.

And a report on Frank and his friends is certainly in order, if only to convey something of the quality of the American effort here in Viet Nam, which tells you things about America that are evidently unknown to all too many people at home.

Frank, then, is the Foreign Service officer who became my friend a couple of decades ago, when he had attained the ripe age of four. He is a fluent Arabist, but he was sent out here this spring, when the state department selected a number of its most promising young men to work directly with the people in the remote Vietnamese countryside.

He was assigned to Dinh Tuong province, and here, in the charming province town, My Tho, he made friends with Ray and Jay. Ray works for International Voluntary Service as an English teacher but he spends all his spare time helping refugees from the Viet Cong in My Tho high school.

Rural Self-Help

Jay is a startlingly impressive young Filipino—the tall, athletic son of a great Moro grandee from the Muslim southern Philippines. After the university, he went into the rural self-help program that the Philippine government started during the Hukbalahap troubles. And he now does the same work in Dinh Tuong province on an Aid Agency contract.

Unlike almost all the other foreigners in My Tho, Jay and Frank and Ray "live on the economy. Because that way you don't get too cut off," as Frank explained.

This means living roughly, in a tiny house on a side street with plumbing

Talk in the lounges: Sophisticated talk in the delegates' lounge revolves around the basic frustrations of the session . . . how neither of the two fundamental issues in the world—a Soviet-American detente, and containment of Red China—can be dealt with effectively here under present circumstances, with the Viet Nam war still on, and Red China not taking part.

Other talk is about the Kashmir deadlock . . . possible American counter-intervention if Red China does enter the war . . . the ever-present danger of minority Hindus and Moslems being slaughtered in Pakistan and India respectively . . . the utter intractability of the Kashmir problem, juxtaposed with its extreme perils.

arrangements that would send an army doctor straight up the wall. It also means eating excellent Vietnamese meals instead of army mess-food, which is a considerable consolation.

They do not spend much time in the house. On a typical day, the four of us set out for Cai Be, a canal town about 22 miles, due west of My Tho, on a road which follows the northern bank of the Mekong River.

The true condition of the road to Cai Be was indicated by the tanks and armored cars on road-security duty, which we passed every two miles or so. But it was a pleasant and interesting drive. Ray had major news to report. He had just begged six tons of U.S. food for Cai Be district's 17,000 refugees from the Viet Cong.

Accomplishments

Here and there along the road, Jay had one of his projects to exhibit—a new school, or a small dispensary, or the village meeting hall, all built by the villagers' own decision with their own labor but with Aid Agency materials provided by Jay. Frank had an inexhaustible fund of stories of the vagaries of Viet Nam's provincial bureaucracy.

Vietnamese bureaucracy is much like other Asian bureaucracies, though better than most, and Frank's work on larger projects entangles him in all its intricacies. Frank, it should be noted, is an enthusiast but not a blinker-eyed idealist.

When we reached this little canal-side town, we were greeted by the tough little district chief, Capt. Thuong Thanh Trinh, and his American advisor, Capt. David J. Lynch. Together they fight four or five major and minor actions a week and Capt. Lynch, who applied for this assignment, says "he loves it." His liking is returned by the Cai Be people and especially the children. If he stops anywhere, so many tiny kids cling to or climb over him that he makes you think of a tree heavily infested with squirrels.

Division of Relief

My trio of hosts all had important business to attend to. For Ray, there was the division between Catholic and non-Catholic refugees of his Catholic relief food. For Jay, there was the question of another dispensary. Frank, whom the district chief had greeted as a cherished crony and even, one suspected, a co-conspirator against the My Tho authorities, had to push forward plans for work for the refugees—the much-needed big canal, the new brick works and the like.

When these matters were efficiently dealt with, they took me to see the crowded hovels where the poor refugees live, until they can build their own small houses. This they do partly with Aid Agency materials and on government-rented land. When they first come in—and they still come at the rate of 50 or 60 every night—they get the equivalent of 10 cents per person per day of government money to buy rations. But after one month of this, they must shift for themselves with some help from Ray. Yet this, as they told me bitterly, is "much better than the Viet Cong."

Men, women and children, the refugees of Cai Be are wonderfully cheerful and good tempered. Yet the sight of so many of them, living in such conditions, with so little to look forward to, depressed me unspeakably. I asked Jay whether it did not affect him in the same way.

"I like helping people, and that's what I mostly think about," he answered in his serious way. The answer seemed to me to explain not only Jay, but Frank and Ray as well.

Letters

Letters will be considered for publication only if the writer is clearly identified to the editor, who may permit pen names at his discretion. Submissions will be edited and may be condensed. Short letters are favored. None will be returned.

Clarification

The somewhat condensed version of a press release issued by Mr. Garth Edge, the president of the Vancouver branch of the World Federalists of Canada, which appeared in the Times Sept. 20, has brought me a few agitated letters and phone calls. I would be grateful for the opportunity to clarify misunderstandings that have arisen.

No reflection on the integrity or the effectiveness of "other Peace Groups" was intended—each individual and group must attack the problem of world order in the way it thinks best.

The World Federalists happen to believe that the best method is to apply to international disputes the same techniques that in our own country prevent disputes between groups, municipalities or provinces flaring up into local wars. These are the techniques of legislation—the clear definition of the rules that must be followed; of judicial process, applying these rules to particular disputes; and of enforcement procedure, ensuring that judicial decisions are carried out. If there is a better way of averting violence and war, we would be glad to learn of it and support it.—C. S. Burchill, 1350 Dallas.

Shelter Auxiliary

The friends and sympathizers of Mother Cecilia Mary need not be dismayed by the recent cut in her allowances. Why not organize an Auxiliary to the Good Shepherd Shelter, through which funds could be raised and voluntary labor recruited? If someone with executive ability would start such a project, I, for one, will join and support it—providing it remains non-sectarian and open to all animal lovers.—Mrs. John Craig, 3079 Orillia Street.

Two Dollars for One

May we thank all the kind friends and relatives for their prayers and kind cheerful messages while we were both in hospitals for major operations.

Due to these, the knowledge, and skill of the physicians and surgeons and the excellent care and attention by both the Royal Jubilee staff on Royal 2 and the staff of Surgical 2 in the Veterans' Hospital, we are now back home and slowly gaining strength.

To the general public of this area, and speaking as a former lowly employee of the Royal Jubilee, I would say this, for every dollar you have contributed, you are indeed offered two dollars' worth of improved service, so please don't begrudge any further requests you may receive.—R. and L. Avery, 1834 Adanac.

A Voter's Wants

I shall give my vote in the general election to the party that promises the people four things:

Old age pensions at 65 years now, with a minimum of $100 per month.

A national comprehensive medical program, including prescription drugs.

Good technical schools to help the young people learn a trade.

A good strong, honest leader who will run the country for the benefit of all Canadians, regardless of race, creed or color.

A country is only as great as its people, so it is sensible for a government to meet the needs of its people.—Doris N. Entwistle, 1201 Craigflower.

Thank You, Oak Bay

Oak Bay, we learn, is to submit to the present sessions of the Union of B.C. Municipalities a resolution to forbid unnecessary noise, the intentional noise created by motorcycles and automobiles. Thank you, Oak Bay! Thank you!

The B.C. municipalities make history and earn the gratitude of countless thousands by enacting laws to ensure one more "freedom": "The freedom from intentional noise". — "Disfranchised Citizen."

Entering OAS?

Montreal Metro-Express

After clearly suggesting the Canadian government was sympathetic to joining the Organization of American States eventually, the prime minister sought to correct the impression given by news stories by saying no decision had been taken, his spontaneity was unchanged.

Yet the spontaneous answer Mr. Pearson gave argumentative students at Banff leads us to think the government leader is probably already on the way into the OAS. I would not be surprised to learn that Canada had already let certain members of the organization know through diplomatic channels that the decision is as good as taken. All it must await is better-prepared public opinion and above all, the passage of general elections.

Thus assured, the members of the OAS are already inviting Canada to join with arguments which could have come straight from our external affairs department.

Operation Conditioning is under way and unless a strong counter-campaign is conducted, we shall soon have our permanent delegate to the great continental organization. Since the headquarters is in Washington, he will be one more messenger between us and the White House.

There is no cause for joy in this, just the opposite. The OAS is thoroughly infiltrated, controlled and oriented by the United States, whose creation it is. The American voice is His Master's Voice. Some Latin-American countries have largely freed themselves from Washington, but none has ever made the OAS anything but the U.S.'s instrument.

By becoming a member, Canada accepts one more prodding-stick. As in NATO and NORAD, unanimity rules and the unanimity is American.

Our country has no need to belong to the OAS to improve her relations with Latin America. As for her relations with the United States, they now are so good that if they were to become ever-so-slightly better we would have to hold the Stars and Stripes on the Peace Tower. . . .—Yvon Turcot.

Looking Back

From The Times of Sept. 23, 1890:

Rumors are the steamer Beaver, now lying on rocks near Burrard Inlet, is to be floated. The purchase is not concluded but is expected to be announced in a few days. Vancouver entrepreneurs are interested in a scheme to refit the old relic and take her to different coast cities for exhibition. The steamer is owned by H. Saunders of Victoria, who used her for towing until she grounded. The Beaver was the first steamer on the Pacific coast, rounding Cape Horn in 1833.

Ontario Will Be the Pivot In Major Parties' Battle

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA — Can John Diefenbaker spot Lester Pearson Quebec and still win the election?

The best answer is that John Diefenbaker spotted Quebec to Louis St. Laurent in 1957, and won. Logically what happened once can happen again. But can the John Diefenbaker of 1957 happen again in 1965? That is the Tory rub.

It was deliberate Tory strategy in 1957 to write off Quebec and concentrate on clobbering the Grits in the other provinces, principally Ontario and the Prairies. It gave the Tories 112 seats to the Liberals' 105, and made Mr. Diefenbaker our first minority prime minister since the twenties. Father of that strategy, which was simply political application of the old military adage that one should reinforce strength rather than weakness, was Lt.-Col. Gordon Churchill, And Col. Churchill is still Mr. Diefenbaker's chief of staff.

Waring

In 1957 the Conservatives won only nine seats in Quebec, while the Liberals took 63. So far as arithmetic is concerned, this election in Quebec is '57 all over again, except that it's unlikely the Conservatives will get anything like nine Quebec seats. Instead, they could well be wiped out.

But '57 was before the rise of the Creditistes. If the Tories hadn't won those nine seats, the seats likely would have gone Liberal. This time, with the Tories a cypher in Quebec, the Creditistes and Independents are almost certain to win some seats and keep the expected Liberal sweep short of the maximum. And any Quebec seat the Grits fail to win, no matter who else wins it, suits the Diefenbaker-Churchill strategy.

If there is little seat change in the Maritimes and British Columbia, and if Mr. Diefenbaker maintains his hegemony over the Prairies with the help of Duff Roblin and Alvin Hamilton—as even some Liberals expect—this means the election will be decided in Ontario.

It was 61 Ontario seats to the Liberals' 20 that gave Mr. Diefenbaker his victory in 1957. In the 1958 election Ontario gave the Tories 67 and cut the Grits to 14. In 1962 Ontario reversed itself: 43 Liberals and 35 Conservatives; and the trend continued in 1963 when the Grits won 57 and the Tories 27.

Mr. Diefenbaker might win the election with fewer Ontario seats than 1957's 61 if he holds his Prairie strength, which he didn't have in 1957. Whether he can swing enough Ontario seats into the Tory column depends on many factors, such as the quality and quantity of Premier Robarts' support, the effect of the return of the Tory rebels, the appeal of individual Tory candidates, voter anger at Prime Minister Pearson's "unnecessary" election, and whether "Orange Ontario" is sufficiently aroused by Mr. Pearson's "softness" towards Quebec to vote for the man it turned against two years ago.

In the cities, especially Toronto, the NDP will sap Liberal strength, while in rural areas dissatisfaction with the government's eastern farm policy will help the Tories. It is probably significant that George Hees is making his comeback try in rural Northumberland, rather than urban Toronto-Broadview, which he had represented for 14 years until he withdrew from politics prior to the 1963 election.

In view of prospective gains in Quebec and perhaps a few seats elsewhere, the Grits can afford to lose a few of their 52 Ontario seats—but only a very few if Mr. Pearson is to get a working majority.

STUDENTS WHO HAVE VOLUNTEERED for service in East Africa study Swahili in Toronto with an African teacher. The Canadian University Service Overseas has 323 volunteers going abroad this fall for service in developing nations. The eventual goal is 1,000 a year. CUSO is a privately-administered organization but receives financial aid from the government.

Canadian 'Peace Corps' Builds Good Reputation

(First of Two Parts)

Amid the rash of publicity over the government-sponsored Company of Young Canadians, a relatively-unknown Canadian-style "peace corps" is working quietly toward getting 1,000 volunteers a year into the field.

This is the immediate goal of the Canadian University Service Overseas (CUSO).

A privately-administered organization, it sent its first worker overseas four years ago and has since built a steady, if inconspicuous, reputation as a highly successful helping hand to developing nations.

Buoyed now by its first real financial aid from the federal government, though still a jealous guardian of its independence, CUSO has just put 168 new volunteers into 22 different countries to do everything from nursing the sick in Bolivia to carrying out social service work in Sarawak.

208 Volunteers

A total of 208 volunteered to go abroad this year but 40 were assigned to India had to be left behind at the last minute because of the outbreak of fighting between India and Pakistan.

"We work on the basis of two-year assignments so this year's group, together with those from 1964, gives us 323 volunteers abroad by this fall," said CUSO's secretary, William McWhinney.

"That leaves us some way from the 1,000 goal, but I'm sure we will be putting 500 workers a year into the field within a year or two. On the two-year assignment basis, that will give us 1,000 before very long."

Mr. McWhinney, a muscular University of Toronto graduate who was a CUSO volunteer before becoming secretary in 1962, firmly believes that the advent of the Company of Young Canadians, now in the planning stages, won't mean the end of CUSO.

In Own Way

"I look more for a great deal of co-operation between us, with each organization operating in its own way in its own field," he said in an interview.

Mr. McWhinney stressed that CUSO works only with young men and women having at least high school, though not necessarily university, education and gives them relatively long-term overseas assignments. Unlike the CYC, CUSO does not at this point plan any volunteer work within Canada.

"It seems to me that there are some real advantages, particularly in regard to flexibility, in operating this type of service on a strictly non-governmental basis."

At home, interested candidates are screened first by volunteer committees at 33 Canadian universities and then put through a final examination by a national committee at CUSO headquarters in Ottawa. Those accepted—208 out of 300-odd applicants this year—undergo extensive training orientation first in Canada and then in the country of destination. The accent is on language, although this year's orientation program includes an extensive seminar in community development.

At the other end of the line, CUSO has built up its own direct contacts with governments and agencies in the developing nations. It now has its own full-time co-ordinators in India and Algeria with senior volunteers performing this function in other countries.

Recipient countries pay the salaries of CUSO volunteers on a local-equivalent basis and have the final say in accepting a volunteer for any specific assignment. Success of the system is reflected in a failure rate of less than five per cent.

$2,000-$3,000 Each

CUSO pays the bill for orientation, transportation, insurance, some allowances and central administration. Mr. McWhinney said this is $2,500 to $3,000 a volunteer, a far cry from the $18,000-a-member cost of the U.S. Peace Corps.

Until this year, CUSO relied almost totally on private sources for its finances, with a smattering of aid from provincial governments. In April, however, it was given a financial boost with the announcement by External Affairs Minister Martin that the federal government would provide it with $500,000 this year.

Mr. Martin hinted strongly that, despite development of the CYC, the government will continue to aid CUSO in a partnership arrangement which will "preserve the independence and the vitality and the voluntary character of CUSO, while at the same time lending the stability and resources of the government."

Sights Raised

It was this aid, double the $250,000 raised from private sources that allowed CUSO to set its sights at 210 volunteers in 1965 compared with 148 last year and 98 in 1963.

They include social workers to Sarawak, mechanical engineers to Kenya, town-planners to Tanzania, lab technicians to Jamaica and geologists to Ecuador.

What it can mean to the participants is reflected in a letter from Judy Pullen, an Oakville, Ont., girl teaching at a Tibetan refugee school. She wrote:

"There aren't enough hours in the day to tackle all the problems we face, but the rewards are great. The children respond to all our activities with boundless energy and enthusiasm."

"The whole atmosphere is one of self-help and joy in every task or game. We can't believe our luck."

'Falling Dominoes' Didn't Catch Roblin

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA — It was a misapprehension of the stretch of Duff Roblin's ambitions that was ultimately responsible for the failure of the federal Conservatives to woo the Manitoba premier into running as a Diefenbaker candidate in the Nov. 8 election.

Newman

That small cadre of Conservatives who find their continuing loyalty to John Diefenbaker compatible with a strong concern for the party's long term future mapped out the Roblin approach according to a kind of "falling dominoes" theory.

It went something like this: If we can get George Hees back into the fold, Duff Roblin, who doesn't want Hees to be the next leader, will have to come in. Once we've got Duff, we can get Marcel Faribault as his Quebec Lieutenant because Faribault has that kind of respect for Roblin.

"And once we have Faribault, we've got a chance of breaking into rural Quebec in a major way, and that could mean victory on Nov. 8."

New Image

This was a brilliant strategy because if it had worked, it would have made credible an image of the Conservative party as a newly united political movement of strong leaders willing to submerge their personal differences for the national good.

The entry of these three men—plus Davie Fulton's candidature in Kamloops, B.C.—would also have provided the party with a sense of transition, an indication that the changing of the guard in Conservative ranks was finally under way.

George Hees, the first domino, was easy enough to knock off. It took only one strong hint by Gordon Churchill that if George didn't come now, he would forever be locked out of the leadership race—especially in view of the fact that Roblin was next on the list of recruits.

The Churchill group next made the appeal to Roblin and for a few ecstatic days, it seemed to be working. According to his intimates, Roblin was on the verge of declaring his federal candidature last Thursday night.

But as soon as he became aware of the real nature of the Diefenbaker appeal, as transmitted through Gordon Churchill, his ardor began to cool and by Sunday night it had vanished altogether.

Roblin seems to have realized that he was being used—not for any qualities of statesmanship he might be able to contribute to the Conservative party in Ottawa—but simply as a weapon with which Diefenbaker hoped to club Pearson.

"If they had mapped out a technique to put at the disposal of the country the qualities of the man—and not just Roblin's political appeal in the peculiar circumstance of the moment—they would have got him," says one of Roblin's close friends.

Bad Assumption

By assuming Roblin was nothing more than a power-driven politico, Churchill seriously underestimated the premier's principles and overestimated his ambitions.

Roblin does not have an insatiable drive to be prime minister of Canada and has large doubts about whether he possesses the personal qualities for the job.

Even his most enthusiastic supporters, who believe implicitly that Roblin should and will be prime minister of Canada some day, doubted the credibility of the Diefenbaker offer.

Churchill is understood to have assured Roblin that Diefenbaker really did intend to back him as his successor (within three months if he were defeated on Nov. 8 and within 18 months or so if he won).

But on reflection, the Roblin entourage considered Diefenbaker's second-hand pledges to be part of a technique rather than a show of serious intentions.

Discount Victory

Those Roblin-for-leader boosters discount the possibility of a Diefenbaker victory and believe that by going to Ottawa as an opposition backbencher Roblin would forfeit his strong position as a provincial premier who can exercise political leverage over federal policies, without contributing significantly to the national good, without contributing in personal stature.

"Once he had Roblin sitting behind him, Diefenbaker could delay his retirement indefinitely," says a Roblin supporter. "It was just too perilous a sea in which to launch Duff's leadership candidacy."

Summer's End Brings Death To All But the Queen Wasp

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

With the coming of our first frosts insect activity will be slowed down considerably. Delicate forms such as midges, mosquitoes, aphids, lace wings and others will die, leaving eggs or young stages to tide the species over the winter ahead. Others will hibernate as adults, sleeping in some protected spot until the average temperature again rises to tolerate levels.

Dr. Carl

In some species all adults die off each fall except for a favored few. This is particularly true of wasps which seem to have been especially numerous this past season. These rather conspicuous insects are members of a highly specialized group some of which live in colonies. In these so-called social species such as the paper-making wasps, all the workers die at the end of the active season but the fertilized queens live through the winter and start new colonies the following year.

There are many species of wasps in the world, perhaps several hundred different kinds, and several dozen different kinds are found in our areas. These belong to three families, namely the spider wasps, the digger wasps, and the vespid wasps. The spider wasps are mostly black in color but some have a bit of red on the abdomen and they all prey upon spiders. The digger wasps, as one might guess, mostly excavate burrows in the soil but some make nests in hollow plant stems, and some (the mud dwellers) build nests of mud. They prey upon a wide variety of insects but some depend entirely upon spiders.

The vespids are probably the best known wasps to the layman because this group includes the familiar yellow jacket, paper wasp, mason wasp and hornet. These insects are nearly always banded with yellow or white and they prey upon caterpillars to a large extent. Some solitary species, such as the mason wasps, build little mud capsules in which to lay their eggs but most are colonial forms and construct large nests of paper. When these happen to be located in an exposed situation, near a garden path, trail, or habitation they are likely to attract attention because of their size and because of the reaction of the inhabitants to any intruder.

Each nest consists of several galleries or tiers hung from the one above by a series of pedicels and the whole is surrounded by an envelope of paper with an entrance near the bottom. The galleries are made up of many six-sided compartments much like bee-comb in design but also made of paper, not wax as in the case of the honey bee. The compartments are cubicles in which the young develop; they are not used for food storage but for nurseries, each one being occupied by an egg, grub or pupa depending upon the stage of development of the inmate.

When such a nest is fully developed it may be larger than a foot-ball in size and may contain many thousands of wasps. Getting rid of such a structure is no light task because of its size coupled with the fact that its inhabitants resent any disturbance. Burning is very effective but can only be undertaken where there is no danger of setting the surroundings afire and there is some risk in getting stung in the process unless adequate precautions are taken. A much slower method is to blow powdered insecticide or spray into the opening so that the inhabitants have to walk through it to gain entrance. In time they die off but the process may take a week or more.

If the nest and contents are no immediate threat to humans they are best left alone. The worker wasps will all die off when cold weather sets in and the nest is not re-occupied the following year.

The question often arises, what is the difference between a wasp and a hornet? Actually there is no real difference. A hornet is just a big wasp, or one can say a yellow jacket is a small hornet. Structurally they are practically identical. However it seems to be general practice to call our large black and white wasp a hornet and the several smaller species yellow jackets if they are banded in yellow. Most of the common wasps in our area have no vernacular names so for accuracy the scientific name has to be used. But this is a matter of interest only to entomologists who are studying insects of this group.

In the meantime, if you find a queen wasp hibernating in your woodpile put your foot upon her; this will eliminate one chance of a colony being established in your vicinity next season.

Send questions in natural history to Dr. Cliff Carl, care of the Victoria Daily Times.

Is Something Cooking in Cuba? Exiles Say Dissatisfaction Rife

By BEN W. MEYER

WASHINGTON — Many Cuban exiles who once dreamed of toppling Fidel Castro by invading their homeland now say it is Castro's own military that will turn on and destroy him.

There seems to be a new feeling of hope among Cuban exiles in Washington, Miami, New York and elsewhere. "Algo se esta cocinando en Cuba," they say—"Something is cooking in Cuba."

Castro was hailed as a conquering hero when his revolution swept him into power in January, 1959, but now grumbling is audible at times when he makes his three-hour speeches.

The bearded Communist mentions with increasing frequency and bitterness the problem of guerrillas inside Cuba. And he insists they have been stamped out.

Another problem to which he refers obliquely at times is that of the loyalty of his army and militia forces. Experts here say disaffection has increased enormously within these forces in recent months with the spread of discontent among Cubans at their plight under Communist masters.

Castro still controls Cuba. His military forces and sophisticated weapons are the most powerful in all Latin America. The great hope of the exiles is that this power will be turned on the Castro government.

Some exiles insist there have been at least three attempts in recent months to assassinate the Cuban premier. U.S. officials say they have nothing to confirm such reports.

Exiles and U.S. officials often have disagreed about some aspects of the situation inside Cuba. Cuban refugees concede they may be influenced at times by wishful thinking, but say U.S. intelligence in Cuba has been deficient at times—as in the missile crisis of 1962.

But there are a number of things on which U.S. experts and the Cuban exiles agree:

● Cuba's economy and international finance is in chaos.

● Castro's theory that below-cost prices for Cuba's bumper sugar crop will be offset by profits in other production is nonsense.

● The Cuban army and people's militia is heavily infiltrated by anti-Castro forces. There have been numerous purges and arrests of military men and weapons have been taken away from various units.

● Hatred for the Communist regime is spreading among the populace.

● Imprisonment, firing-squad executions and other measures aimed at stamping out dissenters are producing additional defections throughout all elements of the population.

● Grumbling against rationing, shortages and repressive measures is widespread. One report says that when Castro told people in the vicinity of Nuevitas, a key port city on Cuba's north coast, that they were better off than ever before, the crowd chorused denials so vehemently they drowned out the loudspeakers. The next day army men moved into the town, confiscated dozens of businesses, dragged off dozens of prisoners.

LAWNS

By far the cheapest and best fertilizer for your lawn and shrubs is weedfree topsoil. If applied as a topdressing (one yard for every 600 sq. feet) it will after three yearly applications develop a thick and lasting turf that feels like a soft carpet. That is how good and lasting lawns used to be made in the days not so long ago when we had not yet heard of chemical fertilizers. Topdressed lawns are moreover far less vulnerable to weeds and, most important of all, require less watering. One 50-lb. bag of chemical fertilizer costing $4.00 contains only 8 pounds of plant food. In comparison, you can buy for the same $4.00 2,500 pounds of weedfree topsoil, of which every pound helps to build up a good lawn.

When buying topsoil insist upon soil free of weeds and clay. The cost of dweeding is such that apart from the health hazards involved it does not pay to buy topsoil containing seeds of weeds.

Two inches of weedfree topsoil are also minimum requirements for making a good weedfree new lawn. For best quality topsoil that is free of weeds and clay, contact:

... full-time candidate

Taxi Firm Operator Grit Choice

A 43-year-old partner in a downtown taxi company was chosen Liberal candidate Wednesday night in Esquimalt-Saanich constituency.

James Gorst, who owns and drives taxis, won the nomination on a second ballot at a meeting attended by close to 100 persons in Tillicum School.

Before he was chosen, he pledged to withdraw from his business and devote his full time to the campaign.

Born in Victoria, he grew up in Saanich where he has lived nearly all his life. He was active in the young Liberals and later the adult section.

Recently, he was prominent in a fight against pollution. He is currently president of the Portage Inlet and George Waterway Association, formed to clean up the area and battle pollution.

Farmer Joseph Saville was eliminated on the first ballot and Mr. Gorst won the second over David Elrix, manager of a local insurance agency. Figures were not disclosed.

NOMINATED

Already nominated in Esquimalt-Saanich constituency—which does not include Esquimalt municipality—are George Chatterton for the Progressive Conservatives and Len Stephenson for the New Democrats.

The seat was held in the last Parliament by Mr. Chatterton, who won the constituency at the 1963 election with a majority of 2,585 over a Liberal.

While ballots were counted, the Liberal member for Vancouver-Burrard in the last Parliament said British Columbia's "special and peculiar problems" will be solved by electing a strong group of Liberals from the province.

Ron Basford said he hoped everyone present would tell potential voters for the New Democratic Party "they are wasting their vote and doing B.C. a disservice."

'ROADBLOCK'

The NDP was the party that "threw every roadblock" in front of the Columbia River treaty, he said.

"Many people have tried to solve problems by voting NDP. These are people who, while not picketing U.S. embassies, say they can solve B.C. problems."

"They are not going to be solved by electing NDP members, or Tories."

He pointed out nine of the 22 seats in B.C. were held by New Democrats in the last Parliament.

He outlined government achievements since 1963—"about 40 major pieces of legislation"—and held out bargaining rights for civil servants, medicare and an extension of the war on poverty if the Liberals are re-elected in the Nov. 8 election.

'Credit Refused Low Ranks'

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Results are expected at defence headquarters within two weeks on a Royal Canadian Legion report that some servicemen may have been refused credit debts because of their low rank.

The Legion set out the complaints in a letter to Ottawa about two weeks ago.

It said that representations had come to the national veterans' organization that some low-ranking servicemen had been having difficulty in getting credit arrangements from certain oil companies, auto insurance companies, and car rental agencies. The companies were not specified.

Defence department spokesmen said an immediate request had been made to all commands in the country for a thorough check. Their reports are expected in Ottawa in about 10 days.

The officials said that the servicemen who had complained to the legion were below the rank of sergeant.

DOG BROUGHT IN FROM CALIFORNIA

Blind Man Feared Lost in Oregon Wilds

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP)

A specially-trained dog was being brought here from California Wednesday to try and determine whether a blind man and his dog are lost in the wilderness at nearby Chilquin.

A German shepherd dog with a special harness worn by guide dogs for the blind was reported on Calimus Butte a week ago.

The previous day a blind man and his German shepherd dog were reported in a car that had a flat tire on the highway between Chilquin and Sprague River.

Two men said a woman flagged them down and they changed the flat for her while the blind man and the dog went for a walk. A service station operator who repaired the tire said the car bore Canadian licence plates.

RCMP and city police in Vancouver said officials of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind say they are not aware of any blind man from British Columbia being missing.

A fire lookout atop Calimus Butte said he sighted the dog Sept. 15 and has heard the dog yelping since. He said he found dog tracks in the area but searchers have not seen the dog since.

The blind man has not been reported, nor has anyone reported finding any human footprints along with the dog's.

CARLETON PLACE, Ont. (CP) — Conservative MP George Doucet, 68, a former provincial cabinet minister, announced Wednesday night he would not contest his Lanark seat in the Nov. 8 general election.

It's never bedtime for your Esso Home Heat serviceman

When things go wrong (like your furnace giving up the ghost) they don't go wrong when they should go wrong—at nice convenient times. They go wrong in the middle of the night. Your Esso Home Heat serviceman knows this sad fact, so he's ready to help you whenever trouble occurs. Twenty-four hours a day. Seven days a week. And an Esso serviceman is likely to put things right faster and more efficiently than anyone else. Why? Because Esso servicemen are the best qualified in the business. Imperial Oil selected them because of that. They're the best trained. Imperial Oil trains them—in its own schools. When an Esso serviceman inspects your furnace, he makes up a "case history" about it. Just like a doctor with a new patient. All this is free, of course. But, more important still, it has behind it Imperial Oil's unqualified guarantee of reliable, competent maintenance—day or night. No wonder you have that nice warm feeling when you use Esso Home Heat Service.

'Brannan Lake Children's Jail'

UBCM Delegates Score Committal Of Youngsters to Industrial School

Brannan Lake boys' industrial school is a jail for children, delegates to the Union of B.C. Municipalities were told by a woman councillor Wednesday.

Deploing the committal of children under 13 to provincial government training schools, Coun. Joan Greenwood, of West Vancouver, said Brannan Lake "is not an industrial school. It is a jail for children."

She was speaking to a resolution passed by the UBCM's 62nd convention asking that the provincial government "exclude young children from training schools and to consider separate places of care to meet the full needs of respective age groups."

Vancouver Alderman B. A. Emery added, "it would be better for parents of these children to be placed somewhere."

He said in his experience he has found on several occasions children in the 9-11 age group are "locked out until 11:30" by parents. Instead of going home after public evening functions, for example, the children are left to wander about after dark.

"I think we've got to find some way of dealing with this situation," Ald. Emery said.

WINTER WORKS

The convention passed a resolution asking the provincial government to return to its former winter works policy permitting municipalities to hire workmen from the best available sources, paying 25 per cent of wages.

The new provincial policy, adopted despite local protests, provides for 50 per cent of wages for workmen who have been at least three months on welfare rolls.

Delegates also approved a Sunday entertainment resolution presented at five successive conventions of the UBCM without a flicker of response from the provincial government.

A slight difference in the wording this time is hoped to get provincial support by asking for Sunday games, movies, symphonies and concerts after 1:30 p.m., to which admissions would be charged. It is also worded to allow for local option.

Two other resolutions which passed Wednesday were Victoria's bid to have all member municipalities adopt anti-fireworks bylaws as done in Greater

Gavel, Scroll To Mark Centennial

A speaker's gavel, stand and scroll to travel to every local council in the province during centennial year was approved Wednesday as the Union of B.C. Municipalities' 1967 Confederation centennial project.

During the first half of 1967, the items would be handed from council to council, used to open and close a formal meeting, and the scroll inscribed by each mayor, reeve or chairman conducting the meeting.

At the end of the tour, the gavel and scroll would be presented to the provincial government to be placed in the new museum and archives. A replica of the gavel would be given to the UBCM for use at its conventions.

Cost would be borne by the provincial centennial commission, which has endorsed the project.

DELEGATES FEEL PINCH

Delegates to the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention here felt the undeviating pinch of tow-away parking zone enforcement Wednesday.

Somebody forgot to warn delegates that although they were issued colored windshield stickers exempting cars from overparking penalties in ordinary metered zones, they would have no protection in the arterial tow-away zones.

Several delegates faced the embarrassment of tracing cars to the impounding lot to pay fines and towing charges.

Victoria, except for the granting of permits for special celebrations; and a request for a provincial study of under-developed recreational areas and examination of local financial resources with a view to reaching a formula for assistance.

RESOLUTION

Fifteen of the 79 formal resolutions to be dealt with by Friday afternoon had been disposed of by Wednesday evening. Twenty-one of them concern money add municipal finance.

The following resolution passed a request that minimum property tax after homeowner grant deduction be $50 rather than the nominal $1; a local share of provincial gasoline tax; more government sharing of education costs; reallocation of hospital costs, and tax exemptions.

Executive director T. R. B. Adams reported that eight matters dealt with at last year's convention had been presented to the government as major policy changes.

Only the first, concerning procedure on legislation affecting municipalities, had been acted upon. No definite action has been taken on the others.

Sunday sports and entertainment, grants in lieu of taxes, ambulance service, PGE Railway tax exemption, air pollution, chronic hospitals and municipal exemption from sales tax.

"But it can be reasonably assumed that at least in several cases the subject matter is still under consideration," Mr. Adams said.

A number of other matters were due to be dealt with at the next municipal-provincial conference before the end of the year.

Municipal Convention Buys Theatre Seat

The spirit of McPherson Playhouse got through to Union of B.C. Municipalities convention meeting there Wednesday.

Before delegates called it a day after their first of three days of business, they agreed to endow a $10 seat in the civic theatre, entitling the union to have a brass nameplate affixed to the backrest.

CENTENNIAL BID

Chamber Backs Forest Museum

DUNCAN—Chamber of Commerce directors Wednesday endorsed permanent improvement of the year-old Cowichan Valley Forest Museum as the district's centennial project.

The suggestion will be put to the city's centennial committee.

It was proposed by chamber director Will Dobson who is also a director of the museum.

Mr. Dobson said: "There doesn't seem to be much planning being done for the centennial locally and the museum seems to have a terrific public appeal."

"The museum represents 100 years of logging and would make a suitable commemorative project."

TOURIST CARD

Chairman David Pollock agreed and said the museum was proving to be the best tourist drawing card in the history of the Cowichan Valley.

Mr. Dobson said the museum was run by a non-profit group and the site was owned jointly by the municipalities of North Cowichan, Duncan and Lake Cowichan.

In other business, Duncan Chamber dropped an idea to call a general meeting regarding recreation.

President David Pollock said he had four men willing to serve on a recreation commission.

SEEK EIGHT

The chamber's aim was eight men.

Mr. Pollock said the chamber accepted a city council challenge to find people to serve.

He admitted: "It's not such an easy job as we thought."

Will Dobson said the city had given its word to act in appoint-

Club Bids To Purchase Curling Rink

DUNCAN—Members of Duncan Curling Club have voted to buy the rink they now lease.

The sale price of $45,000 has yet to be accepted by the shareholders of Cowichan Curling Co-Operative Association, owners of the building.

The club had an offer from association directors inviting them to buy the building for $45,000.

Curling club president Alan Taylor said Wednesday "Association directors have a meeting Friday and we hope they will call a general meeting to decide on our purchase offer."

"We want a reply by Oct. 29, the first day of the new season."

Mr. Taylor said Tuesday's meeting faced a "buy or build" decision.

It was decided to try to buy after it had been reported a new building would cost a minimum $100,000.

Mr. Taylor said the club felt it could pay the $45,000 within six years.

For the five-month season last year the club paid $11,000 including power and heating.

The purchase decision by the club was unanimous. It has been leasing the rink for the past 14 years.

SOMETHING OF A STRANGER to Vancouver Island, giant spruce was loaded Wednesday at Cowichan Bay. The spruce was logged in the Queen Charlotte Islands and barged down to the bay for export. Supervising loading was Chemainus stevedoring superintendent Jim Syme. Here he stands beside one of the monsters, largest of which was 10 feet across the butt and weighed seven tons. The logs, along with a shipment of Island hemlock, are bound for Tokyo aboard the Hikokane Maru.

Shrimp's Bay Takes Top Horse Show Cup

Steer riding was the chief drawing card at the weekend horse show sponsored by the Victoria Western Horsemen's Club.

Crowds of about 300 on Saturday and 500 Sunday watched riders perform at the show, held at Saanichton Fair Grounds.

More than 80 competitors from local, out-Island and mainland points vied for honors in both Western and English events.

Judge was Jim Maxim of Vancouver, joined by Jerry North of Victoria for the steer riding events.

High aggregate winner for the western events was Bob Grimshaw on Shrimp's Bay. Junior high aggregate winner was David Adams on Chief Buttons.

A search for underwater oil and gas sources off the west coast of Vancouver Island by Shell Oil Company will be helped by $30,000 from the provincial government.

The cabinet today authorized the expenditure to establish proper elevation control on the west coast.

Present controls are old and inadequate and have caused delays, said the cabinet order.

Road To Be Closed

CAMPBELL RIVER—Sportsmen planning trips through the Nimpkish Valley or in the Gold River area hunting this weekend are reminded that a portion of Elk River Timber Co. road will be closed Saturday. The road will be closed to all traffic at the Heber River bridge, three miles west of Camp 10, from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. while emergency repairs are made to the logging bridge.

The government's surveys and mapping branch is responsible for establishing the elevation information.

LADYSMITH — School board officials Wednesday released details of a $1,389,600 school referendum.

The referendum announced Monday night, will be put to voters Nov. 6.

Chief provision is $502,374 for centralization of grade 11 to 13 programs in Ladysmith High School.

In future Chemainus High—which also receives $163,316—will no longer teach the higher grades.

At the same time, two new primary schools will be built: Ladysmith costing $189,540 and Chemainus costing $129,980.

Other major expenditures include expansion of Mount Brenon School, Saltair ($60,210) and at North Oyster School ($86,500).

The retarded school will be relocated in Ladysmith ($33,100) and a district maintenance shop will be built ($26,500).

$30,000 ALLOCATED

Offshore Drilling Aid by B.C. Gov't.

The B.C. cabinet has allocated $30,000 to help offshore drilling. The move, Wednesday, will enable Shell Oil Co. Ltd. to overcome delays in drilling for gas.

and oil off the West coast of Vancouver Island. The money will pay for the cost of establishing proper elevation controls at several coastal points.

The cabinet order-in-council said present controls are old and inaccurate and have already caused delay and additional work.

It is the responsibility of the government's surveys and mapping branch to establish elevation control from which oil companies carry out undersea drilling programs.

CANADIAN GOV'T TO BEAR COST

176-Home Project in U.K.

LONDON (CP) — The Canadian government has decided to finance construction of some 176 Canadian-designed new homes in Britain to show Britons they can get better housing faster and at a reasonable price by using Canadian timber frames. The cost of this project may be between $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

If this project proves successful, it likely will open a vastly extended market for Canadian timber. Though Britain is short of homes, builders still favor masonry construction which takes about four times longer than framed dwellings to erect and which are more difficult than framed housing to heat.

The Canadian administration has already built six experimental houses in three different communities in Britain to show the advantages of timber frames. Now the big construction project is to be undertaken to show large-scale comparative costs between timber and masonry and the differences in construction time.

The new homes, under the design supervision of the publicly-owned Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. of Canada, are to be located on a 14-acre site at Harlow New Town in Essex County about 25 miles north of London, officials disclosed Tuesday.

AVERAGE COST $10,000

With Canadian engineers and architects keeping a watchful eye, construction of the terraced, brick-faced, two-storey homes is to start next June and completed possibly by early 1968. Average cost for each house, not including land, may be about $10,000.

The Canadian government will put up the entire costs, hiring a British building firm to erect the homes under Canadian supervision. Eventually, the community council will buy the completed homes from Canada so that the only residue costs to Canada, if all goes well, would be architectural and engineering supervision.

The project is an outgrowth of the 1963 tour of Canada by the British government research team headed by Sir Donald Gibson, chief of the works department research division.

Big Expansion By LaFarge

VANCOUVER (CP) — Plans for a $35,000,000 cement plant in Montreal and expansion of its Vancouver plant were announced Wednesday by French-owned LaFarge Cement of North America Ltd. The company said that although the Montreal cement market now is "saturated" it has a growth rate of six per cent annually and "we expect to secure a respectable share of this market." The planned expansion of the LaFarge plant here will boost its yearly capacity to 3,500,000 barrels.

FROM 'CHARGE!' TO 'TAPS'...

Sound of Dick Emmons' trumpet signified end of an era in Milwaukee Wednesday night. Emmons played "Charge" for years at County Stadium to lead cheers. But cheers have echoed hollowly this year as fans practically boycotted Braves, playing out their string before moving to Atlanta next year. Emmons' "Taps" was heard by 12,577 as Braves went out a loser, 7-6, to Los Angeles in 11 innings. Braves moved to Milwaukee from Boston 13 years ago. (AP Wirephoto.)

LOWLY ATTENDANCE...

...KILLS MINOR CLUB

Fans Derail 'Choo-Choo'

The Braves said goodbye to Milwaukee and the California Angels said farewell to Los Angeles Wednesday night.

On the minor league front, Chattanooga announced it would not operate another year because attendance fell to a low of 25,000 for the Southern League season.

Milwaukee's franchise will operate in Atlanta next season unless court action forces another delay. Attendance hit a low of 12,577 Monday against Philadelphia and less than 550,000 have turned out for the lame duck year at County Stadium.

The Angels, who move down the road a few miles to Anaheim, Calif., in 1966, will shed no tears about leaving Dodger Stadium. "Next year the fans will be ours," said shortstop Jim Fregosi, "not 10,000 people in the stands listening to the Dodgers on their radios."

Joe Engel's Chattanooga team, once a top draw in the minors with fantastic promotions that included an elephant hunt, has been in pro ball since 1901 with the exception of 1962. The Braves moved to Milwaukee from Boston 13 years ago while the Angels came into being through the expansion of the American League five seasons ago.

SAINTS ROLL TO BIG WIN

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP)—St. Pierre Saints Wednesday night crushed Drummondville Athletics 18-4 to take a 3-2 lead in the Quebec Lacrosse best-of-seven final series.

League organizers said the next game will be at Montreal either Sunday or Monday.

Ada Looks Good To Set Record

TORONTO (CP)—Ada Mackenzie of Toronto took the lead after 18 holes Wednesday of the 36-hole Canadian women's senior golf championship. The tournament ends today.

Miss Mackenzie, bidding to become the first person in the 41-year history of the event to win the title eight times, shot an eight-over-par 85. That put her six strokes ahead of second place Mrs. A. B. Darling of Montreal who shot 91. Mrs. Darling is the defending champion.

MINNESOTA GOES WILD...

Twins More Important Than Teaching

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A South Dakota schoolteacher said she refused to return to teaching this fall on the chance that she and her elderly mother could see Minnesota Twins play in the World Series.

A man said he would buy series tickets with winnings from betting a dollar on each Twins game this season.

The club is 96-58.

Another man drew bikini-clad girls on an envelope to attract attention.

That's how some of the applicants hoped to receive a share of the 23,000 World Series tickets being distributed this week for games at Metropolitan Stadium.

Tickets official Charley Lavender said thousands of the letter-writers used gimmicks to get tickets, the first of which were mailed Wednesday.

The man who drew pretty girls on the envelope probably would be surprised to learn that most of the 50 assistants helping Lavender open and answer the mail are women.

Another envelope was made from a large file folder and was gaily decorated with baseballs and pictures of Twins stars—and of Lavender and his two chief assistants.

"This guy got tickets," Lavender said. "But it wasn't because of the picture of me. The envelope was so big that the women wanted to get it out of the way. So they selected it."

Lavender said tickets went to the first applicants picked out of the mail sacks.

"We'll only lose two players next season. The three players who have been named the most valuable in the Minto Cup series should try to duplicate what we have done. We're no super team; we just worked harder than anybody else for the victory."

"Lacrosse is ready to move into our big cities. No one should try to win future crowns through legislation that might whittle away at our strength."

Bishop, 36, a lacrosse coach for 20 years, long has argued against playoff recruits. "Clubs should play for the title with the teams they use to get to the final."

LOSE TWO PLAYERS

Soaking after his happy players tossed him into the showers, he said the Green Gaels still were two years from their peak.

"You can go back to wearing your regular robe right after your next win, Kid!"

Coach Keith Jackson of New Westminster said Oshawa speed and conditioning were the big factors.

The three consecutive victories tied a mark established by Brampton, Ont., and the series attendance of 15,000 set in 1959, the last of Brampton's three winning years.

Powless provided the offensive punch in the series final with three goals. Phil Clayton added two and Ross Jones, Neil Armstrong, Higgs, and Fred Greenwood got the others. Paul Shymr scored three goals for New Westminster and Wayne Bellwood added the others.

In the tight contest, which threatened to erupt into a donnybrook in the closing 20 minutes, Oshawa's superior speed and ball control spelled the difference.

ries in each of our championship years will be with us."

He referred to netminder Merv Marshall, the inaugural winner of the award in 1963; centre Gaylord Powless, the 1964 winner, and defenceman Jim Higgs, awarded the medal in an unanimous selection by sports writers in the series just concluded.

Higgs, 17 today, finished the series with 23 points, tying Powless for the series leadership. Ranjit Dillon was the top New Westminster scorer with a series total of 15.

ESPERANTO took back off early pace, waited to final quarter then moved up on outside, never leaders down steadily and was going away at finish. MARADE was under restraint through early stages then closed strongly through last quarter, getting up to be second in final stride. WHANG LEATHER battled for lead all the way, being pressed throughout, held on gamely but could not hold with first two approaching. ACADEMIC was making up ground in last part. Overweight—Esperanto (4), Academic Award (3), Good Thinkin (3).

VETS GET TURF ORDERS: TIGHTEN UP ON DRUGS

Controls were tightened today on the use of drugs in horse racing in B.C.

A cabinet order instructs all veterinarians to make reports on horses given medication and the medication used.

Failure to do this leaves the vet subject to suspension by the Racing Commission.

From now on, the words narcotic, stimulant, depressant, local anaesthetic or pyrozoilidine are eliminated from regulations and replaced by the word drug as defined in the Federal Food and Drugs Act.

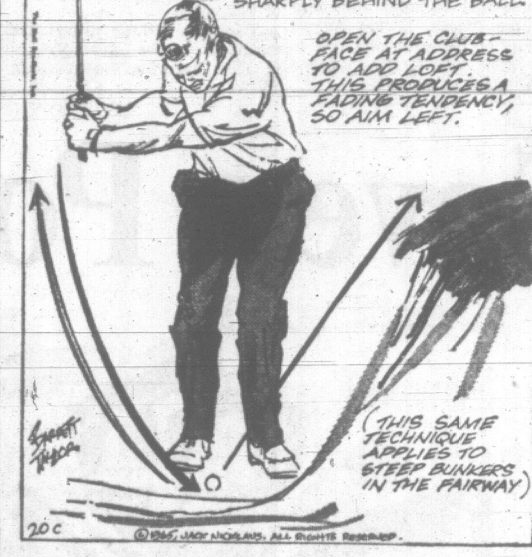

Agriculture Minister Frank Richter said the changes bring all new drugs and combinations of drugs under jurisdiction of the Racing Commission.

Chelsea Takes Stormy Battle

LONDON (AP)—Chelsea, English League soccer team, crushed Roma of Italy 4-1 Wednesday night in a stormy first leg of an Inter-Cities Fairs Cup first-round clash.

Chelsea ended the game with 10 men and at one time was down to nine. But the British still overran a slower and less powerful foe.

Terry Venables, Chelsea inside-left and captain, led his team to victory with three goals. He was off the field injured for the last few minutes of the first half. Chelsea led 2-1 at half-time.

Inside-right Graham got the fourth goal.

Chelsea left-back McCreadie was sent off in the 28th minute after tangle with an Italian defender. Barison later had his name taken by Dutch Referee W. J. M. Schalks.

The second leg is scheduled for Oct. 6 in Rome. Scores of other games played Wednesday:

Famed Curling Author Dies

LEWIS, Que. (CP)—H. E. (Jim) Weyman, 83, a curling enthusiast who wrote a widely-circulated book about the game, died Wednesday at his home in this community across the St. Lawrence River from Quebec City.

Weyman, who died in his sleep, was a founder and leading organizer of the Quebec City international bonspiel. He was known locally as Mr. Currier.

His book, Analysis of the Art of Curling, has found readers throughout North America and in Europe.

'Reinstate Me and End Dispute'—Clay to WBA

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Heavyweight boxer Cassius Clay asked the World Boxing Association Wednesday to reinstate him "to facilitate the clearing up of the dispute in the heavyweight division."

Clay was stripped of his heavyweight title 13 months ago for signing a return bout contract with Sonny Liston before their second fight. Still, he's generally recognized as heavyweight champion.

Clay made his request through his Louisville, Ky., lawyer in a telegram to World Boxing Association president James Deskin of Las Vegas, Nev.

"As far as the WBA is concerned, Ernie Terrell is the heavyweight champion," Deskin said. "Clay is merely asking for reinstatement which would make it possible for him to eventually regain the WBA title."

Deskin said the matter would be discussed by the WBA executive board and world's championship committee at a meeting in Houston, Tex., or New Orleans, La.

NOT UNEXPECTED

Deskin said Clay's request was not unexpected, since the WBA adopted a resolution at its annual meeting last month inviting Clay to make such an application.

The resolution calls for Clay to meet former champion Floyd Patterson, while Terrell engages George Chuvalo, the Canadian heavyweight champion. The winners are to meet for the WBA championship.

Clay already has agreed to meet Patterson at Las Vegas Nov. 22. Terrell is to face Chuvalo at Toronto Nov. 1.

But the WBA resolution stipulates that Clay will be permitted to participate in the elimination only if his suspension is lifted. Deskin declined to speculate whether Clay would be reinstated into the association.

Prison Guard 'Exceeded' His Authority

Two defence lawyers argued Tuesday that a fracas in Colquitz Jail July 23 resulted from a guard exceeding his authority. Two prisoners, John T. Smith and Gerald Brune, were charged with assault on prison guard Frank Bedford as a result of the incident in Smith's cell.

Specifically they were charged with assault on Bedford while he was carrying out his duty. Alan Bigelow and Ian Stewart as a peace officer. But lawyers said the circumstances showed Bedford was not doing his duty because he broke prison regulations.

Mr. Bedford said he ordered Smith to remove a piece of board from his cell but Smith refused, saying he had permission to keep the board in his cell.

The guard said Smith used foul language and hit him on the head when he himself took the board away. He said Brune intervened in the fight and pinned his arms by his sides.

TRUTH NOT CHECKED

Under cross-examination by Mr. Bigelow, Brune's lawyer, Mr. Bedford said he made no attempt to check if Smith was telling the truth when he claimed to have permission for the board.

Questioned by Mr. Stewart, Smith's lawyer, Mr. Bedford said the board was the type used by prisoners as a writing board and was in full view of anyone passing the cell.

Mr. Bigelow said jail regulations showed Bedford's duty was to report the incident to the prison warden but instead, as Bedford admitted, he had ordered Smith to solitary confinement.

Mr. Bigelow claimed that Brune's part in the affair was that of a peacemaker who grabbed one antagonist, Bedford, while a prison guard held Smith, the other person involved in the fight.

WRITING BOARD

Mr. Stewart said Bedford had only admitted very reluctantly that the wood was a writing board and kept referring to it as a cupboard door. Asked Mr. Stewart, "Was it that he preferred to give justification to his reason for taking it away?" Mr. Stewart described Colquitz Jail as "an amazing institution that has inflexible rules."

He said Bedford could easily have checked if Smith had permission to keep the writing board in the cell as he claimed. He said Bedford did not act in a reasonable manner and what occurred "was brought about by himself."

Magistrate William Ostler remanded the case to Sept. 29 for judgment.

Hungarian Elected To UN Post

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—An Eastern European Communist was elected Wednesday for the first time since 1946 to preside over the United Nations General Assembly's main political committee.

Ambassador Karoly Csatorday, Hungary's chief UN delegate, was chosen chairman of the 117-country committee by acclamation.

Ambassador J. G. de Beus of the Netherlands, nominated Csatorday. He said it was time an Eastern European was named to the committee chairmanship "in fairness, to the principle of equitable geographical distribution."

The last Eastern European chairman of the main political committee was Dimitri Z. Manuilsky of the Ukraine in 1946. Western—and especially U.S.—opposition has prevented any similar election since.

Careless Drivers

In city police court today: Robert Stewart, 3318 Doncaster, passed four cars stopped at a pedestrian crossing and hit another vehicle turning at Manchester and Gorge Rd. April 19, fined $45.

Ernest Graham, 3061 Henderson, went through a red light and collided with two cars at Blanshard and Bay Sept. 3, fined $45.

John Hole, 549 Judah, rear-end collision Sept. 3 at Douglas and Queens, fined $45.

Douglas L. Fieldhouse, 196 Crease, rear-end collision near Fort and Linden Sept. 9, fined $50.

Randall Devoy, Port Alberni, collision Sept. 4 at Fernwood and Yates Streets after going through a stop sign, fined $50, licence suspended.

John F. Trumbull, North Vancouver, rear-end collision Sept. 7 at Douglas and Cormorant, fined $40.

Cameron James Miller, 650 David, rear-end collision Sept. 6 at Gorge Rd. and Harriet, fined $45.

William Bell, 1736 Foul Bay Rd., passed a car on the right, paced at 53 mph on Bay St. near Fernwood Sept. 5, fined $45.

EFFECTS OF DROUGHT STILL BEING FELT

Rains Came to East—But Too Late

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Signs of relief from the prolonged drought in many parts of Canada and the United States have come with the turning of the leaves.

But no amount of rain can restore crops withered in the fields.

In the eastern areas of Ontario a record drought May through August led to 17 districts qualifying for federal assistance. Elsewhere in the province there was normal rainfall.

Quebec suffered below-average rainfall in June and July, but in August the rainfall set a record.

Rainfall in the Atlantic provinces was 50 per cent below normal from January through July but normal in August.

However, crop damage already had been done by the searing dry weather and forest fires. Newfoundland was an exception with normal rain for the first eight months of the year.

SEPT. RAINS HELP

Above-average September rains eased the drought's hold in all but a few of the parched states in the northeastern U.S. Nevertheless, the rains were too little, too late. A torrential downpour, lasting days is needed to fill reservoirs.

On the Prairies, it was a problem of too much rain—and snow.

Widespread crop damage occurred in Saskatchewan last week and the wet and cold weather virtually halted harvesting in Alberta.

The Prairies generally had average or better rains from April through August. But September has been cold and wet.

Despite temporary relief in the northeastern U.S., restrictions remained in force in many communities, particularly New York City. New Yorkers still can't wash their car, water their lawn or get a glass of water in a restaurant unless they ask for it.

SEARCH FOR DRIPS

New York City is in the midst of a house-to-house search for leaks that waste more water every day than some cities use.

Reservoirs supplying New York City are down almost to one-third of capacity, and in

New Jersey the Wanaque reservoir that serves the heavily populated northern section has only a 55-day supply of water.

States reporting some relief from the dry spell are New York, Connecticut, Maine, Rhode Island and Vermont.

In Maine, generous rainfall has helped ease the memory of the drought, but most of the state has been declared a drought area for federal loans to make up for hay losses.

Relief in Rhode Island has been enough to allow three communities to lift restrictions on the outside use of water.

In upstate New York, the weather bureau is optimistic that heavy rains will last to mid-October.

But in New Hampshire rainfall is still below normal and ground water levels are dropping. Concord, which has been pumping from an emergency water source since November, 1964, has plans to switch to a secondary emergency source.

Many creeks and ponds are at the lowest levels in years in Massachusetts. Water bottoms are in sight for the first time in a generation.

Long-range planning to offer a permanent solution to the drought, now four years old in some parts of the northeastern U.S., is under way with top U.S. government priority.

The Civil Defence Agency in Vermont is laying pipe in Addison County to pump emergency water from Lake Champlain to dozens of farms.

HEAVY FLOODING HITS U.S.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Autumn rushed in with violence today as rains pounded the soggy U.S. midsection and rivers flooded farm land and into homes, driving thousands of persons to higher ground.

Blinding rains bringing up to 10 inches of water pelted much of Texas and sent the Pedernales River rising in front of President Johnson's LBJ ranch home.

Many rivers spilled over their banks in the mid-Mississippi Valley Wednesday, with serious flooding reported in parts of Kansas, Iowa, Arkansas, Missouri, Texas, Oklahoma and Illinois.

Standardized Education Plan

By DON ANGUS
FREDERICTON (CP) — Canada's education ministers have agreed in principle to establish a university admission board that could have the effect of standardizing high school curricula, Quebec's education minister said here Tuesday night.

In an interview following closed sessions of the standing committee of education ministers, Paul Gerin-Lajoie said the ministers only considered the type of board to be set up.

He said many problems of implementation remain, including how to fit English- and French-speaking universities into the same program.

A press conference, at which the ministers were to discuss the admission board and a commission on school broadcasting, was postponed until today.

The ministers are meeting in conjunction with the 42nd annual convention of the Canadian Education Association, which was to hold its first plenary session today. The CEA conference, attended by an estimated 700 delegates, ends Friday.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie said the university admissions board would be utilized by Canadian universities and colleges on a purely voluntary basis.

Drug Suspect Loses Round In Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—Edward Sherban, wanted by California courts on a narcotics charge, lost the first skirmish Wednesday in his battle to avoid extradition from Canada.

Sherban's lawyer objected at the start of the hearing to the status of copies of an indictment the U.S. government's lawyer sought to enter as exhibits.

Mr. Justice J. S. Aikins ruled the copies, which defence counsel said were not sufficiently authenticated, were properly presented and meet the requirements of Canadian law.

Sherban is wanted on a charge of importing 38 ounces of heroin from Mexico in July, 1963.

Two Break-in Suspects Choose Trial by Judge

Two persons charged with a break-in at Clark and Cordick farm supply store elected trial by magistrate when they appeared in court Wednesday.

Russell Bowcott and Shirley Lalonde will be tried on the charge Oct. 4. Another accused, Sid Travers, elected trial by judge and jury and the date for the preliminary hearing will be fixed Sept. 29.

The fourth accused, Steve Remington, was remanded one week to enable him to engage a lawyer for his defence.

Crown prosecutor Peter Birkeitt said exhibits in the case are now being analyzed in Vancouver.

B.C. Will Publish Book for Centenary

The province will commemorate the 196 and 1967 centenaries with publication of a souvenir book about British Columbia.

"It will capture the vibrancy of British Columbia, 1966," said L. J. Wallace, the general chairman of the provincial centennial committee.

The 160-page hard-cover book will be half written material and half photographs, both black and white and in color. It will be a study of B.C. today against the background of the province's history.

Producer of the book is

Herbert McDonald, a Vancouver photographer, designer and writer. He has toured several areas to get first-hand impressions and pictures and will visit the whole province. The book will be printed and bound by Evergreen Press of Vancouver and distributed by the provincial and local centennial committee at $2.50 each.

In 1966, B.C. celebrates the 100th anniversary of the union of the crown colonies of Vancouver Island and the mainland. The following year the province will join in 100th anniversary celebrations of Canadian confederation.

Viet Nam War Added To Peking Repertoire

By VIRGIL BERGER

PEKING (Reuters)—The Viet Nam war and other "revolutionary" themes have been added to the repertoire of entertainers in Peking's Bridge of Heaven district, the Chinese capital's main popular amusement area for three centuries.

In most of the small, rickety shacks and booths, acrobats, conjurers, jugglers, clowns, musicians and traditional storytellers play to capacity crowds with performances which have changed little over the years.

But one small stage is regularly devoted to a youthful reciter clicking a wooden rattle and wearing a false nose as he declaims in rhythmic tones a comic tale of woe and defeat beginning: "I am an American soldier, they sent me to Korea and Viet Nam."

VICTORIA DIVORCES

Divorces were granted in Victoria Law Courts this week: Gudrun A. Britt, 855 Kindersley Rd., Victoria, from James E. Britt, 62 West 11th Street, Vancouver. They were married at Hemer, West Germany, in 1961.

Marjory M. Shorthouse, 58 Devondale Drive, Willowdale, Ont., from Desmond Shorthouse, 39 Gorge Road West, Victoria. They were married in Vancouver in 1945.

Ileen A. Turner, 592 Rich Street, Campbell River, from William A. Turner, 1831-17th Avenue, Campbell River, V.I. They were married at Campbell River in 1952.

Frances L. Waller, 1631 Northfield Road, Nanaimo, from Arthur E. Waller, 764 Cadogan Street, Nanaimo. They were married in Vancouver in 1941.

Phyllis E. Kroeker, 1198 Esquimalt Road, Victoria, from Arthur D. Kroeker, 2112 Second Avenue, Vancouver. They were married in Victoria in 1946.

Margaret D. Sudlow, 4357 Rocky Point Road, Victoria, RR 1, from Leonard H. Sudlow, Jordan River, V.I. They were married in Victoria in 1952.

New Zealand Battles Tipping

WELLINGTON (CP)—New Zealand continues to fight a vigorous rearguard action against the custom of tipping.

New Zealand is one of the few parts of the world where tipping is almost unknown and attempts to introduce the habit in recent years in hotels and restaurants have brought denunciations from many prominent public figures.

Latest to appeal for resistance is N. J. King, an MP, who told the House of Representatives that it was a degrading system to have to tip to get reasonable service. He suggested a major feature of tourist publicity should be the clear statement that New Zealanders were prepared to give service for charges made and that tipping was not expected.

Pope Talks World Peace With Bennett

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Sun says Premier Bennett emerged awe-struck Tuesday from an audience in Rome with Pope Paul, but wouldn't talk about it.

In a story from Rome, the Sun quoted the premier as saying:

"He saw me alone for 20 minutes. A good 20 minutes. Just he and I. No one else. But I can't talk about it."

Pope Paul met with the premier following a crucial session of the ecumenical council and private audiences with visiting cardinals.

The premier fingered the red leather case containing the Pope's gold medal as he emerged from the meeting. He also showed reporters the Pope's invitation to the meeting and remarked that he was proud the interview had been granted, despite the Pope's heavy schedule.

"He spoke very fine English, a quiet, gentle English in a very nice manner, it was very informal, I felt at ease immediately."

PREMIER RELUCTANT

Although the premier was reluctant to reveal the subject of his discussion with the Pope, he said he was particularly struck by "Pope Paul's wish for world peace."

"I think I could say that I think it would be all right to mention that. It was very much on his mind. World peace and his visit to the United Nations," said Premier Bennett, himself a member of the United Church of Canada.

TRADE MISSION

Mr. Bennett conferred with Italian banking officials Wednesday on the third day of a trade mission here.

He met with management representatives of the Banca Nazionale del Lavoro, Canada's ambassador to Rome, Gordon Gate Crean, held a dinner in his honor Wednesday night.

Bennett cancelled plans to visit Naples and the Roman ruins of Pompei when he learned the Pope had set aside time to meet him.

The premier will leave Rome today for Milan. He will leave Italy Friday.

B.C. UNIVERSITIES

Enrolment for Year Could Hit 25,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 24,000 students have enrolled in British Columbia's six institutions of higher education and late registrations are expected to boost the total to nearly 25,000.

More than half the students—16,000—are registered at the University of British Columbia.

which is still expecting at least another 200 latecomers. UBC had 15,500 students last year. The University of Victoria enrolment of 2,948 is up about 400 from last year.

HIT 2,250

Registrations at the new Simon Fraser University in Burnaby have hit the 2,250 mark, about 250 more than anticipated.

In the Interior, Notre Dame University at Nelson has an enrolment of 550 students with about 50 more expected.

About 1,150 students are registered at the B.C. Institute of Technology in Burnaby, an increase of 400.

At the Vancouver City College, B.C.'s first junior college, total enrolment is 3,500. However, about 1,600 of these students are taking special two-year programs leading to jobs or are on high school completion courses.

The remaining 1,500 are on university programs.

Two Pubs Bar Girls For Foul Language

LONDON (AP)—The Keepers of the Greyhound and the Gate Hangs High, two pubs in the mining village of Rhonessny, barred students from a women's college from their inns Wednesday because they use foul language.

"These girls are supposed to be training to teach our children," said George White, host at the Greyhound, "yet some of their language would make your hair curl."

Tom Shelley, publican at the Gate Hangs High, said: "The girls are as bad, or worse, than their boy friends who come for weekend dances at the colleges. They swear as much as the boys and they join in the dirty songs. They know all the words."

The Greyhound and the Gate Hangs High are principally pubs for miners and steel workers.

What do the Japanese know about making luxury cars?

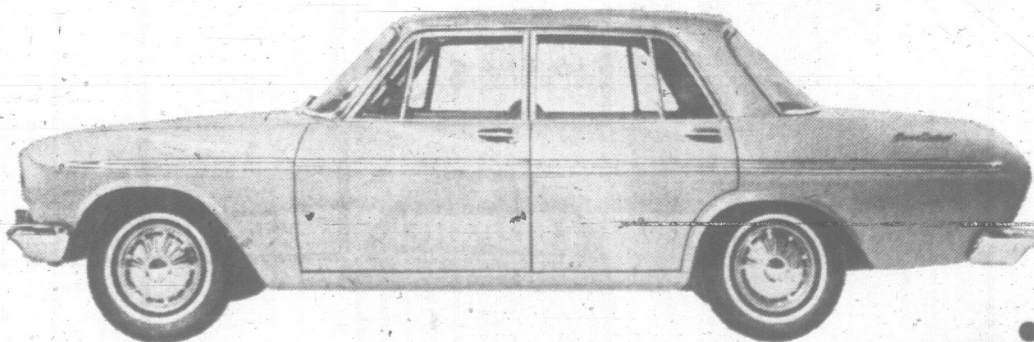

Everything but how to charge enough for them.

In Canada, the Toyota Crown costs $2598.00 — an incredibly low price for a luxury car. And the Toyota Crown is a luxury car. In Japan, many Crowns are chauffeur driven. To keep that kind of company, a car must be superbly appointed. The Toyota Crown is. Toyota's features include a strong, silent, rattle-free body; a choice of luxurious interiors; extra courtesy lights; white walls; full carpeting, padded dash, cigar lighter and a standard equipment list that would be called an option list on almost any other car.

The Japanese know a great deal about making luxury cars. What they don't know is that the Toyota Crown would still be a sensational value at twice the price.

If you don't tell them — we won't.

DON'T HAVE MUCH SENSE

LONDON (CP)—The early reports are that the Canadian butterflies don't have much sense.

Fifty monarch butterflies from Canada, tagged for identification purposes, were released on the Somerset coast of England two weeks ago. The theory was that they would fly south.

But John Burton, of the BBC's natural history unit in Bristol, reported that all eighting so far indicate the butterflies headed in a northeasterly direction—contrary to natural migratory instincts.

School TV, Radio Plan Approved

FREDERICTON (CP)—Canada's 10 provincial education ministers have approved the constitution of a Canadian commission on school broadcasting. It was announced at a press conference here Wednesday.

The New Brunswick education minister, Henry G. Irwin, chairman of the standing committee of education ministers, said the approved constitution makes provision for establishment of the commission and two advisory councils—one English and the other representing French-speaking educationists.

He said representation on the councils would be from the 10 education departments, the Canadian Teachers' Federation, the CBC and private broadcasters. The commission would work with the CBC in organizing provincial and national radio and television broadcasts, but would not be involved in actual production.

Educational content of programs would remain the prerogative of the provinces.

RURAL POVERTY

Dr. W. C. Lorimer of Winnipeg told the Canadian Education Association Wednesday efforts to combat rural poverty through the agriculture research and development act program—although much needed—may tend to focus public attention on economic issues and overlook educational problems.

Dr. Lorimer, in his presidential address to the three-day CEA convention, said a recent program in one province to redevelop an entire region included initiation of adult education classes but little or nothing was done to raise the grade of primary and secondary schooling.

The president also touched on teachers' salaries in his report. He said many people consider teachers to be well paid in proportion to their training, and in some cases, Dr. Lorimer said, this is true.

Teacher training of 30 years ago no longer applies to the modern world. "We must move ahead in every province until every teacher is a professional person in his field by training and through the qualities of his work."

Smile Show To Bypass McPherson

Jerry Gosley won't be using the McPherson for the Smile Show next year.

This week he relinquished his option on the civic theatre and decided once more to use Langham Court Theatre.

His decision was based on an audience survey taken during the 51-performance run of the Smile Show this summer. The answers to his questionnaire showed that the intimacy of the small 189-seat theatre was preferred to a larger theatre.

More than 8,000 people saw the show and portions of it will be taken to Harrison Hot Springs in December.

Last week Mr. Gosley entertained 500 delegates and guests at the Independent Order of Foresters convention and received enquiries about playing in Seattle, Portland, Vancouver and Port Alberni.

Second Appeal For Drivers

The second emergency appeal in two weeks for volunteer drivers to assist the Silver Threads Service in transporting shut-ins in the city has been issued by the senior citizens organization.

Group officials commented Wednesday the volunteers are needed to ferry the shut-ins from rest homes and private homes to the Senior Citizens Activity Centre in Centennial Square.

Drivers to assist with home visits are also required. Information is available at 388-4268.

Actress, Agent, Producer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There is a new producer at Paramount Studios, and her name is Sue Carol Ladd.

The selection of a woman as a movie producer is news enough. But the story also has a sentimental twist, since Sue is returning to the studio where she once starred as an actress—and where her husband, Alan Ladd, was a top boxoffice draw for 11 years until his death Jan. 29, 1964.

The sorrow of his sudden passing remains, and she gets misty-eyed as she talks of him. "I still haven't been able to see his last picture, 'The Carpetbaggers,'" she admitted. "I have a copy of it, and I'll run it some day. But not yet."

She spoke more happily of the future and her hopes for making movies.

Sue brings more experience to her job than most new producers. She was a popular leading lady in the 1930s, then her career ended abruptly.

UPSET HER

"I was doing tests for a picture at Warners," she recalled, "and the director kept telling me, 'Faster, faster, faster!'—Tempo, tempo, tempo! I became so upset that I ran off the set in tears. I never went back."

She remained in Hollywood and moved into the agency business, another field in which women are a rarity. "I was getting so many of my friends jobs that people told me I should become an agent," she explained.

MORE WILL ORK

The world's labor resources, estimated at 1,100,000,000 men in 1960, are expected to reach 1,500,000,000 in 1975.

'THE DREAM' PLAYS TO 2,700 STUDENTS

Sir John A. Returns to His Riding

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Sir John A. Macdonald, first prime minister of Canada, returned to his old constituency of Victoria Wednesday.

During the afternoon and evening he played to an audience of 2,700 Grade 12 students in Central Junior Secondary School auditorium.

And in the Empress Hotel lounge—a resplendent figure with knee-length grey coat and velvet lapels—he took tea with other famous figures of his day.

"Nice to have you back; Sir John," said an elderly hotel resident who greeted him at the entrance to the carpeted lounge.

All eyes turned on the historic figures as they marched proudly to their reserved table.

With Sir John were Sir George Etienne Cartier, who led the French-speaking people into Confederation in 1867; Liberal leader George Brown; Sir Charles Tupper, premier of Nova Scotia; Sir Leonard Tilley, premier of New Brunswick—and others.

Nobody was fooled but all were impressed.

IMPERSONATED

Distinguished Canadian actors impersonated their forbears in a play called The Dream which was presented to Victoria and Vancouver Island students by the Centennial Committee of British Columbia.

It was, in effect, a compressed dramatization of Canada's history, produced and financed by the National Centennial Committee in Ottawa, and it will be seen by school students in many parts of British Columbia.

"I wish our Grade 8 students could have seen it," said a Victoria teacher.

But the two performances were reserved for Grade 12.

"We were encouraged by the wonderful reception we had from these students," said Robert W. Christie, the Toronto actor who has played Sir John A. on stage and TV for the past 15 years.

DELIGHTFUL

Jean Cavall was delighted in the role of Sir George Etienne Cartier, descendant of the earliest settlers in Quebec, a sturdy patriot yet one-time rebel.

Andrew Allan, a veteran of stage, radio and TV, represented George Brown—the four founder of the Toronto Globe, and the Liberal leader who smothered his hatred for Sir John A. and the Tories in 1864 and helped pave the way for Confederation.

IRISH REBEL

Sean Mulcahy was Thomas D'Arcy McGee, reformed Irish rebel and Canadian patriot who was assassinated in Ottawa in 1868—one year after Confederation.

Claude Rae represented the teetotal premier of New Brunswick and Frank Perry was seen as Premier Charles Tupper, who carried Confederation past a protesting legislature in 1865 and 1866.

The script, by T. W. Tweed, contained some lively passages: Sir John: "I am prepared to promise anything if I can get my own way . . . whenever I start politicking my spirits begin to rise."

Sir George Cartier: "To a Bluenose, Bermuda seems a lot closer than this fair city of Quebec."

Sir John (contemplating Vancouver Island): "Does the island make the man, or the man the island?"

Thomas D'Arcy McGee: "Great Britain has hardly any written constitution, yet she is the finest country in the world."

Sir John (to Sir George Brown, founder of the Toronto Globe): "You have been a newspaper editor so long you always have to hate something."

SEA TO SEA

Sir George Cartier: "Our dominion must stretch from sea to sea."

Premier Charles Tupper of Nova Scotia: "But will British Columbia object to us stretching from sea to sea?"

Sir John: "How do we know that Vancouver Island and British Columbia will even associate with us?"

Sir George: "I think they are a little wiser unto themselves." The play showed very clearly that the west then was little known to Canadians of the east but was much in the thoughts of eastern statesmen.

It was even less known to the politicians in England. Confederation; it was clear.

NOVA SCOTIA BUYS HOTEL

New Name, Paint For Freighter

A collision-ripped freighter left Victoria Wednesday night sporting new starboard plates and a new name.

The Don Ramon is now known as the Safe Philippine Anchorage.

The name was changed after a collision Aug. 25 off Beechey Head with the sulphur-laden Greek vessel Diamantis Gafos.

42,087 More Cars on Road

Car registrations and renewals until the end of August were 42,087 ahead of the same period last year.

The Motor Vehicles Branch reported today the total so far this year is 573,801 compared with 531,714 in the same period last year.

The figure for all motor vehicles was 704,620, or 50,580 more than the same period last year.

The then Don Ramon's starboard side was gored for practically its full length by the other vessel's anchor.

Repairs, a $400,000 job, were just completed at Yarrow.

Reason for the name change was not to bring luck to the old Liberty ship.

CHANGED HANDS
She merely changed hands and her new owners, Century Shipping Inc. of Manila, had applied to change the name before the collision. The name change came through Sept. 1.

"But we've still been calling her the Don Ramon," said Phil Chandler of King Bros. Shipping Agents.

"Just imagine the big job painting that long name on all the ship's lifeboats, lifesavers, and lifeboats."

The Safe Philippine Anchorage will now make the rounds of six or seven Island and mainland ports loading approximately 4.75 million board feet of lumber for the U.K.

Another Postal Strike?

TORONTO (CP)—The national secretary of the Canadian Postal Employees' Association (CPEA) said Wednesday if a proposed form of collective bargaining for civil servants is introduced postal employees will strike.

Rick Otto said recommendations in July by a commission on collective bargaining would be unacceptable to postal employees.

He said the recommendations favored "an employer-controlled collective bargaining technique."

"If this is what is in the cards for postal workers, then I predict the next strike is not far away — and when it comes it will be nation-wide," Mr. Otto said.

The commission recommended that federal civil servants have the right to negotiate wages and working conditions but that unresolved issues be subject to binding arbitration.

BONNER CLAIMS:

Pension Plan Lauded But Needs Changes

VANCOUVER (CP)—Attorney General Robert Bonner said Wednesday the Canada Pension Plan is a "laudable" public welfare measure but warned it could have undesirable economic effects if certain adjustments are not made.

Mr. Bonner, addressing a meeting of B.C. division of the Canadian Association of Manufacturers, called the plan "a massive transfer of funds from one sector of society to another."

He said initial effects of the plan will probably become apparent sometime next year, showing up "on the bargaining table." He said some unions have already indicated they will attempt to offset part of the employees' contribution to the plan by increased wages.

Mr. Bonner said the growth rate of the gross national product will have to be increased to 2.4 per cent, from its present one per cent, by 1970.

Otherwise, he said, Canada will not be able to afford the plan.

The attorney-general said possible undesirable effects could be a wage-cost spiral, a reduction in the internal supply of capital for borrowing, and an escalation of the cost and scope of the plan itself.

OLD AT 64; DIES AT 102

EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—William F. Johnson died here Wednesday at the age of 102. Thirty-eight years ago, when he was 64, a foundry discharged him for being "too old" to continue working. Johnson got a job as messenger for an insurance firm, and held it until he retired at the age of 91.

Open Meeting on Road Bylaw Set for Friday

A $185,000 road improvement electorate on Oct. 4. At the same time byelections for a village chairman and a commissioner will be held. The byelections follows the resignation last month of village chairman A. A. Cormack and F. S. B. Heward. Lt. Col. J. H. Laroque, president of the association, said the organization will not put up any candidates.

Today is as good a time as any for tying off a few items of unfinished business, among them the question posed by Guide leader Jeannie Reith, hours before she left on an overseas junket with a detachment of girls in blue.

The scheduled highlight of the tour was to be an international camp-out in Sweden, for which the maple leaf brigade was under orders to provide Canada's national dish.

"But what is it?" Mrs. Reith asked an anxious query which neither this department nor its readers could answer.

Well, Jeannie Reith is back now, and I gather from her report that the kids settled their quandary in typical Canadian fashion by splitting into provinces.

The British Columbia contingent whipped up a meal that featured Pacific salmon.

The girls from Alberta offered baked beans and sausage, although they would have preferred Calgary steaks.

Quebec supplied "fortieres," described as an old habitation dish consisting of ham gussied up with whatever odds and ends are available.

Sturdy New Brunswick fanned its colors to fried herring and spuds.

Nova Scotia, and it pains me to reveal this, passed up its succulent chowders for spaghetti.

"We called it a North American meal," says Mrs. Reith of the sectioned feast, "and everybody thought it was wonderful!"

The 50-foot Malahat race canoe I told you about a couple of months ago is still gathering dust among the Motor Vehicle Bureau building rafters, and since freeing it would mean ripping off the office complex which has grown up around it, the slim craft will probably remain there indefinitely.

While chasing information on that local mystery, though, I ran head-on into another.

What's happened to the twin eight-foot cannon that stood guard outside the old brick building on Menzies when it was the Fifth Artillery drill hall?

A plumber who was working in the Parliament buildings just before the Fifth pulled out to make room for the B.C. provincial police in 1923, tells me that the big muzzle-loaders—once guardians of a pioneer fort below Beacon Hill—were trundled around back, and buried.

Not so, another informant insists. The gun carriages may have been buried, but not the cannon. Those were carried off.

As scrap, or are they rusting obscurely, somewhere in Greater Victoria? Can anyone come up with the answer?

A while back, I suggested that the McPherson Playhouse cash registers might jingle more merrily if student players were given the encouragement of a four-bit rate.

Peter Manning's Bastion Theatre Company, which opens a seven-play run at the Mac on Friday evening with "Cogie Blow Your Horn," improves on this notion with a student season ticket price at $3, a sum which works out to about 43 cents a play.

One-shot student rates will range from a high of $1.75 to 50 cents for the gods.

The Bastion people under professional director and actor Manning can be counted on to provide good theatre, and to them, from this corner, the very best of luck.

"Kelly," the young man you stalked to his yearned-for chance at a university education, checked in from his woods job last week, ready to tackle his sophomore year under his own steam. Encouraged by the good pass he earned as a freshman, he proposes to shoot for an honors rating in mathematics.

RCN Chaplain Clifford Waite tells me he will turn in his commission today, thereby freeing himself to accept a Conservative nomination in Victoria, if such is offered.

All he has to do then is beat other-party candidates, of whom one is almost certain to be Liberal MP Dave Groos, in the scramble for a federal seat.

Even for a navy padre with an angel on his shoulder, that double "if" adds up to long, long odds!

AUTUMN IN VICTORIA WORTH SINGING ABOUT

The first fall sunshine bathed the district in warmth Wednesday. And the sun continued to shine up to press time today.

Temperatures were above average—66 at Victoria weather office, warmer inland—and the scene looks all set for more sunny weather.

Temperatures will drop overnight to 40 or 50 but there is little likelihood of early fall rains.

Hottest spot in Canada was Moncton, N.B., with a high of 91, while Montreal recorded 88, Quebec City 84, and Ottawa 85. Today's temperatures were expected to be a little cooler.

VOLLEYBALL TRIP

Board May Lift Ban on Teacher

Greater Victoria School Board may reverse its decision barring one of its teachers from accompanying Russian Olympic volleyball teams on a Canadian tour next month.

School Board chairman John Porteous said today several trustees have telephoned him and expressed a desire to reconsider the matter at a special board meeting early next week.

Trustees Monday refused an eight-day leave of absence to Donald Smyth, a teacher at Victoria Secondary School, who is also president of the Canadian Volleyball Association.

The association is sponsoring the tour and Mr. Smyth, as president, was asked to accompany the teams.

The board's refusal Wednesday brought adverse reaction from sport officials.

PREVIOUS CASE
In one previous case a teacher resigned her position with the school district when trustees refused her permission to participate in highland dancing in Scotland.

Another trustee who asked not to be identified, said Wednesday he hoped the board would reverse its stand in Mr. Smyth's case because an unpopular decision could hurt the board's image.

He said it is important the board maintain its public image at this time in view of its anticipated $1,933,117 referendum. It will likely go before the voters later this fall.

The original motion to grant the leave of absence was narrowly defeated by a vote of 4 to 3.

At the time of the vote, the dissenters said the board was hampered by a previously set policy which does not allow leaves of absence for such matters.

Candidate Rally Set

Greater Victoria Liberal candidates will attend a B.C. Liberal candidates rally in the Bayshore Inn, Vancouver, Friday beginning at 9 a.m.

Victoria's city candidate—expected to be David Groos, MP—will be chosen at a nominating convention in Hollywood House tonight at 8.

James Coert has been nominated Liberal candidate for Esquimalt-Saanich.

At the Vancouver meeting election themes and campaign strategy will be discussed.

COUNCIL LIAISON PROPOSAL DUMPED

A Saanich council suggestion to have a councillor appointed to school boards as a liaison trustee was given short shrift by Union of B.C. Municipalities convention today.

The convention adopted a resolution that councils should not concern themselves with the day-to-day operations of school boards.

The resolutions committee said councils feel themselves to be "collection agencies" for school finances.

But a member of council could sit in on school board meetings by invitation, it was suggested.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis, who moved the resolution, said it was realized the proposal would not get support at the convention, but "if it has caused some thought on the matter, Saanich would be satisfied."

Such a provision of the Public Schools Act would bring "disastrous reflection on the capabilities of school trustees," said Coun. Jim Dailly of Burnaby.

"It would be a case of 'Big Brother is watching.' I'm sure we wouldn't appreciate a member of a senior government sitting on our councils," Mr. Dailly said.

Except in budget matters, the effect of councils on school boards is negligible, said Coun. N. Booth of Langley.

In an address to the convention Wednesday, B.C. School Trustees' Association president Wilf J. Peck of Duncan, said the idea of a councillor on the school is like a trustee on council.

"I might say I would be the first to oppose such a move," he said.

and relayed the message to the RCN ocean-escort HMCS Stettler and Antigonish on manoeuvres off the Washington coast.

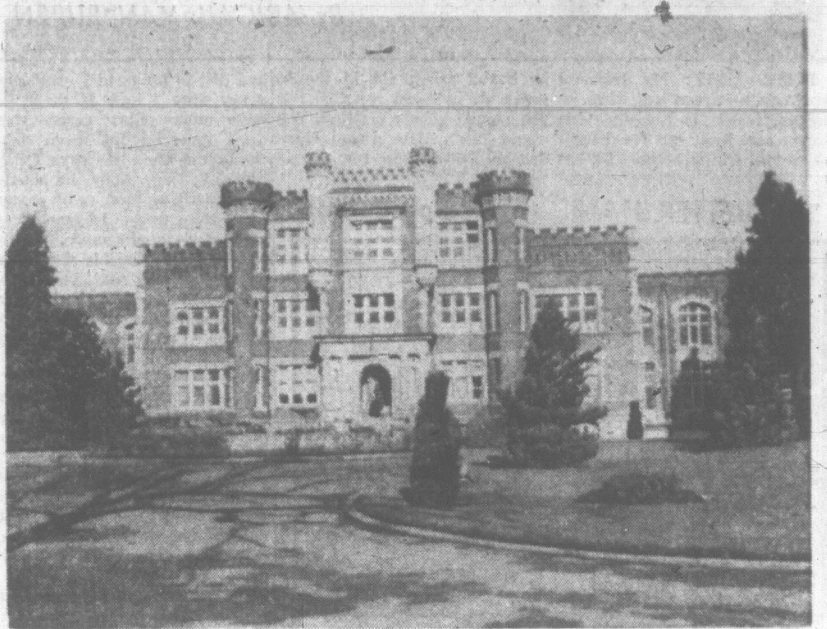

The message was relayed to the U.S. Coast Guard which immediately left for the scene.

A naval spokesman said the escorts turned away after the coast guard called off the search. That was about 9:30 p.m.

Besides his widow and son, Mr. McPhee is survived by three daughters of the family, Mrs. Kathy Quinlan, Mrs. Estella Daley and Mrs. Rita Weir, all of Victoria.

Mr. McPhee is formerly from Lillooet and Laxton. His family also resided for some time at P.O. Island before coming to Victoria.

JAIL MUST GO—TISDALLE

Speedy removal of Wilkinson Road Jail from heavily-populated Saanich has been urged by Saanich MLA

John Tisdalle. "Murder suspect David Robinson, believed armed, escaped from this jail Wednesday night."

'Move Jail' Plea Follows Escape

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle today called on the provincial government to hasten the removal of Wilkinson Road Jail from built-up areas.

Speaking in interview following the Wednesday night escape of murder suspect David Robinson and a companion, Mr. Tisdalle said:

"It has been my strongest contention that the prison site is illogical. People in Saanich have been unhappy since the jail was originated."

He added, "When there is an escape the situation is hazardous. If the guards had an opportunity to shoot they couldn't point a gun in any direction without jeopardizing the lives of people in their homes."

Mr. Tisdalle said he understands the attorney-general's department has settled on a new jail site up-Island.

"I can't say where it is. But plans are already drawn." He said he will urge Attorney-General Bonner to proceed with construction as soon as possible.

Mr. Tisdalle pointed out that the charge against Robinson "is serious enough to cause him to act in a desperate manner." The escapee knows the area well and residents should be cautious in locking up, the MLA said.

Mr. Tisdalle said at the same time, there is consolation in the fact that in every escape in the jail's history, recapture has followed within a short time.

He said he understands the present jail site is proposed as the ultimate site of a hospital for retarded children. The present jail buildings, however, likely will be used as a provincial government storage centre, he added.

Lad Falls Off Wharf, Drowns
Toddler Charles Snelling, two fell to his death two blocks from his Crofton home Wednesday.

The youngster slipped off the government wharf into the water below.

It was several hours before his body was located by skin divers.

Charles was last seen playing with two other youngsters.

But his playmates apparently failed to notice his fall, according to police.

Charles' mother, Mrs. Michael Snelling, of Louis Street, first noticed her son's disappearance shortly after noon.

CALL FROGMEN
Police carried out an intensive search of the area before calling in frogmen.

He leaves two brothers and a sister, Peter, six; Teresa, four; and Donald, three.

His father is a longshoreman. Mrs. Snelling was still under sedation in hospital this morning.

Bonner Sets Golden Age Talk Theme
Attorney-General Robert Bonner will speak on The Golden Age at the eighth annual convention of the Society of Notaries Public of British Columbia on Tuesday, Oct. 5.

Mr. Bonner will speak at a banquet in the Crystal Ballroom beginning at 7 p.m. and will be introduced by Alex. Matthew, MLA, who is secretary and general chairman of the convention.

L. St. M. DuMontin, QC, chairman of the Notaries Committee of the Benefers of the Law Society, will speak on Our Inheritance at a banquet in the Crystal Ballroom Monday, Oct. 4.

EMPLOYEES WIN HONORS
Employees of three Victoria business firms have qualified for outstanding citizenship awards in the current United Appeal campaign.

The more than 800 workers of Victoria Machinery Depot gave a total of $7,200, winning its fifth plaque award.

The five employees of Dominion Securities made contributions as did the eight staff members of General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

The "high-level" support from these two employee groups earned each a citation award.

VICTORIA MAN DROWNS

'I Threw Father a Line—It Was Too Late'

By HUMPHREY DAVY

"I clambered up on deck just in time to see my father floundering in a heavy sea. I threw a line. It was too late."

In these words a Victoria man today described how a wild sea took the life of his father Tuesday as he was on the verge of realizing a dream of sailing to the south seas.

Ronald L. McPhee, owner and builder of the 40-foot yacht, Resolution, was washed overboard in a mountainous sea about 60 miles west of La Push, Washington.

The accident occurred about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Aboard the yacht were his wife and son, Ian, 25. They were bound for the south seas, but planned to stop over at San Diego before sailing across the south Pacific.

Ian said he was below deck with his mother when he suddenly felt the boat lurch.

Suspecting something had gone wrong, he immediately went up on deck and saw his father in the wind-whipped sea. He threw a line but it was too late as the yacht was proceeding under power. Her mizzen sail and jib were also up.

His father was swallowed up by the huge sea by the time Ian got the boat turned about.

NO JACKET
"He didn't have a chance," said Ian. "He was wearing heavy clothing. He was not wearing a life jacket."

He didn't know how his father was washed overboard. The after-deck was dry despite a mountainous, breaking sea.

Mrs. McPhee and her son returned to Victoria at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday aboard the boat.

The elder Mr. McPhee was a machinist, who served in the navy during the war, and started his boat 11 years ago. He planned a three-year cruise in the South Pacific.

An ardent admirer of Capt. James Cook, he had named his boat after the famous explorer's sailing ship. He had taken an interest in archaeology and anthropology and was well versed in navigation.

TWO-WAY RADIO
The Resolution was equipped with a two-way radio. A fishing boat picked up the SOS message, and relayed the message to the RCN ocean-escort HMCS Stettler and Antigonish on manoeuvres off the Washington coast.

The message was relayed to the U.S. Coast Guard which immediately left for the scene.

A naval spokesman said the escorts turned away after the coast guard called off the search. That was about 9:30 p.m.

Besides his widow and son, Mr. McPhee is survived by three daughters of the family, Mrs. Kathy Quinlan, Mrs. Estella Daley and Mrs. Rita Weir, all of Victoria.

Mr. McPhee is formerly from Lillooet and Laxton. His family also resided for some time at P.O. Island before coming to Victoria.

DEAR ABBY...

Keep on Trying

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I haven't taken six in the 10 years we've been married. If he comes home, he washes his hands and face, but he doesn't believe in taking baths. I'll bet he's so filthy from the grease and dirt in his head I could cry every time I look at them. I have made pillow cases from dark material but even that shows the dirt. He says I nag him but, Dear Abby, he should take a bath as soon as he comes home from work. I cannot keep his bed clean any more. I just end up tearing up his sheets for rags. Not only that, but I feel I just can't go to bed with him in that condition. He reads your column. Can you say something to him?

CAN'T GO ON.

DEAR ABBY: To "nag" is to carp on inconsequential matters, but your insistence that your husband bathe is hardly "nagging." Assuming the man has all his marbles, he should be given no peace until he bathes, and bathes regularly. Bribe him, threaten him, promise him anything—but don't give up.

DEAR ABBY: How can a young, foolish girl find out if she went too far with a boy before it's too late?

SCARED TO DEATH.

DEAR ABBY: If she's "scared to death," she went too far. If she went too far, she should see a physician at once. He can tell her how late it is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "H": Worry is the interest one must pay when he borrows trouble.

Indian Chief To Speak Here

Mrs. Victor-Guerin, Vancouver, will be guest speaker when the fall session of the Women's Association of First Baptist Church begins with a luncheon next Tuesday. The affair will be held at noon in the lower auditorium on Mason Street.

A Canadian Indian and chief-tain in her own right, Mrs. Guerin will speak on Indian affairs.

A report of the free clothing depot will be given. It is reported that good used clothing is urgently needed for this project, begun early this summer. Donations may be left at the church or will be picked up if would-be donors phone either 652-1648, 477-4915 or 385-8659.

Yellow and White Floral Decor Used for McDonald-Rumsby Vows

Arrangements of Shasta chrysanthemums, gladioli and Shasta daisies in yellow and white tones decorated St. Joseph's Church, West Burnside, recently, when Fr. R. Cunningham and Fr. Y. Cormier heard marriage vows exchanged between Kathleen June Rumsby and Joseph Peter McDonald.

"Bless Thou This Day" and "Oh, Lord I Am Not Worthy" were sung by soloist Walter Cownden during the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rumsby, 1060 Nicholson Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McDonald, 921 Violet Avenue. "The Wedding Prayer" was sung during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk, styled on empire lines. The fitted bodice featured lantern-shaped sleeves of re-embroidered lace. Accenting the raised waistline was a pleated bandeau. The A-line skirt was floor-length and swept back to a cathedral train. Her silk veil misted from a tiny bow, starred with pearls and she carried a bouquet of yellow Shasta chrysanthemums and roses.

Gowns of blue crystal charm, similar to the bride's, were worn by matron of honor, Mrs. T. A. Jacklin and bridesmaids, Mrs. R. McKeown and Mrs. George Crisfield. Accents hall, music for dancing was provided by Eric Pover's combo.

Hugh McIntyre proposed the toast to his niece.

A white brocade theatre coat and dress ensemble, accented with a white silk hat, toning accessories and a yellow rose corsage was the choice of the new Mrs. McDonald for motoring on a honeymoon trip to California.

The couple is making their home at 1060 Nicholson Street.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Has Romance Rubbed Raw From Strain of Daily Life?

Many psychologists feel men are more romantic than women. This should make many women stop and ponder!

Every woman loves the small courtesies and thoughtfulnesses of the man she loves. In fact the knowledge that she is adored is probably the most potent fountain of youth a woman can possibly possess. It gives her a special bloom, turns drab individuals into beauties and delays aging.

If your husband or boy friend has stopped doing many considerate things he once did, if he seems to take you for granted, it would be well worthwhile to take an honest look at your own behavior. Think back.

Did he stop telling you how pretty you are after you became careless about your appearance? Did he stop opening doors for you after you began barging through them? Did he stop talking with you after you were so busy and hectic that you only half listened? Did he stop inviting you out for dinner or the theatre only after you refused because of fatigue a number of times? Did he lose his enthusiasm for bringing you gifts because you always exchanged them and even said a couple of times that you would rather have a cheque next time? Did he stop treating you like a sweetheart only after you began treating him like a meal ticket?

Clubwomen's News

New Program — A thorough study of the Municipal Act will form the basis of the new year's program. It was announced at recent meeting of the Sidney Business and Professional Women's Club. Mrs. D. Kynaston presided. The proposed program was outlined by Mrs. M. Smith. She reported that Mrs. E. McKenzie, Victoria, will speak on a section of the act at the October meeting. Miss Elizabeth Forbes, Victoria, will also be present. Members may bring guests to the meeting. It was announced that the Sidney club will combine with the Victoria group to promote Business Women's Week, Oct. 17 to Oct. 23.

Receives Pin—Miss Judy Seaford was presented with a pin, making her a qualified member when the Queen Alexandra Sororium Junior League when the group met in the Blue Room recently. It was reported that $86.24 had been made from the sale of refreshments at the Armed Forces Day, held in Esquimalt during the summer. Plans were finalized for the fashion show, to be held at Hollywood House on Wednesday, September 29 at 8:30 p.m. The show will feature shoes from Monday's and hair styles by the Charming Lady Salon. Refreshments will be served.

At leading Drug and Department Stores

Wives of out-of-town delegates attending this week's meetings of the Canadian Press and the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers' Association at the Empress Hotel were taken on a tour and entertained at luncheon at the Butchart Gardens, Wednesday afternoon. Their hostesses were Mrs. W. A.

Mrs. Ian H. MacDonald, Toronto, at right, was so delighted with her impressions of Butchart Gardens and Victoria in general, she's decided to put a winter holiday in Victoria on her itinerary. With her, left to right, are Mrs. Walter

Blackburn, London, Ont.; Mrs. J. M. Herder, St. John's, Nfld., and Mrs. Lawrence Dampier, Vancouver. (Irving Strickland photos.)

NEWSHEN REPORTS

Bird Hunting Takes Time Even 'As the Crow Flies'

A bird-loving reader recently complained to columnist Abigail Van Buren of the way birds were treated in pet departments in her town. Candide Temple, Times' "bird dog", visited Victoria pet shops to see just how our feathered friends are treated.

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

This bird hunting's a pretty cagey business. First of all they're not all that easy to find. When I phoned one local store the flighty switchboard girl said:

"Yes, I'll connect you with sporting goods." Sporting goods? These aren't golf birdies! Sporting goods said the birds were in the toy department.

I winged my way to the next store where I was told the birds were downstairs in the garden shop. They weren't. They were in hardware. I finally found them sandwiched between the frozen fish food and the guppies.

Six budgies, at $5.95 apiece, and two lovebirds, perched, at $60 the pair.

"The lovebirds don't do too well alone," the saleslady explained coyly.

"Cleaned and fed every day," she assured me, "and we've never had any die-on us."

Why buy them?

"Oh, mostly mothers."

Ever get any back?

"Oh, they return everything at this store."

"Once we got a dead finch back. It was dead when the lady got it home."

"I guess she sat on it or something."

The next store had five budgies, and a large talking mynah bird called Sam.

"He's not for sale," I was told. "He's too big an attraction."

"Howdoyoudo," said the mynah in an English accent (this is Victoria). "Hihowareyouhaveabanana."

He gave a piercing shriek and a cackle.

What if nobody buys them, Abby?

"Oh, they sell," said the next store airily.

"They're just like furniture. If there's a surplus we just put them on special."

The manager of the next store told the same story.

"If they get to a certain age, say a year, we can't sell them, because they're too old to train."

"So we just send them back to the aviary. They pay us $2 for an old hen."

(Some old hens who I know, I'd pay $2 to have taken away, Abby.)

"The roosters go, too," the manager added. "We don't know what happens to them."

But is he sure he doesn't get old hens or roosters in the first place?

"The breeders don't try to pull the wool over our eyes," he said.

"And I know a young chick when I see one."

(And I know his type, too.)

What about people who buy birds to set free?

"Those are the cranks," I was told. "And cranks don't usually like spending money, so nobody has ever heard of it happening."

So that's the bird picture in Victoria, Abby.

Tell "Love Birds" not to worry.

Now I must fly.

Yours truly,
Brownheaded Newspecker.

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Public Relations — Thirty guests and members of the Victoria Toastmistress Club No. 90 attended the group's public relations meeting in the Pacific Club. Mrs. T. Y. Grant welcomed guests. Mrs. F. Hong gave a lexicology lesson and Mrs. P. A. Petersen gave one on parliamentary procedure. Toastmistress Mrs. C. C. Warren chose "Communications" as her topic. Theme of the evening was "The Open Door to Toastmistress." Dressed in a helmet, fur cape and armed with over-sized notes, Mrs. E. Brady gave a comical speech on how not to make a speech. Mrs. K. S. Bains gave a four-minute speech on "Aspects of International Toastmistress." Mrs. W. Davies spoke of "Gift of Voice" and Mrs. E. Speers on "Value of Toastmistress Training in Business." Miss Donna Koepel was timer, Miss Gail Hitchcock gave the vote of thanks, and Mrs. M. Gailine the inspiration and closing thought. Guest critic and evaluator was Mrs. H. P. Mickelson. Mrs. J. J. Wiart presented the table topic, "The Oxygen Cocktail," and also installed Miss Hitchcock as secretary.

Anniversary Dinner

To celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Driscoll, visiting here from Detroit, Mich., held a family reunion dinner, Sunday evening, in the Strathcona Hotel Mahogany Room. The family presented the couple with a leather writing case. Their niece, Mrs. C. Proudlove, made the anniversary cake which centred the dinner table. Attending the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Larkey, Kathleen and Maureen; Mr. and Mrs. J. Driscoll and Miss Dora Driscoll; Mrs. Margaret Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Len West and Mr. and Mrs. C. Proudlove and Ken. Special guests, not of the family, attending were Mr. Rick Lindseth, Mrs. Emily Harvey and Mr. B. R. Bonner. Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll are presently visiting their niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Len West, in their Milne's Landing home.

Here for Vows

Mrs. J. M. McDonald, Wendy and Margaret and Mrs. J. A. McDonald, Bruce and George travelled from their Calgary homes to attend the recent wedding of Miss Kathleen Rumsby and Mr. Joseph McDonald. Other out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. McDonald of Nanaimo; Mr. and Mrs. D. Smith of Lethbridge, Alta.; Mr. and Mrs. R. McKeown of Kitimat, B.C.; Mr. H. McIntyre, Vancouver, and Fr. Y. Cormier, Holberg, B.C.

In City

Several out-of-town guests travelled from the mainland to attend the recent wedding of Miss Elizabeth Elgin and Mr. Richard Monaghan. They include

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Elgin of Fort McLeod, Alta.; Miss Mary Stark and Mr. John Stark of Coquitlam, B.C.; and Mr. Laurie Stephenson, Richmond, B.C.

Wed 41-Years

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Fairbanks celebrated their 41st wedding anniversary, this afternoon, with a luncheon in their Donald Street home. Covers were laid for 14.

VANCOUVER HOME

Following their recent wedding in the Church by the Lake, Mr. and Mrs. George Robert Popham are now making their home in Vancouver.

Rev. R. W. Clark officiated at the evening double-ring ceremony that united Patricia Agnes Pearson, daughter of Mr. Lauder Pearson, Winnipeg, and the late Mrs. Pearson, with the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Popham, 1276 Holloway Road, Victoria.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white organza over tulle. Her illusion net veil misted from a cluster of self-fabric roses. Sweetheart roses formed her bouquet. For "something old" she wore a necklace which had belonged to her mother.

The bride was attended by the groom's aunt, Mrs. Roy Beckett. She complemented her gown of pink lace over silk-crepe with a toning headpiece and bouquet of tiny white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Ron Browett of Vancouver was best man.

The engagement is announced of Miss Maria Assunta Caruso, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cosmo Caruso of Iron Springs, Alta., to Mr. Vernon James Storey, eldest son of Rev. and Mrs. James E. Storey of Vancouver, formerly of Victoria. The wedding will take place in Vancouver on Friday, October 8, with Rev. Storey officiating. The groom-elect attended Victoria College and is now teaching school in Vancouver.

TODAY'S RECIPE

GARDEN PEPPER RELISH

Two cups prepared vegetables (1 tomato, 1 onion, 1 doz. peppers), 1 1/2 cups cider vinegar, 7 cups (3 lbs) sugar, 1 bottle liquid fruit pectin, 10 drops green food coloring.

First, prepare the vegetables. Cut open 1 small tomato and discard seeds. Put tomato and 1 very small onion through food chopper, using finest blade. Cut open about 1 dozen medium-sized peppers and discard seeds. (For best color, use half green and half red sweet peppers.) Put peppers through food chopper twice, using finest blade. Drain. Measure chopped tomato and onion, then add enough chopped peppers to make 2 cups prepared vegetables. Measure into a very large saucepan.

Then make the relish. Add vinegar and sugar to vegetables in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating vegetables. Add green coloring and blend. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover at once with 1/2 inch hot paraffin. Yield: About 10 medium glasses (five pounds of relish).

Pearl Jewelry Highlights Suit Worn for Monaghan-Elgin Vows

A pearl necklace and earrings, gift of the groom, was the only jewelry worn by Elizabeth Ethel Elgin, recently, when she became the bride of Richard Thomas Monaghan in St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church, West Saanich Road.

She wore a two-piece suit of blue English wool with toning chapel veil misting from a blue floral headpiece. She carried a white Bible, topped with white rosebuds and streamers.

Baskets of white chrysanthemums and pink carnations were at the altar of the church when Canon J. Rogers heard vows exchanged between the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Elgin, 3814 Townsend Drive, and the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. Monaghan of Burnaby. Mr. Elgin gave his daughter in marriage.

Organist Mrs. Rogers played "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride's only attendant, Mrs. D. Sophonow, the groom's sister, wore a grey double-knit suit with pink pill box floral hat and accessories. Pink sweet-heart roses were in her colonial bouquet.

John Flemming, Prince George, was best man. Guests were ushered by Norman Elgin. Gordon Ash proposed the toast to the bride at the reception in the church hall. The head table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake decorated in pink and white and topped by a white bell. Pink roses and white chrysanthemums and carnations completed the table decor.

THUMBS BECAME THIS TRIO'S PASSPORTS

By DINA STEWART

The expression "being all thumbs" is generally meant as an insult. Nelda Bradshaw doesn't think so . . . the two she has have taken her around the world!

For two years, Miss Bradshaw and two companions, the Misses Roberta Bonaguro, Alberni, and Irene Bellamy, Prince George, hitch-hiked around the world—travelling in everything from luxury cars to rickety old farm tractors. They cheated a bit going across the ocean—they went by P and O liner, the Ss Oriana.

Hitch-hiking doesn't sound like a too romantic way of seeing the world, but according to Nelda, "romance was not lacking!" Irene, when they travelled across to New Zealand on the liner, met an Australian. "She is now married to him and living in Fiji."

First stop was New Zealand, where they stayed for seven months—four months were spent thumbing for rides and three were taken up working in a factory, making television sets. This is quite a far cry from their normal professions—all four girls are 1963 graduates of the Royal Jubilee Hospital's school of nursing.

"The New Zealanders were wonderful to us," recalls Nelda. "They welcomed us into their homes and tried to make us feel like part of their family."

Everywhere the three went, they found the same story—the natives of the country they were visiting did almost everything to try to make the girls feel at home, offering the three even the luxuries that they had acquired and cherished, luxuries which most Canadians would consider necessities.

"In Greece," remembers Nelda, "the people took a sort of 'giesta' during the hot part of the afternoon. We didn't know this and we started to wander through the town where we were in at the time while everyone else was napping."

"One woman caught sight of us and though she couldn't understand us, or we her, she hustled us into the house and offered something to eat—and one of her most prized possessions—Instant coffee! This is a real luxury to the Greeks—they mostly drink a Turkish brew which is thick, syrupy and very gritty. You're always offered a glass of water to drink with it—to wash away the grounds!"

MISS UPHEAVAL

It was just after they left that the governmental upset occurred in Greece.

"The people didn't seem to think such a thing would happen—there was no tension, they were quite happy. In fact, at this time, the Queen was on the island of Corfu expecting her child and everyone was excitedly and happily speculating on what the new arrival would be!"

Even though they were three girls (and later two—Irene returned to Canada to continue nursing before she was married) travelling alone, there were never any problems. As Nelda put it, "We never had any qualms about riding with anybody—we played it a little safer in Europe by not accepting rides after dark or riding with more than one man, though."

"In some of the places we visited—Bombay, Cairo—we went alone, and in Singapore, supposedly a rough city, we even travelled the back streets by ourselves with no one bothering us."

Why did the girls decide to see the world this way? Says Nelda, "We wanted to meet the people—to see how they live. On a tour, you really get to meet other tourists—or the people who deal with them, not the real natives at all."

T. TOURIST TRAP

In Rome Nelda and Roberta found how much the tourist is preyed on by the merchants. "I went to one place," she recalls, "and asked to use the facilities—in English. Roberta asked the same question in Italian—in which she is quite fluent. It turned out they charged me—as a tourist—twice as much as her, thinking she might be an Italian."

Nelda liked Paris the best of all the cities she visited. "There is so much to see and do," she said. "The city is divided into something for everyone, night-life, historical sights, works of art, everything. And travelling in Europe broadened my interest in history, too. Now I've seen the places where battles were fought, viewed great monuments. Now it is real to me—not just a dull fact I read in a book at school."

Nelda and her thumbs are going back to work, nursing at the Royal Jubilee Hospital. But, according to Nelda, it won't be too long before they all begin to get itchy again—this time the first stop could be South America or Africa.

Here's How to Fix Dress Ripped at the Underarm

Dear Eunice:

One of my very favorite sleeveless dresses ripped at the underarm as I reached over to close the windows in my car. How can I fix this so that it won't look patched?

MRS. J. C. C.

Dear Mrs. J. C. C.:

I'm glad you asked this question because it not only gives me a chance to tell you how to remedy your dress, but also how you can change the armhole to a squared one, usually in front only. It will not be necessary to rip off your facing. Just restitch your new seamline (twice for added reinforcement) clip to your stitching line, understitch the facing and you're finished.

Mrs. H. H. says: "Take the stacks of white gloves that have been taking up space in your drawer, but haven't been worn because of style changes, and transform them into the very popular and practical shortie gloves."

Use the zig-zag on your sewing machine for the scallop if you desire) and carefully stitch on the line you have marked for the new length. It's much easier if you turn the gloves wrong side out. Of course you will still do your stitching on the right side of the glove. The width of the stitch should be fairly short and the stitches should be very close together. After you have finished stitching, cut the excess close to your stitching.

SHOPPING GUIDE

'Oh, My Aching Feet' Can Now Be Soothed

By Penny Saver

There is nothing quite like trotting downtown to catch a sale and having your feet tramped on, kicked and walked off, to give you fallen arches. During the Spanish Inquisition, torturers had a handy little confession method of beating the soles of the feet with a stick, but they had nothing on the pure and exquisite torture of sale-day in town with the entire population out en masse trying to buy the exact article as you. Here's the perfect way to win the battle of the bustling buyer versus aching feet.

Sit back in your favorite chair, relax, and put your feet up on one of these new type of hassocks I found, selling for $4.95. These are round and comfortable little items about 10 inches high and are made of easily washable textured plastic in four different patterns. One is sure to match your rumpled room or den. Made in Canada, they feature a Paisley design, or solid tones of dark green, beige, gold or brown, accented with gold speckles.

By the way, if you're moving, packing items away from summer or cleaning out the basement, this is the way to make sure that the articles being packed are not lost and can be identified easily. Simply mark the box or item with a new nylon-tipped marking pencil I found. Priced at 39 cents, these come in four colors—black, red, green and yellow. These are the greatest things for marking children's back-to-school clothing, too.

The ink is indelible, won't wash out, and it is a safe way to insure against mixed-up clothing at school or loss of articles. When this is applied, there is no mess and no fuss to it—the ink dries instantly.

Here's a dainty and useful little article to give a dinner table that extra-special touch. It is a plastic napkin container which looks exactly like cut-glass—transparent and delicate in a basket-weave design. Price is 59 cents.

Sound interesting? Then, give Penny a call at 382-3131.

MAYOR WINS TOP AWARD

Mayor R. B. Wilson will receive the highest award of the Canadian Restaurant Association, "Order of Good Host" at a dinner and ball, to be held in Empress Hotel ballroom on Friday evening. The award will be given "because of Mayor Wilson's contribution to the growth of Victoria and development of good citizenship among all Canadians." Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec also holds this award.

The ball will be in honor of Arnold Sommerville, national president, and Mrs. Sommerville who arrived from Ontario today. They were met at the airport by directors of the local branch. This evening, they will be entertained at a dinner in the Persian Room, followed by a reception in the Executive Suite of the Century Inn.

The Sommervilles leave Victoria on Sunday, en route to the next stage of a trans-Canada tour, visiting restaurants and places of interest.

Queen Still Strong

The common currency of Arabia and East Africa is the "fat lady," the 200-year-old Maria Theresa silver dollar.

Luncheon Guests

Several members of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club travelled to Port Angeles, Wash., and were entertained at a smorgasbord luncheon by the Port Angeles BPW. President of the Port Angeles club, Mrs. A. Palmer, welcomed the guests. Later, the visitors motored to Hurricane Ridge. Attending from Victoria were president Miss Elizabeth Clement, Mrs. I. MacMaster, Mrs. E. Ward, Mrs. M. McCann, Mrs. L. Wright, Mrs. R. Stewart, the Misses Bernice Harvey, Frances Paterson, Bessie Parker, Ella Brett, Winifred Ellis and Helen Cruikshank.

Fetes Bride-Elect

A tea set in a forget-me-not pattern was presented to bride-elect Miss Linda Yearron when Mrs. M. A. Boyd entertained at a pre-wedding tea in her Stewart Avenue home. Games were played. Among the guests attending were Mrs. R. Boyd, Richmond, B.C.; Mrs. M. Matheson and Mrs. E. J. J. Glenesk of Vancouver; Mrs. C. J. Miller, Mrs. S. H. Boyd, Mrs. A. F. Nelson, Mrs. S. H. N. Yearron, Mrs. M. A. Mills, Mrs. R. Prewett, Mrs. C. H. Lawson, Mrs. L. Paxton, the Misses Sylvia Yearron, Kitty Prewett, Linda Nelson, Linda Miller and Margaret Kier.

Outfits for All Starred at Show

Outfits for every occasion, from fashions for the sophisticated hostess to casual outfits for watching a football game, were presented when the Catholic Women's League of Our Lady of the Rosary Church held a fashion show, recently, in the parish hall.

The outfits were presented by Miss Frith's Ladies' Wear and hairdos were by Margo's Beauty Studios. Wilkes Furriers provided the furs.

Win Sinclair, accompanied by Miss Evelyn Gill on the organ, commented on the fashions modelled by members of the CWL.

The models included Mrs. A. Clark, Mrs. N. MacTavish, Mrs. J. Gillemaud, Mrs. M. Sullivan, Mrs. R. Valcourt and Miss Lorraine Dionne. Refreshments were served following the show.

Clubwomen's News

Donations—Sum of $50 was given to the Children's Village and a similar amount was donated to the Unitarian Services Committee of Canada at the recent meeting of the Victoria Lions' Women's Auxiliary held in the T. Eaton Co. small dining room. Bruce Leyden, president of Travelers Tours, showed slides of South Africa.

Ratepayers Ask For Statement On Court Move

A group of property owners in Saanich has asked the attorney-general's department for a public statement on the magistrate's court controversy.

Gordon Campbell, chairman of the Saanich Information Committee, said a telegram to the department asks it state publicly "what statutory provisions" are being invoked in the court move to downtown from Saanich.

Earlier, the committee — a group of citizens seeking to maintain municipal autonomy — wrote a similar letter to the attorney-general.

A spokesman for the attorney-general's department has said statutory authority exists and has been shown to Reeve Hugh Curtis.

Jaycee Official Attends Meeting

Victoria Jaycee vice-president Garry Allan will return to Victoria this weekend after attending week-long sessions in Banff of the Junior Chamber of Commerce world conference.

Discussions in the Alberta resort town dealt with the Jaycee role in government and community development.

The Victoria club is presently celebrating Jaycee week.

Circle Route Pact Awarded

Contract for the completion of a circling route around the Gordon Head campus of the University of Victoria has been awarded to Oliver Equipment and Supply Ltd., 616 Hillside.

The firm's tender of $159,200 was the lowest of three. Figures provide also for two new parking lots and a new entrance for the ring road from Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Rising Costs Of Schools, Panel Topic

A panel discussion on the rising cost of school construction and delays involved will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in St. Matthias' Church hall, corner of Richmond and Richardson.

Sponsors are the Margaret Jenkins-Bank Street PTA. Panel members will be school trustee Peter Bunn; J. W. Groves, recording secretary of Local 1-118 IWA; and Dr. W. Plenderleith of the department of education.

Moderator will be W. Boyes, vice-principal of Margaret Jenkins School.

Questioning the panel will be Mrs. H. Harvey Smith, representing Bank Street School parents; Mrs. R. Thomas, representing Margaret Jenkins School parents; and P. Steele.

Compulsory Regions Urged

Regional districts should at first be formed on a compulsory basis, it was suggested Wednesday at the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention.

Mayor M. P. Finnerty, Penticton, told delegates that representatives of unorganized districts, particularly in the interior of the province, have been reluctant in joining regional districts.

"They are hesitant to commit their areas because they are not elected and have nobody to go back to for discussions," said Mayor Finnerty.

He suggested regional districts would have to be formed on a compulsory basis to overcome the problem.

'India Must Make Bomb to Survive'

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Eighty-six parliamentarians of all parties have asked Prime Minister Shastri to order the manufacture of atomic bombs because of alleged collusion between China and Pakistan.

In a letter to the prime minister they said the manufacture of atomic bombs is necessary for India's survival as a nation and a democracy.

"The bitter experience of denial of aid when India is fighting not only to repel aggression but also to make the country safe for democracy makes it abundantly clear that the security of the country can no longer be left to the mercy of whims of so-called friendly countries," the letter said.

Among the main signatories to the letter are both general secretaries of Shastri's own ruling Congress party.

Shastri and the late prime minister Nehru both rejected earlier demands that India make an atomic bomb and pledged India to the development of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes. But Shastri has said no decision is binding for all time.

Competent authorities have agreed India is capable of developing nuclear weapons. It has been estimated that the country could produce an atomic bomb in 18 months.

Reports that secret development of a nuclear weapon already has started have been denied.

India made an unconditional agreement with Canada in 1956 that a nuclear reactor built with Canadian technical aid would be used for peaceful purposes only.

The same agreement has applied to later nuclear power stations supplied to both India and Pakistan.

While the natural uranium used in the heavy water-type reactors built in India cannot be used for atomic bombs, plutonium—a basic ingredient in the bomb—can be extracted from the used uranium fuel.

While this is an expensive process, it does provide a source for the plutonium that is not otherwise available.

'Compliment I Don't Deserve'

Federal election politics are taboo for Premier Lesage while he tours western Canada on a "get to know Quebec better" speaking tour.

But he was persuaded to provide a bright answer when asked if former cabinet minister for the Conservatives, Michael Starr, was on the right track when he suggested that Mr. Lesage's tour was a prelude to taking over Liberal party leadership from Lester B. Pearson.

"I knew Michael Starr well when I was in parliament," he answered. "He always showed a lot of imagination—but he is paying me a compliment I don't deserve. My hands are too full to think of re-entering the federal field."

A FIGHTER IS JOHN, SAYS TOMMY

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—The popular attitude in Canada toward Conservative leader John Diefenbaker is changing, says T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party.

"The reaction I get is that whereas in '63 there was violent opposition and antipathy to him (Diefenbaker), now a lot of people are saying 'Well, I may not vote for him, but you've got to admit he's a fighter,'" Mr. Douglas said here Wednesday.

"Now this, of course, is where Mr. Diefenbaker is at his best, always, on the attack. He's a first-class opposition leader."

"As head of a government he's a disaster."

France Denies Press Reports On U.S. Bases

PARIS (Reuters) — Information Minister M. Alain Peyrefitte has denied press reports that President Charles de Gaulle told the United States it can keep its bases in France only if they are put under the command of French generals.

The press reports followed a recent meeting between de Gaulle and U.S. State Under-Secretary George Ball.

Peyrefitte said Wednesday de Gaulle "did not tell Ball what he is reported to have said." The information minister repeated the French position—stated by de Gaulle—Sept. 9—that "France stays in the NATO Alliance but its organization must be reviewed before 1969."

Owners File $2 Million Damage Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The 22,000-ton tanker Intercontinent was at anchor in San Francisco Bay today, its owner faced with a $2,000,000 damage suit.

The Intercontinent sliced into the Norwegian motorship Berganger Wednesday morning near the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge, cutting a jagged 30-foot gash in the 8,051-ton freighter's side.

The Berganger's owners — Westfal, Larsen and Company — filed suit in federal admiralty court a few hours later. As the Intercontinent steamed under the Golden Gate Bridge for Long Beach, Calif., a U.S. marshal in a speedboat came alongside and ordered her back to anchor.

Lawyers said the suit was to prevent the Intercontinent from sailing without first putting up bond for the amount of damages.

Volunteer Driver Dies at 71

Funeral services were held in McCall's funeral chapel Tuesday afternoon for Alfred Frank Corker of 1250 Newport Avenue, who died here Friday at the age of 71.

Rev. T. W. Scott officiated. Mr. Corker was chief volunteer driver for the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society in Victoria.

Born in London, he came to Canada in 1920 and was a member of the Air Force Officers' Association and the Canadian Arthritis Association.

He was also a volunteer driver for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in Victoria.

Its armament includes eight 21" tubes for homing torpedoes.
It's operationally potent and supplies advanced anti-sub training.

Last June, the Canadian Forces announced the addition of the CF-5 fighter to its new equipment roster. NOW it's the new submarine, HMCS Ojibwa. This is the first of three Oberon-class (powered by the latest twin diesel engines) that will join the fleet. The Ojibwa is designed for both arctic and tropical operations. It is superbly fitted with the most up-to-date detection equipment in the world. The Ojibwa is new in the Canadian Forces. There's more to come. Good equipment requires good men.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

NEW YORK—It's definite, after the many months of rumors—Ursula Andress and John Derek are getting a divorce. He's been staying with her in New York for the past few days, and they both say they have tremendous admiration and affection for each other, not to mention respect, and she calls it "a trial divorce." She just returned to Rome and John will trek to Hollywood, where attorney Gregg Bautzer will handle the legal details. But they like to think that after the novelty of the divorce has worn off, they'll get married again. Are you ready for that plot? . . . George Raft, recently in the headlines over a tax rap, is wanted for an important film in Italy. But of course he'll have to straighten out his difficulties with the Internal Revenue Service first; the government won't allow you to leave the country unless you've paid your taxes. . . . Tom Curtis may be a serious contender for the drama critic post at the Times. He's currently toiling for the Times overseas. Fine writer, fine fellow.

The Supremes, a red-hot ticket for their Oct. 15 concert at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall, will have an extra added attraction to their groovy vocals. Sammy Davis told the girls he'd be delighted to serve as master of ceremonies for their first big New York appearance. . . . Katharine Hepburn may star in the cinema version of "A Very Rich Woman," which Ruth Gordon adapted from the French. Ruth will be the lead in the Broadway edition. . . . They think of more funny things in Las Vegas. Some of the acts playing there are interrupting their routines to give the customers the latest baseball scores. . . . Blake Edwards, who did such a fabulous job in creating "The Great Race," plans to join with Danny Thomas and star Mickey Rooney in a TV series.

JOE LEVINE, THE MOVIE DYNAMO who is currently producing eight films simultaneously, will soon have a ninth in the works. And what a ninth! Merely "Romeo and Juliet," starring Rudolf Nureyev and Margot Fonteyn. Production starts in London next week. . . . John Gary's newest single, "Give Me This Moment," is a beauty. Could be another "More." It's the kind of song good singers are looking for—or should be. . . . Nipsey Russell is exiting from the Les Crane nighttime show for bigger and better things.

Memo to Abraham Beame, who vowed he'd run in the tradition of Franklin D. Roosevelt, John F. Kennedy and other prominent Democrats, while urging the public not to vote for John V. Lindsay because he's, among other things, "a Park Ave. Congressman." Dear Mr. Beame, I knew both Franklin D. Roosevelt and John F. Kennedy, I am happy to say, and if you will do a little checking, you will discover that by comparison to those two heroes—Congressman Lindsay is a candidate for the anti-poverty campaign. Ever been to the Roosevelt compound at Hyde Park, keed? I have. Ever been invited to the Roosevelt town house on the fashionable East Side of Manhattan? I was. It wasn't exactly a tenement. I'm sure you're young enough to know all about the Kennedys, with their places in Ryann's Port and Washington and Palm Beach and Maryland and New York. "Park Ave." isn't a dirty phrase to them, any more than it was to President Roosevelt. To any intelligent New Yorker, the location of Mr. Lindsay's residence is not an issue, and should not be.

GENE KELLEY IS QUITE CONVINCED he's just about talked Brigitte Bardot into making the jump to Hollywood for her first film in the United States. Gene will be producing and directing a musical that he feels would be a perfect showcase for BB. . . . Apparently Nelson Eddy has fully recovered from his recent illness. He's making nightclub bookings again and is scheduled to play Gotham in March.

Phyllis Diller will be featured in Bob Hope's next picture, "Boy Did I Get A Wrong Number," thanks to Morris Lansburgh of the Flamingo in Las Vegas. The comedienne was committed to headline there for four weeks starting in late October, but when that date conflicted with the shooting schedule of the movie, Morris made the gracious gesture and allowed Phyllis to cancel her contract with no fuss or unpleasantness.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

Start Planning For Success

By JACK HUTTON

It may be a card table. Perhaps the two bottom drawers of a bureau. Or it may be the rear corner of the attic where you can look through the trees at the backyard.

But the important thing is that it's all yours—no one else's.

This is your weekend-to-carefully plan some corner at home where notes can be filed away, books stored and where you know you can concentrate in quiet.

It doesn't matter whether you live in a small apartment or a 20-room mansion. There is some nook or cranny that is just right for you. Or, if it isn't now, it can be with a little planning.

This column, based on the advice of several guidance-teachers and friends who've been able to organize their studying well, is meant to give you a few ideas about how to plan your corner.

Lots of Time?

I've never forgotten a conversation with Dr. Hugh Sanderson, the tall, urbane president of the University of Manitoba. "Most students who fall here don't do it in the spring," he said. "They did it in the fall when they thought they had lots of time and didn't get organized."

That's not going to happen to us. Not if we do some planning right now.

A family conference (this all depends, after all, on co-operation) should attack the problem from two aspects: psychological and physical.

Let's tackle the first. Nothing is so important as establishing a routine in which you can concentrate at the same time every evening in the same place.

And what about distractions? The experts disagree about a radio. Some swear it hampers studying. I've always found that it relaxed me. You suit yourself.

But there's no argument about television.

If there's a program you just can't miss, fit that into your schedule so that you can take a break. But don't try to do two things at the same time. That way lies disaster.

Try making a schedule for yourself during the next two weeks, marking off the hours of each evening. Be honest in filling in the blanks. If you plan it in the corner it will help you to stay organized.

Cubby Hole

What about the physical makeup of your corner? Ideally it should be: a little room or cubby hole that's separated from the other distractions of your home. If that's impossible the end of the dining room table can work—with planning.

Some people find that the worst place in the house to study is their own bedroom. There are too many distractions there—pennants, pictures of movie idols or singers. Suit yourself, but stick to the same place.

What about a desk? By carefully scouting the classified advertisements you'll be amazed at how cheaply you can buy a used desk. Add a small book stand that needn't cost more than a few dollars and you're all set.

I bought my first typewriter on a time payment plan and still figure it was a smart investment. Regardless of what you eventually do, the knack of using a typewriter is invaluable.

Eventually you may want to add a small file. That's something that can wait, and don't spend a lot of money on this either. By watching for your chance, you can either scrounge an old one or buy one for a few dollars.

You've no space, you say? Then planning is even more important for you because of the distractions. First, get a permanent place to store your material—a drawer, a shelf.

And have it understood that the dining room or the kitchen table is yours for a specific time each evening. Fit yourself into a routine and you've accomplished the most important thing you'll do this fall.

Remember: People don't fail in the spring. They plant the seeds of their own failure long before Christmas.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Donna DeBoer, 11, Hull, Iowa, for her question:

How Does Moss Go to Seed?

A marigold plant bears sunny-colored flowers that soon fade away. The petals fall and in their places come tufts of seeds for more marigolds. The simple mosses have no eye-catching flowers, but they have a far more complicated way of going to seed than the razzle-dazzle marigolds.

The mosses spread like carpets on the moist ground and cling like snug jackets to shady tree trunks. But they have no true plant roots to anchor them to the spot. Their delicate foliage is anchored by rootlets called rhizoids. New plants can grow from spreading foliage, or a moss plant may go to seed in a very special way of its own.

A thriving moss plant may

Mosses Need Moisture

The developing spores within the capsule are actually seedlets too small to be called seeds. The tip of the spore capsule is closed with a circle of tiny prongs and sealed with a tiny cap. When the spores are ripe, the cap falls off. The pronged doorway opens and closes with the changing weather.

Mosses need shade and moisture, and their spores have a better chance of finding a suitable home in moist weather. When the woods are wet with rain or dew, the spore capsule opens its pronged door and out come a few ripe seedlets. Each spore that is lucky settles on the ground and sprouts a branch of green threads called a protonema. The protonema sends down the rhizoids and sprouts up the leafy tufts of a new moss plant.

For such a simple plant, the moss has a very complicated way of going to seed. The method is called alternation of generations; and it takes place in two separate stages. Male and female cells unite to form the fertilized egg from which the spores develop. A spore grows a flat branch of threads which produces the new moss plant.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Gloria A. Rice, age 12, of Livingston, Tex., for her question:

Do stars really twinkle?

Stars do not twinkle, and yet in a way they do. Each star is a blazing bonfire of nuclear fury that shoots immense flames and fiery streamers out into space. Its round surface dances with darting flames. But a star is too far away for us to see this changing spectacle, and the twinkling we see on earth has nothing to do with it.

The earth's atmosphere of teeming gas molecules plays tricks on light beams on their way down to the ground. It points the day sky blue and causes the darting sparkles that twinkle from a golden star. This twinkling is not done by the distant star, but by a few miles of gaseous air above the earth.

'TREADING ON SACRED GROUND'

Drought Bares Site Of Small Community

WILMINGTON, Vt. (AP)—New relics of a small town that thrived in the 18th and early 19th centuries emerge each day as water levels in Whitingham Lake decline from the prolonged drought.

For nearby residents who once lived in Whitingham on what is now the lake's bottom it is like the rise of a ghost.

"Every three days there is something new to find," said Mrs. Carmen Canero of North Adams. "I feel as if I'm treading on sacred ground."

The lake was formed in 1924 by New England Power Company to generate power for New England and part of New York State.

It is the first time in memory that water levels have fallen low enough during the summer to reveal the community that was flooded.

Attracting the most attention are the waterlogged and bleached remains of what was once a backbone industry for Whitingham, the Mountain Mills Paper and Pulp Company.

The mill opened in the early 1800s and provided employment for 200 men.

Nazi Members Hold Training Near Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto student who infiltrated a Canadian Nazi group last January said Tuesday night members trained on a farm outside Toronto.

John Dingle of York University, one of three students who infiltrated the Nazi organization, said the members practised acting as firing squads and orders were given in German.

The other infiltrators were Mr. Dingle's brother Christopher, a University of Toronto student, and Ronald Bottaro of York University. They told their experiences to a meeting of N3, an anti-Nazi organization here.

Christopher Dingle said that in the six months they were members of the party they rose to leadership of its SS section.

They attended weekly meetings of the party in Toronto and made tape recordings of the proceedings. Parts of the tapes were played at the N3 meeting.

The students said there were 17 members of the party in Toronto and about 50 supporters. A Bulgarian group of 30 former SS men was affiliated with the party, they said.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Deputy Attorney-General Dr. Gilbert Kennedy will be guest speaker at the University of Victoria Oct. 15 when awards and scholarships for the year will be announced in a special general assembly.

Two Victoria sailors have been chosen to form part of the crew of Canada's newest submarine, HMCS Ojibwa.

Chief PO L. Burnett and AB B. Watt joined the ship Wednesday at commissioning ceremonies at Chatham, Eng.

The Ojibwa is the first of three Oberon class submarines to be built for the RCN.

Personnel serving in submarines are volunteers and receive a special allowance in addition to their regular pay. The allowance, depending on rank, ranges from $65 to $115 a month.

President of the Canadian Construction Association, Neville R. Williams, of Winnipeg, will be in Victoria Monday for meetings with officials of the Victoria Building Institute Exchange.

Keys to a new Valiant will be presented tonight to David Holden, who won the car in an Oak Bay Optimist raffle.

Presentation will be made by Peter Dixon, manager of Ensign Motors, to Mr. Holden, a Williams Lake bank teller and a former Victorian.

Proceeds of the raffle, about $3,000, will go to Oak Bay Optimist charities. Presentation will take place at 7:30 p.m. at Uplands Golf Club.

Lieutenant Governor and Mrs. George Pearkes will leave here for Kimberley Friday to attend the fourth annual indoor rodeo of Kimberley and district.

During their visit they will be guests at the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's guest house at Chapman Camp.

They will return to Victoria Sunday.

RC COUNCIL

World Problems Debate Opens

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Bishops at the Vatican ecumenical council voted approval today of the general outlines of a decree on modern world problems, including birth control and nuclear warfare.

It was the first time in the 2,000-year history of the Roman Catholic church that a general council had officially agreed to go ahead with preparation of a formal declaration addressed to all mankind on non-religious contemporary matters.

The vote was only a preliminary one, and continuing debate indicated the document would be extensively rewritten.

Even as the vote was being taken, a Brazilian urged that the document say more about Communist dangers, and an Indian prelate argued that it had too Western an outlook.

Until now the document had been before the council for general debate. With today's secret vote in St. Peter's Basilica, the 2,200 prelates formally accepted it as a basis of further discussion and moved on to chapter-by-chapter debate.

DISCLOSE OUTCOME

Council spokesmen disclosed the outcome of the vote, committing the council to the preparation of a formal decree on modern problems.

The vote count was not announced.

The document also looks into minor actions that form a mosaic picture of morals today—the speeding motorist who jeopardizes the lives of others, the tax dodger who lets his fellow citizens carry an extra load, the violator of public hygiene laws who menaces a neighborhood's health.

'Keyhole' Jacket Gets Nod

OTTAWA (CP)—A new type of lifejacket that has a greater ability to keep the wearer floating on his back with his head out of the water is scheduled for approval next year by the federal transport department, it was announced today.

The design is a result of two years of testing by a special group assigned by the Canadian government specifications board.

The jacket is of the "keyhole" type that goes on over the head and has its main flotation support behind the neck and in front of the chest.

It differs from other designs of this type, however, in that 60 per cent of the chest padding is on the right side and 40 per cent on the left.

"This uneven . . . distribution has proven its ability to turn the wearer on his back when in the water, even though he might be unconscious, thus holding his face out of water," a department statement said.

Plot to Kill Congolese PM Foiled

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—An attempt to assassinate Congolese Prime Minister Moise Tshombe when he left at an international football match here Tuesday was foiled at the last moment, a spokesman for the premier said here today.

The spokesman said two men, who admitted they intended to kill Tshombe, are being held.

There was evidence that the men were involved in a plot to kill other Congolese politicians, the spokesman added.

He said the two Congolese were seen cocking revolvers when Tshombe's car was leaving the King Baudouin Stadium after the match between the Congo and Liberia.

They were seen by people in the crowd who turned them over to police.

The two men were identified as Andre Kadima and Charles Fundu, both from the lower Congo region southwest of Leopoldville.

No charges from the alleged assassination plot was given.

Impaired Pair Lose Licences

Two persons picked up for impaired driving by city police at the weekend were each fined $350 and had their licences suspended in court Monday.

John Mounsey, 3572 Quadra, was arrested after a collision at Esquimalt and Catherine Saturday afternoon. He was unable to give police a coherent account of the accident and registered a blood alcohol level of .22 per cent when tested.

Emerson Thomas, 2395 Mount Newton Cross Road, was charged after police saw his car weave slowly along Fairfield Road Sunday morning. He too had a blood alcohol level of .22 per cent when tested.

Some section of the 30,000-word text have leaked out although the document is still secret.

Part one is entitled The Church and the Condition of the Individual and the Highly Organized Society of Today.

"It is necessary that every man, that every group, be no longer content with an individualistic ethic which, when the relationship between the person and society is at stake, assumes a varying and blame-worthy attitude," says one paragraph.

"This in some countries many pay scant attention to social laws and obligations. Many are those who are not even afraid to get out of just taxes and social debts by various subterfuges and frauds. Others overlook public hygiene measures and highway traffic laws without even realizing that their carelessness puts the lives of others in danger."

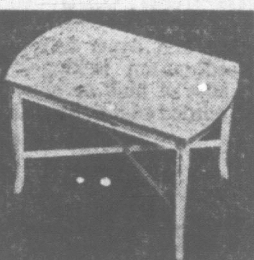

The document calls for efforts to increase "a sense of responsibility and participation the life of society" to overcome such attitudes.

India Faces Long-Term Threat From China on Border Issue

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Indian Ambassador B. K. Nehru said today his country faces a long-term threat from China and the United States should resume military aid shipments without waiting for some new Chinese pressure.

Nehru also said in an interview the use of American-supplied arms by Pakistan in its war with India "has caused ill feeling" in his country toward the United States.

Nehru claimed Pakistan has lost the war with India. Hostilities were halted early today by a ceasefire.

As far as India is concerned, Nehru said, the main result of the fighting has been to harden India's determination to hold on to the disputed territory of Kashmir.

He virtually ruled out trying to solve the Kashmir problem through a plebiscite, saying "we are not prepared any longer—after 18 years—to regard a solution proposed 18 years ago as being the correct solution of this problem."

In 1947, Viscount Mountbatten, then India's governor-general, pledged a plebiscite when peace in then disrupted Kashmir was restored.

In 1949, India told the United Nations it would submit to a plebiscite in Kashmir provided Pakistan withdrew its forces from the disputed territory.

The plebiscite never was held. India contended Pakistan did not withdraw its troops. Pakistan said it kept them there because India never intended to permit a plebiscite.

While making these points, Nehru ridiculed China's assertion that India had yielded to its ultimatum of last week and destroyed 56 military positions in the Himalayan border region. He renewed India's charge that the Chinese Communists acted in collusion with Pakistan to divert Indian forces from the Pakistan warfront to the Chinese frontier. The collusion charge has been angrily denied by Pakistani spokesmen.

The United States suspended military aid shipments to both India and Pakistan earlier this month. When China began threatening India and accusing it of aggression on the Chinese frontier India asked that the embargo be lifted. Nehru said he is still waiting for a reply.

Nehru was asked if his government would request the United States to resume military aid in the event of new pressures from China.

"We would certainly ask the United States to resume military aid to India," he replied.

IMPOSSIBLE TASK FACES UN

Kashmir Settlement Slim

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—India and Pakistan have stopped fighting over Kashmir. But they are unlikely to settle their quarrel over it.

That is the situation the UN Security Council faces after it demanded and got an India-Pakistan ceasefire.

The council has committed itself to try to settle the Kashmir question. But the two sides are so far apart and so firm in their positions that prospects for a settlement are slim.

The council's successful ceasefire resolution said a halt in hostilities was an essential step toward "settlement of the outstanding differences between the two countries on Kashmir."

The debate revealed the wide differences between India and Pakistan on the disputed Himalayan state.

Education Minister Mohame-dali Curran Chagla of India told the council:

"Kashmir is an integral part of India. Kashmir is a unit of the Indian federation; and we will not permit our federation to be broken up."

But Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto of Pakistan said:

"Kashmir is not an integral part of India and never has been. Kashmir is a disputed territory. . . the people . . . are a part of the people of Pakistan."

He said that Pakistan would quit the United Nations unless the council, within a limited time, got "a purposeful, peaceful and last settlement."

Pakistan's stated conditions for settling the dispute are: 1. Ceasefire; 2. Withdrawal of all Indian and Pakistani troops from Kashmir and; 3. Within three months of the ceasefire, a UN-supervised plebiscite among Kashmiris on whether they want to join India or Pakistan.

The council has called for withdrawal only behind the lines. India and Pakistan held before the outbreak of the latest fighting Aug. 5. It did not demand total withdrawal from divided Kashmir.

India, which holds four-fifths of the disputed state, has said she will never allow a plebiscite now.

The problem, started when Britain freed the Indian sub-continent in 1947 and partitioned old British India between Moslem Pakistan and secular, but predominantly Hindu, India.

The 60-odd princes—maharajas, nawabs and the like—were freed of British paramountcy, or veto power over their conduct of state affairs. They could choose union with India or Pakistan. A few tried to become independent but were quickly swallowed up by the two giants of the sub-continent.

Escapers Believed Armed and 'Extremely Dangerous'

Murder Suspect Still At Large

"BIENVENU A L'UNIVERSITE DE VICTORIA, Monsieur le Premier" was the greeting of Dr. Malcolm Taylor when he welcomed Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec this morning. Following a press conference Dr. Taylor introduced the Quebec leader to 2,000 students in what Mr. Lesage later said was "most excellent French, which made me happy." Two other speeches were scheduled for the premier following his Uvic appearance. At noon he addressed the Canadian Club.

Courts Can't Decide Offshore Oil: Lesage

By JIM HUME

Genial Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec has a sore spot.

Offshore rights. He told 2,000 high school and university students this morning that the federal government's decision to call on the Supreme Court of Canada for a decision on the problem was urged on him some years ago when he was federal minister of northern affairs.

"My advisers urged me then to send the matter to the Supreme Court," he said in answer to a question from the floor of the University of Victoria gymnasium. "But I refused. My stand at that time is the same as the stand I take today. The Supreme Court of Canada has no jurisdiction in this area. We have a constitution and the constitution is quite clear."

"When I was minister of northern affairs for the same party now in power, I refused to submit the matter to the court as a federalist."

Mr. Lesage noted that he was by training a "constitution lawyer."

Of Canada's 10 provinces only two—Alberta and Saskatchewan—have declined to take a stand on the offshore rights issue.

Earlier, during a pre-speech

press conference, Mr. Lesage declined detailed comment on Prime Minister Pearson's pledge to introduce a new proposal for education grants to the provinces.

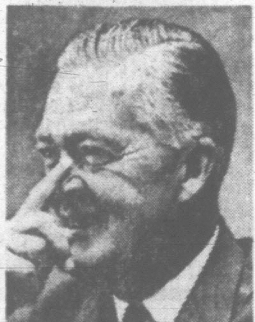

"I have said before that until I see the proposals in detail I cannot comment," Mr. Lesage said. "But it is likely that we would opt out of such a program and ask for a fiscal rebate in place of the grant system."

Mr. Lesage took the same stand when asked for his opinion on the Pearson plan to spend $500 million over a 15-year period on health resources.

MEDICAL TRAINING

ANGER GREET'S FUND

OTTAWA (CP)—Health ministers of the provinces expressed astonishment, disappointment, and some anger at the opening of a two-day federal-provincial conference today at a federal government announcement that it plans to earmark $500,000,000 for improvement of medical training and other resources during the next 15 years.

The announcement was made in a press release issued by Prime Minister Pearson at the time the scheduled conference began with Health Minister Judy LaMarsh presiding.

Ministers representing Liberal, Conservative and Social Credit provincial governments said they were surprised that the $500,000,000 figure was set by the federal government before hearing provincial views at the meeting. One of the purposes of this week's meeting was to receive reports from the provinces on their needs for improved medical resources on introduction of universal medical care insurance.

The government's $500,000,000 proposal would amount to about $33,000,000 a year. Federal hospital construction grants to the provinces in the current fiscal year are placed at $20,000,000 in the government's main estimates.

One of the stated purposes of the proposed fund is to provide federal capital grants for hospital construction.

Attorney-General R. A. Donahoe, who is also health minister of Nova Scotia, said he was surprised that the decision was taken "before we even arrived here."

Health Minister Matthew Dymond of Ontario said that at the federal-provincial conference of premiers two months ago, Prime Minister Pearson said no decision could be taken on the amount of the grants until provincial views were heard.

Health Minister G. L. Dumont of New Brunswick said he was "a bit surprised—I'm astonished" that the figure was set at $500,000,000, adding "there may have been consultation but I hadn't heard of it."

BASED ON ESTIMATES

Miss LaMarsh, referring to the $500,000,000 as a "pool of money," said the figure had been arrived at by the federal government "after consultation with the provinces over several months" and on the basis of estimates submitted to her department by medical colleges and medical associations.

David Steuart, health minister of Saskatchewan, said the fund was inadequate if it is to be distributed on the basis of provincial populations. Saskatchewan would get one-twentieth of the $33,000,000 which would be available each year, and Saskatchewan's needs are far greater.

Mr. Donahoe said Nova Scotia's immediate needs are for $30,000,000 and like amounts were required by New Brunswick and possibly Newfoundland.

This, he said, would total almost three times the amount

China Accused By U.S.

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg accused Communist China today of trying to dominate the world and said U.S. action in South Viet Nam is aimed at keeping that country from being a first victim.

He made the statement in a major policy speech to the 117-country United Nations General Assembly in which he accused Peking of seeking to change world order "by force and violence."

He also disclosed a new proposal under which the Soviet Union and the United States would agree to destroy some of their nuclear weapons.

He invited other countries to visit the U.S. experimental site for detecting nuclear explosions. It is located at Montana. The invitation was for Oct. 12 and 13. He issued the invitation to underscore U.S. willingness to negotiate a comprehensive nuclear test-ban treaty.

CELESTIAL TREATY

He proposed also that the UN begin work on a comprehensive treaty for the international exploitation of celestial bodies.

He called attention to President Johnson's program to create a "great society" in the U.S. and declared this could be applied to the UN as well.

His attack on Communist China came in a defence of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

He said that Peking's present philosophy "can only lead to the most disastrous consequences for the entire world."

As to U.S. actions in South Viet Nam, he said:

"We are helping to meet this challenge because we feel it must be met. And our goals in South Viet Nam are plain and simple. We seek only to ensure the independence of South Viet Nam, its freedom from attack and opportunity for its people to determine their own future."

He said that the United States stands ready "to withdraw our forces when Communist aggression is ended and South Viet Nam is left alone to determine its own destiny in its own way by the principles of self-determination."

REAFFIRM STAND

"Above all, we seek a peaceful solution. We have repeatedly stated our willingness to enter into peaceful discussions, and I reaffirm that willingness here today."

He said that the U.S. has asked UN members "individually and collectively to use their influence to bring about such discussions. We have asked the members of the Security Council and the Secretary-General to help get such negotiations started."

Pair Flees Colquitz Jail

By DESMOND BILL

Accused murderer David Robinson was still at large early this afternoon despite a massive Island-wide manhunt.

The 24-year-old janitor, accused of the brutal sex-slaying of a 14-year-old girl, got away from Colquitz Jail with another inmate shortly after 5 Wednesday.

Authorities are still not sure exactly how they broke out.

But a spokesman for the attorney-general's department said today "it is assumed" they found "some means" to open a fire escape door that was chained and fastened with two large padlocks.

The padlocks were found intact after the break-out but authorities said the fire escape is the only way the two could have got out.

A week ago authorities foiled a plot to smuggle a gun into the prison. Police believe the gun was intended for Robinson.

Police today are acting on the assumption that Robinson and the other escapee, Stanley Heron, 19, are armed. Both men are considered extremely dangerous.

Robinson was being held in the maximum security section of the jail awaiting trial on the charge of capital murder of Susan Fresh in View Royal May 11.

Heron, who was serving a sentence for car theft, has twice before escaped from institutions. Police said he has a previous conviction for rape.

Unguarded for 2 Minutes

The escape occurred when Robinson and Heron, along with 46 other prisoners, were being returned to their cells in the west wing of the prison after supper in the dining room.

The guard counted all 48 present when they entered the west wing. He then went upstairs to the second floor to open a door that leads to their cells.

That took him about two minutes. When he returned, he found Robinson and Heron missing. He raised the alarm and all doors were immediately locked.

A spokesman said today the "only possible means" for the two prisoners to escape was through a fire escape door on the second floor landing. The fire escape door is protected by two master padlocks that require different keys to open them.

Authorities said "it is assumed" that in the time it took the guard to go up and unlock the door to the second floor, Robinson and Heron found "some means" to open the padlocked door.

A spokesman said the only evidence Robinson and Heron did get out in this way is that dust on the fire escape outside was disturbed.

He said no keys are missing.

S. Roxborough Smith, director of B.C. prisons, was at Colquitz jail this morning to "personally examine administrative and security arrangements" at the prison. He is carrying out the examination personally on the orders of Attorney-General Robert Donner.

A week ago jail authorities found a gun hidden on the prison grounds. They believe this was part of a plot to smuggle a gun inside the prison and pass it to Robinson.

Robinson, as a maximum security prisoner, was not allowed out on the grounds with working parties. But other prisoners, who are allowed out with working parties, came in contact with Robinson inside the prison.

It would be easy for one of them to pick up a gun left at a pre-arranged spot on the prison farm by an outsider, and carry it back into jail for Robinson.

Jail authorities transferred one inmate out of the prison after the discovery of the gun. He is completing his sentence at another institution.

Attempt to Smuggle Gun

The attempt to smuggle a gun into the jail makes police think that Robinson could readily obtain help from friends and may already have been supplied with a weapon.

The probability that he and his companion are armed prevented police from beating the bush surrounding the jail in the darkness shortly after the escape.

But all available Saanich policemen were called into the search overnight assisted by RCMP, Central Saanich police and city police dogmaster George Barr.

A check of all beaches was made and the U.S. Coastguard was alerted to look out for small boats leaving the Island. Police think Robinson and Heron may try to get away from this area by stealing a boat.

Police set up patrols at all harbors, ferries and the International Airport within an hour of the escape. Scores of roadblocks were thrown up all over Vancouver Island with seven on the highway to Nanaimo alone.

Police said Robinson, who has lived in Colwood most of his life, knows the area around the jail "like the back of his hand."

Robinson is considered dangerous by police and they are giving special protection to W. R. McIntyre, the lawyer who was Crown Prosecutor in the case against Robinson. Other persons involved in the Crown's case are also taking special precautions while Robinson is on the loose.

INDIA:

Continue Fighting Guerrillas

(United Press International)

India said today its troops would continue to fight Pakistani guerrillas in Kashmir despite the Wednesday ceasefire order.

It accused Pakistan of sending infiltrators elsewhere along the front after the ceasefire.

Indian Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament "operations to liquidate armed Pakistani infiltrators into Kashmir" would continue. He also said action is being taken to deal with the other infiltrators he said were "bad characters" out to loot Indian property.

Both countries battled right up to the last minute to gain as much ground as possible before the ceasefire-silenced the guns, ending the 22-day-old war. Pakistan reported sinking an Indian frigate in a last minute naval battle; India denied the report.

Indian officers at Amritsar, which was bombed just before the ceasefire went into effect, accused Pakistani planes of using flaming napalm during the night to try to silence the Indian guns.

Cong Arms Seized

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. paratroopers and Australian soldiers reported killing 20 Viet Cong about 30 miles northwest of Saigon where the Americans also seized a big weapons cache. The action Wednesday brought to 44 the total of Viet Cong killed in the 10-day operation near Ben Cat. U.S. losses were reported light.

Lemay, Wife in Bahamas, Stewardesses Tell Police

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A lead to elusion George Lemay, 37, real, whose jail break here Tuesday night was alleged to have been engineered with a $35,000 promise, evaporated today in Nassau, The Bahamas.

Bahamas police commissioner Nigel Morris said his men thoroughly searched all hotels and late Wednesday tracked down a man said to resemble the bank burglary suspect.

"The man we found was not the subject," Morris said. "It was a case of mistaken identity."

The Nassau hunt for Lemay began after a report that a couple resembling him and his wife, Lise, travelled by airliner from Miami to The Bahamas capital and resort city.

Two airline stewardesses said a couple that travelled on Mackey Airlines' flight to Nassau.

Arthur Mayse

Today is as good a time as any for tying off a few items of unfinished business, among them the question posed by Guide leader Jeannie Reith, hours before she left on an overseas junket with a detachment of girls in blue.

The scheduled highlight of the tour was to be an international camp-out in Sweden, for which the maple leaf brigade was under orders to provide Canada's national dish.

"But what is it?" Mrs. Reith asked... an anxious query which neither this department nor its readers could answer.

Well, Jeannie Reith is back now, and I gather from her report that the kids settled their quandary in typical Canadian fashion by splitting into provinces.

The British Columbia contingent whipped up a meal that featured Pacific salmon.

The girls from Alberta offered baked beans and sausage, although they would have preferred Calgary steaks. Quebec supplied "tortoises," described as an old haberdash consisting of ham gussied up with whatever odds and ends are available.

Sturdy New Brunswick pinned its colors to fried herring and spuds.

Nova Scotia, and it pains me to recall this, passed up its succulent chowders for spaghetti.

"We called it a North American meal," says Mrs. Reith, of the sectioned feast, "and everybody thought it was wonderful!"

The 50-foot Malahat race canoe I told you about a couple of months ago is still gathering dust among the Motor Vehicle Bureau building rafters, and since freeing it would mean ripping out the office complex which has grown up around it, the slim craft will probably remain there indefinitely.

While chasing information on that local mystery, though, I ran head-on into another. What's happened to the twin eight-foot cannon that stood guard outside the old brick building on Merzies when it was the Fifth Artillery drill hall?

A plumber who was working in the Parliament buildings just before the Fifth pulled out to make room for the B.C. provincial police in 1923, tells me that the big muzzle-loaders—once guardians of a pioneer fort below Beacon Hill—were trundled around back and buried.

Not so, another informant insists. The gun carriages may have been buried, but not the cannon. Those were carted off.

As scrap, or are they rusting obscurely, somewhere in Greater Victoria? Can anyone come up with the answer?

A while back, I suggested that the McPherson Playhouse cash registers might jingle more merrily if student playgoers were given the encouragement of a four-bit rate.

Peter Manning's Bastion Theatre Company, which opens a seven-play run at the Mac on Friday evening with "Come Blow Your Horn," improves on this notion with a student-season ticket deal priced at $3, a sum which works out to about 43 cents a play.

One-shot student rates will range from a high of $1.75 to 50 cents for the gods.

The Bastion people under professional director and actor Manning can be counted on to provide good theatre... the very best of luck.

RCN Chaplain Clifford Waite tells me he will turn in his commission today, thereby freeing himself to accept a Conservative nomination in Victoria, if such is offered. All he has to do then is beat other-party candidates, of whom one is almost certain to be Liberal MP Dave Groos, in the scramble for a federal seat.

Even for a navy padre with an angel on his shoulder, that double "if" adds up to long, long odds!

Chronics' Means Test Rejected As UBCM Backs Ambulance Plan

By AB KENT

Times City Hall Reporter

A bid to insert a means test for chronic hospital care under B.C. Hospital Insurance Service today was defeated by Union of B.C. Municipalities convention.

Opening the second session of the 62nd annual convention at McPherson Playhouse, resolutions asking the provincial government to include ambulance service and chronic or continuing hospital care under BCHIS were carried by delegates.

Vancouver alderman E. G. Adams attempted to insert the clause "where it can be shown those persons requiring this care (rest homes or private hospitals) would be suffering a heavy financial burden."

"I am appalled to hear that Ald. Adams would suggest this amendment," said Surrey delegate Coun. W. A. Fomich. "When we pass a traffic law it applies to the rich as well as the poor," he added.

J. T. Smith, another Surrey councillor, said the amendment "sounds like Bennett's medicine."

Another delegate suggested that someone like H. R. MacMillan would be covered if the resolution went through without amendment. But other delegates told of instances where even well-to-do families had found continuing medical care a crushing financial burden.

Resolutions on ambulance service, originating in Vancouver, Ladysmith and Prince George were consolidated and passed enthusiastically.

Mayor Katherine Grouhel of Ladysmith said "BCHIS is long overdue for taking over ambulance service."

Her town finds its ambulance often is used on long hauls to hospitals in Victoria and Vancouver for non-resident accident victims, and costs frequently must be picked up by the council.

NEED AMBULANCE

"Nothing in the care of the sick is more needed than ambulance service," said Coun. Elaine Dobbins, of North Cowichan. "This should be a government responsibility instead of leaving patients to 'crawl to the door of the hospital,' she said.

"Isn't it foolish to provide thousands of dollars for hospitals without providing the means of getting there?" said

AUTUMN IN VICTORIA WORTH SINGING ABOUT

The first fall sunshine bathed the district in warmth Wednesday. And the sun continued to shine up to press time today.

Temperatures were above average—66 at Victoria weather office, warmer inland—and the scene looks all set for more sunny weather.

Temperatures will drop overnight to 40 or 50 but there is little likelihood of early fall rains.

Hottest spot in Canada was Moncton, N.B., with a high of 91, while Montreal recorded 88, Quebec City 84, and Ottawa 85. Today's temperatures were expected to be a little cooler.

VOLLEYBALL TRIP

Board May Lift Ban on Teacher

Greater Victoria School Board may reverse its decision barring one of its teachers from accompanying Russian Olympic volleyball teams on a Canadian tour

School Board chairman John Porteous said today several trustees have telephoned him and expressed a desire to reconsider the matter at a special board meeting early next week. Trustees Monday refused an eight-day leave of absence to Donald Smyth, a teacher at Victoria Secondary School, who is also president of the Canadian Volleyball Association.

The association is sponsoring the tour and Mr. Smyth, as president, was asked to accompany the teams.

The board's refusal Wednesday brought adverse reaction from sport officials.

PREVIOUS CASE

In one previous case a teacher resigned her position with the school district when trustees refused her permission to participate in highland dancing in Scotland.

Another trustee who asked not to be identified, said Wednesday he hoped the board would reverse its stand in Mr. Smyth's case because an unpopular decision could hurt the board's image.

He said it is important the board maintain its public image at this time in view of its anticipated $1,933,117 referendum. It will likely go before the voters later this fall.

The original motion to grant the leave of absence was narrowly defeated by a vote of 4 to 3.

At the time of the vote, the dissenters said the board was hampered by a previously set policy which does not allow leaves of absence for such matters.

Candidate Rally Set

Greater Victoria Liberal candidates will attend a B.C. Liberal candidates rally in the Bayshore Inn, Vancouver, Friday beginning at 9 a.m.

Victoria city's candidate expected to be David Groos, MP, will be chosen at a nominating convention in Hollywood House tonight at 8.

James Garst has been nominated Liberal candidate for Esquimalt-Saanich.

At the Vancouver meeting, election themes and campaign strategy will be discussed.

Nematode Talks Set In Calgary

A three-man delegation leaves Victoria tonight to ask federal compensation for growers hit by the golden nematode potato pest in Saanich.

A meeting will take place in Calgary Friday with Agriculture Minister Harry Hayes.

The three are Charles Walls, manager of the B.C. Federation of Agriculture, Ed. Lohbrunner, nurseryman, and Geoff Vantreight, the latter representing potato growers.

COUNCIL LIAISON PROPOSAL DUMPED

A Saanich council suggestion to have a councillor appointed to school boards as a liaison trustee was given short shrift by Union of B.C. Municipalities convention today.

The convention adopted a resolution that councils should not concern themselves with the day-to-day operations of school boards.

The resolutions committee said councils feel themselves to be "collection agencies" for school finances.

But a member of council could sit in on school board meetings by invitation, it was suggested. Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis, who moved the resolution, said it was realized the proposal would not get support at the convention, but "if it has caused some thought, on the matter, Saanich would be satisfied."

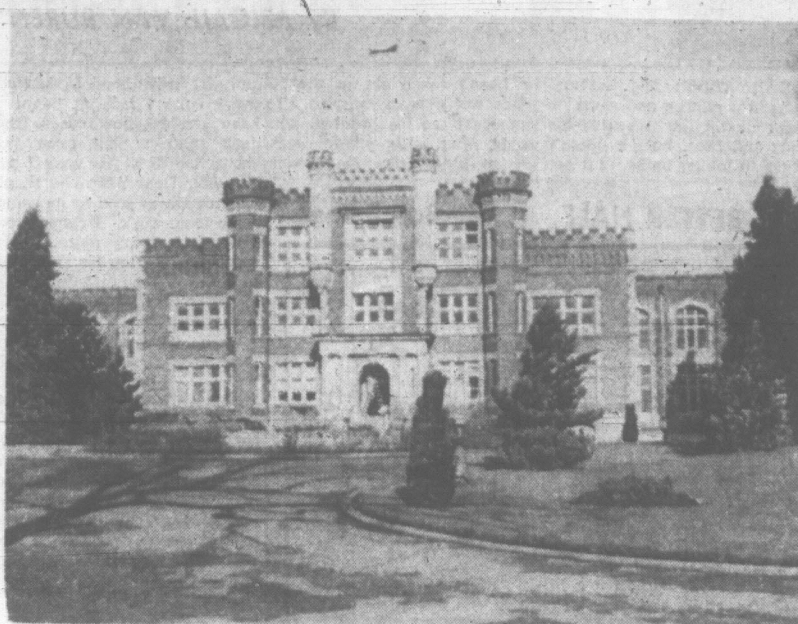

Such a provision of the Public Schools Act would bring "disastrous reflection on the capabilities of school trustees," said Coun. Jim Dailly of Burnaby.

"It would be a case of 'Big Brother is watching.' I'm sure we wouldn't appreciate a member of a senior government sitting on our councils," Mr. Dailly said.

Except in budget matters, the effect of councils on school boards is negligible, said Coun. N. Booth of Langley.

In an address to the convention Wednesday, B.C. School Trustees' Association president Wilf J. Peek of Duncan, said the idea of a councillor on the school is "like a trustee on council."

"I might say I would be the first to oppose such a move," he said.

JAIL MUST GO—TISDALLE

Speedy removal of Wilkinson Road Jail from heavily-populated Saanich has been urged by Saanich MLA

John Tisdalle. Murder suspect David Robinson, believed armed, escaped from this jail Wednesday night.

'Move Jail' Plea Follows Escape

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle today called on the provincial government to hasten the removal of Wilkinson Road Jail from built-up areas.

Speaking in interview following the Wednesday night escape of murder suspect David Robinson and a companion, Mr. Tisdalle said:

"It has been my strongest contention that the prison site is illogical. People in Saanich have been unhappy since the jail was originated."

He added, "When there is an escape the situation is hazardous. If the guards had an opportunity to shoot they couldn't point a gun in any direction without jeopardizing the lives of people in their homes."

Mr. Tisdalle said he understood the attorney-general's department has settled on a new jail site up-island.

"I can't say where it is. 'But plans are already drawn.' He said he will urge Attorney-General Bonner to proceed with construction as soon as possible.

Mr. Tisdalle pointed out that the charge against Robinson "is serious enough to cause him to act in a desperate manner." The escapee knows the area well and residents should be cautious in looking up, the MLA said.

Mr. Tisdalle said at the same time, there is consolation in the fact that in every escape in the jail's history, recapture has followed within a short time.

He said he understands the present jail site is proposed as the ultimate site of a hospital for retarded children. The present jail buildings, however, likely will be used as a provincial government storage centre, he added.

Lad Falls Off Wharf, Drowns

Toddler Charles Snelling, two, fell to his death two blocks from his Crofton home Wednesday.

The youngster slipped off the government wharf into the water below.

It was several hours before his body was located by skin divers.

Charles was last seen playing with two other youngsters.

But his playmates apparently failed to notice his fall, according to police.

Charles' mother, Mrs. Michael Snelling, of Louis Street, first noticed her son's disappearance shortly after noon.

CALL FROGMEN

Police carried out an intensive search of the area before calling in frogmen.

He leaves three young brothers: Peter, six; Teresa, four, and Donald, three.

His father is a longshoreman. Mrs. Snelling was still under sedation in hospital this morning.

Bonner Sets Golden Age Talk Theme

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will speak on The Golden Age at the eighth annual convention of the Society of Notaries Public of British Columbia on Tuesday, Oct. 5.

Mr. Bonner will speak at a banquet in the Crystal Ballroom beginning at 7 p.m. and will be introduced by Alex Matthews, MLA, who is secretary and general chairman of the convention.

L. St. M. DuMoulin, Q.C., chairman of the Benchers of the Law Society, will speak on Our Legal Inheritance at a banquet in the Crystal Ballroom Monday, Oct. 4, at 7 p.m.

Employees Win Honors

Employees of three Victoria business firms have qualified for outstanding citizenship awards in the current United Appeal campaign.

The more than 800 workers of Victoria Machinery Depot gave a total of $7,200, winning its fifth plaque award.

The five employees of Dominion Securities made contributions as did the eight staff members of General Motors Acceptance Corporation.

The "high-level" support from these two employee groups earned each a citation award.

'I Threw Father a Line—It Was Too Late'

By HUMPHREY DAVY

"I clambered up on deck just in time to see my father floundering in a heavy sea. I threw a line. It was too late."

In these words, a Victoria man today described how a wild sea took the life of his father Tuesday as he was on the verge of realizing a dream of sailing to the south seas.

Ronald L. McPhee, owner and builder of the 40-foot yacht, Resolution, was washed overboard in a mountainous sea about 60 miles west of La Push, Washington.

The accident occurred about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Aboard the yacht were his wife and son, Ian, 25. They were bound for the south seas, but planned to stop over at San Diego before sailing across the south Pacific.

Ian said he was below deck with his mother when he suddenly felt the boat lurch.

Suspecting something had gone wrong, he immediately went up on deck and saw his father in the wind-whipped sea. He threw a line but it was too late as the yacht was proceeding under power. Her mizzen sail and jib were also up.

His father was swallowed up by the huge sea by the time Ian got the boat turned about.

NO JACKET

"He didn't have a chance," said Ian. "He was wearing heavy clothing. He was not wearing a life jacket."

He didn't know how his father was washed overboard. The after-deck was dry despite a mountainous, breaking sea.

Mrs. McPhee and her son returned to Victoria at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday aboard the boat.

The elder Mr. McPhee was a machinist, who served in the navy during the war, and started his boat 11 years ago. He planned a three-year cruise in the South Pacific.

An ardent admirer of Capt. James Cook, he had named his boat after the famous explorer's sailing ship. He had taken an interest in archaeology and anthropology and was well versed in navigation.

TWO-WAY RADIO

The Resolution was equipped with a two-way radio. A fishing boat picked up the SOS message today.

and relayed the message to the RCN ocean-escort HMCS Stettler and Antigonish on manoeuvres off the Washington coast.

The message was relayed to a U.S. Coast Guard which immediately left for the scene.

A naval spokesman said the escorts turned away after the coast guard called off the search. That was about 9:30 p.m.

Besides his widow and son, Mr. McPhee is survived by three daughters of the family, Mrs. Kathy Quinlan, Mrs. Estella Daley and Mrs. Rita Weir, all of Victoria.

Mr. McPhee is formerly from Lillooet and Leyton. His family also resided for some time at Pechelrand before coming to Victoria.

Arthur Mayse

Today is as good a time as any for tying off a few items of unfinished business, among them the question posed by Guide leader Jeannie Reith, hours before she left on an overseas junket with a detachment of girls in blue.

The scheduled highlight of the tour was to be an international camp-out in Sweden, for which the maple leaf brigade was under orders to provide Canada's national dish.

"But what is it?" Mrs. Reith asked.

An anxious query which neither this department nor its readers could answer.

Well, Jeannie Reith is back now, and I gather from her report that the kids settled their quandary in typical Canadian fashion by splitting into provinces.

The British Columbia contingent whipped up a meal that featured Pacific salmon.

The girls from Alberta offered baked beans and sausage, although they would have preferred Calgary steaks.

Quebec supplied "tortieres," described as an old habitant dish consisting of ham gussied up with whatever odds and ends are available.

Sturdy New Brunswick pinned its colors to fried herring and collops.

Nova Scotia, and it pains me to reveal this, passed up its succulent chowders for spaghetti.

"We called it a North American meal," says Mrs. Reith of the sectionalized feast, "and everybody thought it was wonderful."

The 50-foot Malahat race canoe I told you about a couple of months ago is still gathering dust among the Motor-Vehicle Bureau building rafters, and since freeing it would mean ripping out the office complex which has grown up around it, the slim craft will probably remain there indefinitely.

While chasing information on that local mystery, though, I ran head-on into another.

What's happened to the twin eight-foot cannon that stood guard outside the old brick building on Menzies when it was the Fifth Artillery drill hall?

A plumber who was working in the Parliament buildings just before the Fifth pulled out to make room for the B.C. provincial police in 1923, tells me that the big muzzle-loaders—once guardians of a pioneer fort below Beacon Hill—were trundled around back, and buried.

Not so, another informant insists. The gun carriages may have been buried, but not the cannon. Those were carted off.

As scrap, or are they rusting obscurely, somewhere in Greater Victoria? Can anyone come up with the answer?

One-shot student rates will range from a high of $1.75 to 50 cents for the gods.

VICTORIA MAN DROWNS

'I Threw Father a Line—It Was Too Late'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

"I clambered up on-deck just in time to see my father floundering in a heavy sea. I threw a line. It was too late."

In these words a Victoria man today described how a wild sea took the life of his father Tuesday as he was on the verge of realizing a dream of sailing to the south seas.

Ronald L. McPhee, owner and builder of the 40-foot yacht, Resolution, was washed overboard in a mountainous sea about 60 miles west of La Push, Washington.

The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Aboard the yacht were his wife and son, Ian, 25. They were bound for the south seas, but planned to stop over at San Diego before sailing across the south Pacific.

Ian said he was below deck with his mother when he suddenly felt the boat lurch.

Suspecting something had gone wrong, he immediately went up on deck and saw his father in the wind-whipped sea. He threw a line but it was too late as the yacht was proceeding under power. Her mizzen sail and jib were also up.

His father was swallowed up by the huge sea by the time Ian got the boat turned about.

NO JACKET

"He didn't have a chance," said Ian. "He was wearing heavy clothing. He was not wearing a life jacket."

He didn't know how his father was washed overboard. The after-deck was dry despite a mountainous, breaking sea.

Mrs. McPhee and her son returned to Victoria at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday aboard the boat.

The elder Mr. McPhee was a machinist, who served in the navy during the war, and started his boat 11 years ago. He planned a three-year cruise in the South Pacific.

An ardent admirer of Capt. James Cook, he had named his boat after the famous explorer's sailing ship. He had taken an interest in archaeology and anthropology and was well versed in navigation.

TWO-WAY RADIO

The Resolution was equipped with a two-way radio. A fishing boat picked up the SOS message and relayed the message to the RCN ocean-escort HMCS Stettler and Antigonish on manoeuvres off the Washington coast.

The message was relayed to the U.S. Coast Guard which immediately left for the scene.

A naval spokesman said the escorts turned away after the coast guard called off the search. That was about 9:30 p.m.

Besides his widow and son, Mr. McPhee is survived by three daughters of the family, Mrs. Kathy Quinlan, Mrs. Estelle Daley and Mrs. Rita Weir, all of Victoria.

Mr. McPhee is formerly from Lillooet and Leyton. His family also resided for some time at Pechland before coming to Victoria.

Courts Can't Decide
Offshore Oil: Lesage

By JIM HUME

Genial Premier Jean Lesage of Quebec has a sore spot.

Offshore rights.

He told 2,000 high school and university students this morning that the federal government's decision to call on the Supreme Court of Canada for a decision on the problem was urged on him some years ago when he was federal minister of northern affairs.

"My advisers urged me then to send the matter to the Supreme Court," he said in answer to a question from the floor of the University of Victoria gymnasium. "But I refused. My stand at that time is the same as the stand I take today. The Supreme Court of Canada has no jurisdiction in this area. We have a constitution and the constitution is quite clear.

"When I was minister of northern affairs for the same party now in power I refused to submit the matter to the court as a federalist."

Mr. Lesage noted that he was by training a "constitution lawyer."

Of Canada's 10 provinces only two—Alberta and Saskatchewan—have declined to take a stand on the offshore rights issue.

Earlier, during a pre-speech press conference, Mr. Lesage declined detailed comment on Prime Minister Pearson's pledge to introduce a new proposal for education grants to the provinces.

"I have said before that until I see the proposals in detail I cannot comment," Mr. Lesage said. "But it is likely that we would opt out of such a program and ask for a fiscal rebate in place of the grant system."

Mr. Lesage took the same stand when asked for his opinion on the Pearson plan to spend $500 million over a

FIRST RACE: Nothing drives a handicapper up the wall quicker than trying to get a line on maiden three-year-olds. This lot has a notably undistinguished record. Of her last race Actella should have it pretty well her own way, but you never can tell. Barnaby has been lightly campaigned and has two fair works.

Axidental—looked pounds the best in her last and ran like she had three legs. Trejos may awaken her. If Kelly Joy gets in, the others should swallow all kinds of dust. . . . KELLY JOY (Actella, Axidental).

SECOND RACE: Whipaway is one of the few horses that lives up to its name. She should lead them the first part and could go all the way. Much depends on whether Trejos on Phanta's Girl elects to contest the lead or lay back. Magic Eye gets the post for her style and seems at her peak. Whether she will miss Broomfield remains to be seen. Assayador made one of his better rallies in his last but he's a factor only if the pace gets the supreme stagers. . . . MAGIC EVE (Phanta's Girl).

THIRD RACE: If he hadn't drawn the outside, Little Rooster might have been doing some crowing in the winner's circle. He's sharp and may be good enough to overcome the post but it's asking a lot. Otherwise the race is packed with fast ones: Colinda, Spree's Fancy and Turk's Girl all like to mizzle but they could kill each other off. Smart Dancer obviously can't handle mud but if he runs back to his Aug. 9 effort, he could get on the board. There's speed on the eligibles too but from the outside it's no picnic. . . . SPEE'S FANCY (Colinda).

FOURTH RACE: Amazing Message has been trying them all and come up with practically nothing. He drops again today and will probably draw most of the action. His three-eighths drill in 36 flat Thursday morning suggests he's ready but at the weight and considering his style Combs could have his hands full. If Amazing Message can't carry the mail, Fighting Hawk should. He has the benefit of a race over the track and it was a dandy. AMAZING MESSAGE (Fighting Hawk).

FIFTH RACE: At nine Alice Kaput should be tapering off but the evidence is to the contrary. Unless Mil Easy who has brief speed grabs the lead Shields should be right there with Alice.

ROBINSON

Believed Armed

By DESMOND BILL

Accused murderer David Robinson was still at large early this afternoon despite a massive island-wide manhunt.

The 24-year-old janitor, accused of the brutal sex-slaying of a 14-year-old girl, got away from Colquitz Jail with another inmate shortly after 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Authorities are still not sure exactly how they broke out.

But a spokesman for the attorney-general's department said today "it is assumed" they found "some means" to open a fire escape door that was chained and fastened with two large padlocks.

The padlocks were found intact after the breakout but authorities said the fire escape is the only way the two could have got out.

A week ago authorities foiled a plot to smuggle a gun into the prison. Police believe the gun was intended for Robinson.

Police today are acting on the assumption that Robinson and the other escapee, Stanley Heron, 19, are armed. Both men are considered extremely dangerous.

Robinson was being held in the maximum security section of the jail awaiting trial on the charge of capital murder of Susan Fresh in View Royal May 11.

Heron, who was serving a sentence for car theft, has twice before escaped from institutions. Police said he has a previous conviction for rape.

Unguarded for 2 Minutes

The escape occurred when Robinson and Heron, along with 46 other prisoners, were being returned to their cells in the west wing of the prison after supper in the dining room.

The guard counted all 48 present when they entered the west wing. He then went upstairs to the second floor to open a door that leads to their cells.

That took him about two minutes. When he returned, he found Robinson and Heron missing. He raised the alarm and all doors were immediately locked.

A spokesman said today the "only possible means" for the two prisoners to escape was through a fire escape door on the second floor landing. The fire escape door is protected by two master padlocks that require different keys to open them.

These padlocks were found to be intact after the escape. Authorities said "it is assumed" that in the time it took the guard to go up and unlock the door to the second floor, Robinson and Heron found "some means" to open the padlocked door.

A spokesman said the only evidence Robinson and Heron did get out in this way is that dust on the fire escape outside was disturbed.

He said no keys are missing.

S. Roxborough Smith, director of B.C. prisons, was at Colquitz Jail this morning to "personally examine administrative and security arrangements" at the prison. He is carrying out the examination personally on the orders of Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

A week ago jail authorities found a gun hidden on the prison grounds. They believe this was part of a plot to smuggle a gun inside the prison and pass it to Robinson.

Robinson, as a maximum security prisoner, was not allowed out on the grounds with working parties. But other prisoners, who are allowed out with working parties, came in contact with Robinson inside the prison.

It would be easy for one of them to pick up a gun left at a pre-arranged spot on the prison farm by an outsider and carry it back into jail for Robinson.

Jail authorities transferred one inmate out of the prison after the discovery of the gun. He is completing his sentence at another institution.

Attempt to Smuggle Gun

The attempt to smuggle a gun into the jail makes police think that Robinson could readily obtain help from friends and may already have been supplied with a weapon.

The probability that he and his companion are armed prevented police from beating the bush surrounding the jail in the darkness shortly after the escape.

But all available Saanich policemen were called into the

LONDON BANDITS NET $89,600 IN SCREAMING ROBBERY

'War Party' Attacks Payroll Car

LONDON (UPI)—A gang of 10 men, whooping like American Indians and armed with guns, axes and iron bars, today attacked a payroll car and its police escort and escaped with $89,600. Four automobiles were wrecked in the wild attack.

Three police in the escorting patrol car were injured. One had serious head injuries but the other two were able to leave the hospital after treatment. Also injured were the five employees of a building contractor in the car carrying the payroll and the driver of a steam roller who tried to block one of the getaway cars. Police captured one man. He was carrying a loaded revolver but apparently had made no attempt to use it.

About 10 men, wearing stocking masks, carried out the raid with split second timing at 10 a.m. in North London.

"It was just like a battle field," said road laborer Fred Nutt, 22. "The gang went berserk. They screamed as if they were Indians yelling war cries."

The payroll car, followed by the patrol car, was rounding a corner when a bandit car crashed into its front. Another bandit car drove into the police car, which crashed into the back of the payroll car.

"The gang seemed to rush all over the place hurling their truncheons and raining blows on the occupants of both cars," said Nutt.

Terrified housewives in the secluded street bolted their doors as the battle raged.

In the melee the gang grabbed only one of the three money bags in the payroll car.

All but one of the gang escaped in two other cars, leaving the policemen bleeding on the ground.

Nutt's colleague, George Devonshire, 50, was the man who tried to block one of the getaway cars with his steam roller.

"I moved my roller backwards to obstruct it," he said. "The next I knew, I was hit above the left eye and knocked semi-conscious."

Lemay, Wife in Bahamas,
Stewardesses Tell Police

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A lead to elusive George Lemay of Montreal, whose jail break here Tuesday night was alleged to have been engineered with a $35,000 promise, evaporated today in Nassau, The Bahamas. Bahamas police commissioner Nigel Morris said his men thoroughly searched all hotels and late Wednesday tracked down a man said to resemble the bank burglary suspect.

"The man we found was not the subject," Morris said. "It was a case of mistaken identity."

The Nassau hunt for Lemay began after a report that a couple resembling him and his wife, Lise, travelled by airliner from Miami to The Bahamas capital and resort city.

Two airline stewardesses said a couple that travelled on Mackey Airlines' flight to Nas-search overnight assisted by RCMP, Central Saanich police and city police dogmaster George Barr.

A check of all beaches was made and the U.S. Coast Guard was alerted to look out for small boats leaving the island. Police think Robinson and Heron may try to get away from this area by stealing a boat.

Police set up patrols at all harbors, ferries and the International Airport within an hour of the escape. Scores of road-blocks were thrown up all over Vancouver Island with seven on the highway to Nanaimo alone.

Police said Robinson, who has lived in Colwood most of his life, knows the area around the jail "like the back of his hand."

Robinson is considered dangerous by police and they are giving special protection to W. R. McIntyre, the lawyer who was Crown Prosecutor in the case against Robinson. Other persons involved in the Crown's case are also taking special precautions while Robinson is on the loose.

Police overnight stalked out the homes of Robinson's immediate family and were checking on the movements of his friends.

His mother said today, "I've no idea where he might have gone. I just don't want to talk about it."

introduction of universal medical care insurance.

The government's $500,000,000 proposal would amount to about $33,000,000 a year. Federal hospital construction grants to the provinces in the current fiscal year are placed at $20,000,000 in the government's main estimates.

One of the stated purposes of the proposed fund is to provide federal capital grants for hospital construction.

Attorney-General R. A. Donahoe, who is also health minister of Nova Scotia, said he was surprised that the decision was taken "before we even arrived here."

Health Minister Matthew Dymond of Ontario said that at the federal-provincial conference of premiers two months ago, Prime Minister Pearson said no decision could be taken on the amount of the grants until provincial views were heard.

Health Minister G. L. DuMont of New Brunswick said he was "a bit surprised—I'm astonished" that the figure was set at $500,000,000, adding "there may have been consultation but I hadn't heard of it."

BASED ON ESTIMATES

Miss LaMarsh, referring to the $500,000,000 as a "pool of money," said the figure had been arrived at by the federal government "after consultation with the provinces over several months" and on the basis of estimates submitted to her department by medical colleges and medical associations.

David Steuart, health minister of Saskatchewan, said the fund was inadequate if it is to be distributed on the basis of provincial populations. Saskatchewan would get one-twentieth of the $33,000,000 which would be available each year, and Saskatchewan's needs are far greater.

Mr. Donahoe said Nova Scotia's immediate needs are for $30,000,000 and like amounts were required by New Brunswick and possibly Newfoundland.

This, he said, would total almost three times the amount Ottawa was earmarking for the whole of Canada.

The provincial comments were made to reporters at a late-morning conference coffee-break. Delegates then returned to the closed meeting to go into the $500,000,000 fund proposed by Prime Minister Pearson in more detail.

He said in a statement the planned "health resources fund" would take effect next Jan. 1 and "by this means, the federal government would help the provinces to improve the quality of medical care available to Canadians."

"The basic purpose of the fund is to help meet the greater need for trained people to provide medicare services," the statement said.

"Through the fund, federal capital grants will be available for the construction, renovation and basic equipment of research establishments, teaching hospitals, medical schools and training facilities for other health personnel."

The prime minister said grants from the fund would not be available to meet the operating costs of such establishments.

sau Wednesday morning looked like Lemay and his wife, U.S.

immigration officials interviewed the stewardesses, whose names were not revealed.

Lemay, 39, one of the most searched-for men in the Western Hemisphere, is accused of taking part in a spectacular bank burglary in Montreal.

Sources in The Bahamas said two U.S. officials—one of them with the immigration department—arrived in Nassau to help in the search.

Earl Mixon, 31, a deputy sheriff until about a year ago, and Harold D. Algar, 27, were charged with helping Lemay escape. Algar was freed on $2,500 bond, Mixon was jailed.

PLANNED THE ESCAPE

Dade County Sheriff T. A. Buchanan claimed that Mixon and Lemay's attractive wife Lisa, 29, planned the escape "from the outside." The sheriff accused Algar, a security officer at the Dade County jail, as being "the inside man."

Buchanan said $35,000 was offered as the price for liberating Lemay, who scrambled 90 feet down a cable Tuesday night from the seventh floor of the 10-story jail.

The sheriff said Algar took Lemay from his fifth-floor cell to a "hold cell" on the ground floor about 11 a.m. Tuesday and left the door unlocked. Lemay then went to the 10th floor, picked up the 1½-inch cable, went down to the seventh floor, lashed the cable to a plumbing fixture and lowered himself out the window, said the sheriff.

A warrant has been issued for Lemay on charges of breaking and entering and theft of $300,000 in connection with the robbery of the Montreal branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia in 1961.

Lemay was arrested last May aboard a fancy yacht he kept at Fort Lauderdale. He was identified from wanted poster seen on the Early Bird satellite television program.

China
Accused
By U.S.

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg accused Communist China today of trying to dominate the world and said U.S. action in South Viet Nam is aimed at keeping that country from being a first victim.

He made the statement in a major policy speech to the 117-country United Nations General Assembly in which he accused Peking of seeking to change world order "by force and violence."

He also disclosed a new proposal under which the Soviet Union and the United States would agree to destroy some of their nuclear weapons.

He invited other countries to visit the U.S. experimental site for detecting nuclear explosions. It is located at Montana. The invitation was for Oct. 12 and 13.

He issued the invitation to underscore U.S. willingness to negotiate a comprehensive nuclear test-ban treaty.

CELESTIAL TREATY

He proposed also that the UN begin work on a comprehensive treaty for the international exploitation of celestial bodies.

He called attention to President Johnson's program to create a "great society" in the U.S. and declared this could be applied to the UN as well.

His attack on Communist China came in a defence of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

He said that Peking's present philosophy "can only lead to the most disastrous consequences for the entire world."

As to U.S. actions in South Viet Nam, he said: "We are helping to meet this challenge because we feel it must be met. And our goals in South Viet Nam are plain and simple. We seek only to ensure the independence of South Viet Nam, its freedom from attack and opportunity for its people to determine their own future."

India Continues
To Fight Guerrillas

(United Press International)

India said today its troops would continue to fight Pakistani guerrillas in Kashmir despite the Wednesday ceasefire order.

It accused Pakistan of sending in infiltrators elsewhere along the front after the ceasefire.

Indian Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan told Parliament "operations to liquidate armed Pakistani infiltrators into Kashmir" would continue. He also said action is being taken to deal with the other infiltrators he said were "bad characters" out to loot Indian property.

Both countries battled right up to the last minute to gain as much ground as possible before the ceasefire silenced the guns, ending the 22-day-old war. Pakistan reported sinking an Indian frigate in a last-minute naval battle; India denied the report.

Indian officers at Amritsar, which was bombed just before the ceasefire went into effect, accused Pakistani planes of using flaming napalm during the night to try to silence the Indian guns.

The Pravda commentary refrained from making an open attack on Chinese policy, despite bitter editorials from Peking aimed against the Kremlin's neutral stand in the India-Pakistan conflict.

"At the last federal-provincial meeting of premiers Quebec suggested that the federal government should introduce a plan to train more doctors and nurses," he said. "We were joined by the other provinces who also suffer from the lack of trained personnel. But until I see Mr. Pearson's proposal in black and white I have no other comment."

In his speech to the student-jammed gymnasium, the Quebec premier called for greater tolerance and understanding between French speaking and English-speaking Canadians.

"We have no intention of asking English Canada to change its ways of life or culture," he said. "We are not trying to impose on you. Does English Canada feel the same way towards us? We (also) want to be accepted as we are with all our flaws."

PROVINCIAL AUTONOMY

Speaking strongly for greater provincial autonomy, Mr. Lesage said he was not defending such a move just on a matter of principle.

And he stressed that Quebec's attitude was not a threat to confederation. "But it is a threat to federalism as it was being lived a couple of years ago," he added. "I think our political system is flexible enough to allow one of the groups that founded this country to live with its own culture and traditions."

Mr. Lesage said Quebec's greatest fear was the slow infiltration of the central government which would whittle away the guarantees given French-speaking Canadians in 1867.

GREAT DANGER

"There is a great danger that we might lose some of those guarantees," he said. "We fear central government interference in provincial matters . . . for the threat in some cases may be minor but would establish a precedent."

Premier Lesage, whose ancestors came to Canada 300 years ago from Normandy, said that in the early days the French colonial living in a British colony was forced "to turn inwards to survive."

But he said that now Quebec had entered a new era and wants to take its rightful place in Canadian affairs.

He appealed to the students "who have not lived in prejudice" to retain open minds when approaching the existing problem.

And he repeated a theme mentioned at his earlier press conference: "(Canada) is a mosaic, but you can have a beautiful mosaic and a strong Canada."
